Report Kennedy Family Doing Well

WASHINGTON (AP) — All four members of the John F. Kennedy family were doing very well Saturday — by direct testimony and authoritative report.

The father and president-elect visited his wife and new son at Georgetown University Hospital and then told newsmen all is well with them and him.

Dr. John W. Walsh, who delivered John F. Kennedy Jr. by Caesarean section early Friday, sent word through Kennedy's press secretary that the mother, Jacqueline, 31, "is recovering rapidly—more rapidly than from her first child." Caroline, 3, also was a Caesarean baby.

As for Caroline, press secretary Pierre Salinger said she has accepted warmly the news of her little brother's arrival and regards him as a special sort of gift marking her third birthday Sunday.

The Kennedy son, 6 pounds, 3 ounces at birth, remained in an incubator Saturday and was reported taking and retaining his first nourishment—sips of sweetened water. A couple of days' incubator care for slightly premature, caesarean infants is routine.

Up to midday Mrs. Kennedy had not seen her son but will peep at him through the incubator window —as her husband has done—whenever her strength permits a wheelchair trip from her room.

Kennedy was accompanied to the hospital Saturday morning by Dr. Janet Travell, a New York City specialist who has treated Kennedy's back, hurt in his youth and re-injured in World War II. This stirred speculation that the president-elect might be having a recurrence of his old trouble.

But Salinger told reporters this is not the case. He said Dr. Travell is an old friend of the family and made the trip to Washington only to see the baby.

The traditional question of whom the baby looks like remained unanswered after Kennedy's 15-minute morning visit. Asked about it, he told reporters, "I'll let you know" — presumably when he makes up his own mind.

Information from hospital sources has been limited to the word that the baby has dark hair and is a handsome little fellow. The public will have to wait to make its own judgment because pictures will not be allowed for another week or 10 days.

ECHO SATELLITE TIMETABLE

WASHINGTON (AP)— Illinois residents will have 10 opportunities to view the Echo I satellite between tonight and next Saturday, weather permitting.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration gave this timetable:

Nov. 27—6:24 p.m., 69 to 81 degrees above north horizon.

Nov. 28—at 5:23 p.m., almost overhead, but north of Illinois cities.

Nov. 29—two passes: 5:22 p.m., almost directly overhead but north of Springfield and Chicago, south of Rockford and Moline; 7:27 p.m., 54 to 65 degrees above north horizon.

Nov. 30—two passes: 4:32 p.m., almost directly overhead, and 6:56 p.m., about 54 to 65 degrees above north horizon.

Dec. 1—6:26 p.m., 54 to 66 degrees above north horizon.

Dec. 2—5:55 p.m., 56 to 67 degrees above north horizon.

Dec. 3—5:24 p.m., 58 to 70 degrees above north horizon.

Priest Arrested With Girl Waives Extradition

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest arrested in a motel with a teen-age girl waived extradition Saturday and was to be returned to Superior, Wis.

Charged with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and kidnaping by deceit, The Rev. Lawrence Dudink, 47, was in jail under $5,000 bond. Wisconsin statutes provide a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison for the charges.

Juvenile authorities declined to say whether Rosalie Anne O'Connell, 17, a high school junior at Gilbert, Minn., spoke about her trip with the priest.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad O'Connell, were expected to arrive in Phoenix sometime Sunday to take the girl home.

The pair disappeared Nov. 8 from St. Mary's Hospital in Superior, where Father Dudink was a chaplain. Both had received mental treatment.

Arizona FBI Chief Edward L. Boyle said the priest was registered at the motel as a layman. But he said he didn't know whether the couple were registered as man and wife, although they were living together.

With only $1.16 on his person when he was arrested, Dudink told officers he had planned to look for work.

In Bay St. Louis., Miss., the Rev. Robert Hunter said Dudink had been suffering from alcoholism for 12 years. But Father Hunter, provincial for the Southern Province of Society of Divine Word, said he does not know what disciplinary measures will be taken.

4 Scientists In Field Of Animal Husbandry Cited

CHICAGO (AP)—Four scientists in the field of animal husbandry received citations Friday night during the 52nd annual meeting of the American Society of Animal Production.

Dr. Lanoy N. Hazel, professor of animal breeding at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa, received the society's 1,500 Morrison award for adapting statistical methods to modern husbandry.

Awards of $1,000 each went to Dr. B. Connor Johnson, professor of animal biochemistry at the University of Illinois; W. H. Bruner, animal science specialist at Ohio State University, and Dr. M. E. Ensminger, head of the animal science department at Washington State University.

Fellow awards of the society went to five men. They are:

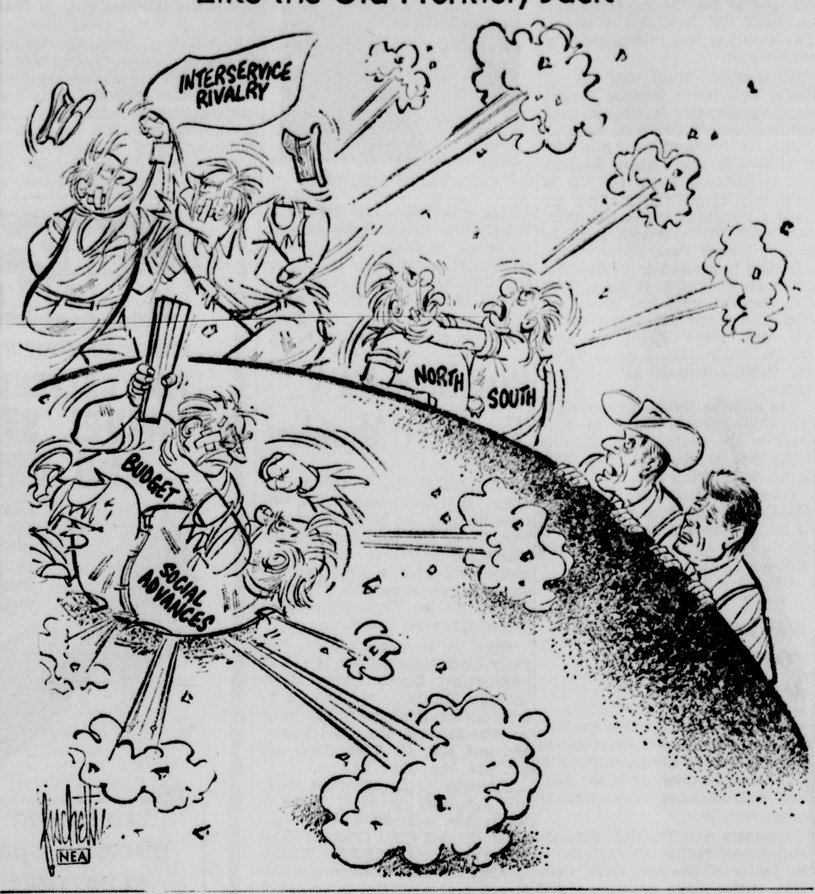

Dr. T. C. Byerly, deputy administrator, U.S. Agricultural research Service; Dr. W. G. Kammlade, University of Illinois; Dr. H. E. Robinson, a Chicago laboratory direcotor; Dr. H. H. Mitchell, University of Illinois, and W. J. Loeffel, University of Nebraska.

Animal scientists cited include Dr. V. A. Rice, University of North Carolina, and two professors, E. F. Ferrin of St. Paul, Minn., and P. S. Shearer, Iowa State University.

The society elected new officers including:

President, H. H. Stonaker, of Colorado State University; vice president, T. J. Cunha of University of Florida.

Louisiana Legislature Meets, Seeks To Wreck Integration

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature, seeking ways to wreck school integration, returns Sunday with some members trying to block the state's 10 electoral vote for John F. Kennedy.

Should legal maneuvering in Illinois result in the 27 electorial votes — now credited to Kennedy — going to Vice President Richard M. Nixon, any switch in Louisiana's 10 electoral votes won by Kennedy could play a key national role.

But Louisiana's 10 electors, who will cast their vote here Dec. 19, insisted they are firmly behind the president-elect and any attempt to cripple them would be met with a court battle.

Gov. James H. (Jimmie) Davis, who formed a coalition with top segregationists and Shelby M. Jackson, the politically powerful state superintendent of education, to combat the school integration of four Negro girls in two New Orleans schools, remained silent on the elector showdown.

City Judge Edmund Reggie, of Crowley, an elector and a Davis supporter, said Saturday, "I have not heard anything from Gov. Davis on this, nor have I heard that he has discussed the matter with other electors.

"Frankly," Reggie added, "I believe Gov. Davis will abide by the vote of the majority of the people Nov. 8 and not interfere with the electors."

Kennedy carried Louisiana, with its heavy Roman Catholic population in southern Louisiana, by 176,000 votes over Richard M. Nixon. A states rights slate of unpledged electors ran third.

The elector question was touched off when State Sen. Howard Jones, St. Joseph, with nine cosponsors in the 39-member Senate said he would introduce a resolution requesting the 10 electors not to vote for anyone who doesn't take a stand on the question of states' regulating their own schools. None of the sponsors first revealed on the proposal are Davis administration leaders.

Earlier, Kennedy told a Louisiana delegation it would be inappropriate for him to comment, as the legislature had asked, on federal courts restraining the Legislature.

Backers of unpledged electors hoped to put together a Southern bloc. There are eight unpledged electors in Mississippi, six in Alabama.

New Zealand Returns To Free Enterprise, Ousts Socialists

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — New Zealand is switching back to free enterprise government after three years under Socialist rule.

A general election Saturday restored the conservative-minded National Party to power. The Laborites of Prime Minister Walter Nash, who squeezed out a narrow victory in 1957, were ousted.

The Nationals took 45 of the 80 seats in New Zealand's single-house Parliament. The Laborites, who held 41 seats in the old Parliament, dropped to 35, according to unofficial returns.

Nash, 78, conceded to Keith J. Holyoake, 56, a farmer who heads the National party and is in line to take over the prime ministry.

"We will build a nation in the South Pacific," Holyoake said in a broadcast to New Zealand's 2.4 million people.

Two small parties—Social Credit and the Communists—repeated their 1957 performance by getting not a single seat.

Absentee ballots could change one or two seats at most, still leaving the National party in command.

New Zealand is a British Commonwealth nation composed of two large islands and a group of smaller ones. New Zealand belongs to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and is linked with Australia and the United States under a 1952 defense alliance the ANZUS treaty.

Foreign policy had almost no bearing in the election campaigns of the two major parties. Both pledged continued close bonds with the Commonwealth, the United Nations, SEATO and ANZUS. The big stress by each party was on slightly reduced taxes.

But the National party promised, in addition, and end to compulsory union membership. It promised cheaper housing loans and general reliance on personal incentive, free interprise and private ownership.

New Zealand had 14 years of socialism under the Labor party from 1935 to 1949. The National party ruled for the next eight years, up to the last general election in 1957.

Debre To Present Independence To Mauritania

ROME (AP)—Premier Michel Debre of France left Rome by plane for Mauritania Saturday night to make the formal presentation of independence to the French territory in West Africa.

The French premier in a Tuesday stopover here joined with Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani in calling for strengthening of "political understanding among European nations, and especially among the members of the European Common Market." The two men also urged a renewal of "serious negotiations" on disarmament as soon as possible.

The threatened break-up of Western Europe into rival economic blocs was to have been the major subject for discussion between the French and Italian leaders during Debre's official visit, as it had been during the visit here of British Premier Harold Macmillan earlier in the week.

But a communique on the talks made no mention of attempts to resolve the differences between the Common Market, of which France and Italy are members, and the British-led European Free Trade Association (Outer Seven).

GRANDMA STEPS OUT

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Grandma's a resident of the Methodist Home for the Aged, but you wouldn't know it to see her driving her car.

Mrs. Marie Stadel, 73, is the proud owner and driver of a flashy, red foreign-made sports car.

She purchased the car in March, explaining:

"I simply took a look at the 23-year-old blue Ford I had driven since 1937 and decided it was time for a change."

Premier Blames Foreigners For Peace Failure In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Prince Souvanna Phouma, Laos' neutralist premier, charged Saturday that foreigners are interfering in his attempts to restore political peace.

Souvanna did not mention any names in a speech before a cheering rally of 2,000. But he often has accused the United States of supporting the right-wing rebel regime of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and has suggested that Washington back him exclusively in Laos.

However, Souvanna has made no formal demands for an end to U.S. help for Phoumi, an anti-Communist strong man in previous Laotian regimes.

Phong Phongasavan, former president of the National Assembly and organizer of the rally, made a speech to the crowd calling on the premier to do so. Souvanna ignored the request.

"I have only one desire," said Souvanna, "to bring peace to all our people. But foreign interference, which certain people have taken advantage of for their own ends, has created a very dangerous situation.

"I hope and pray that we can get together and that the wishes of our people will prevail. But if we are thwarted, we will fight. And if we do, we will win."

Souvanna said that if his government does not work out a truce among the country's political factions and therefore collapses, open war will break out between Phoumi's pro - Western forces and the Communist - led Pathet Lao rebels, who have been waging civil war on their own for six years.

Souvanna is attempting an extremely delicate political balancing act. He has asked the Pathet Lao and Phoumi's right-wingers to join his government, proposed sending goodwill missions to Communist China and North Viet Nam, agreed to accept Soviet aid, and asked the United States to back up all these measures.

Lawmakers Back NATO Control Over Missiles

U.S. Has Custody Of Nuclear Warheads

PARIS (AP) — Leading lawmakers from Atlantic pact countries agreed Saturday that the governments of the 15 NATO nations should have a voice in the use of the alliance's missile strength. But they declined to take steps toward making NATO a nuclear power on its own.

About 200 members of parliaments of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization members ended their annual conference with a unanimous resolution for the NATO Council, which meets here next month. It urged the council to develop "political authority" over aircraft, missiles, Polaris submarines and other methods of delivering a nuclear bomb to an enemy target.

The specific type of authority was not spelled out, but from previous discussion it would mean some kind of control of an Allied political body rather than U.S. military commanders.

U.S. officers, acting under orders from the President, have custody of the nuclear warheads that pack the punch of the U.S. missiles and bombers in Western Europe. But the actual use of the weapons — operating launching sites or air bases, for example—is shared between the United States and the countries where they are stationed.

The NATO parliamentarians had been asked to consider a new idea—putting missiles and even their nuclear warheads under the collective control of the alliance. That would have made NATO a world nuclear power on its own.

The parliamentarians — whose recommendations are purely advisory—refused to go that far. They want to see NATO in control of the missiles but sidestepped a decision on the warheads, which would remain under U.S. control.

They also called for creation of a strongly armed and highly mobile NATO "fire brigade" that could use conventional or nuclear weapons to repel any attack on NATO territory, which stretches from Alaska across North America and Europe to eastern Turkey.

The parliamentarians acted after hearing hints from Paul-Henri Spaak, NATO secretary - general, that the next U.S. administration may make what Spaak described as a very important proposal on the subject of nuclear armament.

Just back from a visit to Washington, where he conferred with top American officials and with spokesmen for President - elect John F. Kennedy, Spaak conceded that for the moment nothing has been definitely decided by the Americans.

The final resolution mentioned only the use of nuclear weapons and not their custody. Thus it represented an apparent compromise between the proponents of making NATO an atomic power and others who feel that putting nuclear arms in NATO's hands would unduly complicate a vital command problem in which decisions to retaliate must be taken within minutes.

Putting nuclear arms under NATO control would give all 15 members an equal voice in their use. This may help convince the smaller nations, and especially West Germany, that they do not need their own atomic bomb to stand on an equal footing with the United States.

'Missionary Stew'

Eating Of Enemy Revived In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — The ancient ritual of eating your enemy is making a secret comeback in the Congo backwoods.

Unrest sweeping the country and the fact Belgian punitive measures no longer are to be feared contribute to the revival of cannibal witchcraft.

The Belgian administration and Christian missionaries never quite stamped out the belief among the isolated and primitive tribes that eating your enemy will strengthen you.

Among some Baluba clans in Kasai and north Katanga, in the remote border regions of Oriental Province and in the swamps of the middle Congo, human flesh is again eaten in secret tribal ritual —not as a delicacy or for nourishment, but for the magic properties of a dead enemy's limbs and organs.

The heart brings courage, the brain intelligence, and the legs speed, according to the witch doctors. They hold that the more dreaded and hated the enemy, the more powerful the magic.

But never is a man sacrificed in cold blood simply to be eaten, as in the cartoonists' "missionary stew." The magic of the warrior tribesmen requires a body slain in combat or in vengeance.

U.N. officials are convinced that one of the eight Irish soldiers killed in a recent Baluba ambush in northern Katanga was eaten in a cannibal ritual.

His body disappeared from where he had died under a hail of arrows. It never has been recovered. Experts in tribal customs believe he was selected from the eight victims as most suited for their rites.

Two Tunisians killed earlier in tribal fighting in southern Kasai are known to have been partly consumed in similar ceremonies.

The pilot of a single-seater Belgian observation plane shot down by Congolese mutineers near Inkisi in July never was found. A Congolese blandly told searchers: "The people were so enraged they ate him."

All those familiar with the more primitive Congo tribes report a conspiracy of silence concerning the cannibal rites. Even in the cities Africans become silent and hard of hearing when the matter is raised.

Two Pacifists Free On Bond, Four In Jail

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Two self-styled pacifists, opposed to construction of Polaris-firing nuclear submarines, were released under bail Saturday from New Haven state jail.

Of nine pacifists arrested Tuesday in Groton for trying to interfere with the launching of the Polaris submarine Ethan Allen, four remained in the jail here.

The two released Saturday, Victor Richman, 20, and Roger Aarons, 19, both of New York City, chose temporary freedom after about 24 hours in isolation cells.

Richman, Aarons and another of the pacifist group, Donald Martin, 20, of Wellesley, Mass., were placed in solitary confinement Friday for breaking jail rules.

The trio at first was determined to remain in solitary, despite an offer by jail authorities to return them to regular cells.

But by Saturday morning, they were ready to be taken out of the isolation cells. And Richman and Aarons left with a U. S. marshal to post the necessary bond for their freedom.

A hearing is set for Monday.

Officials said Richman, Aarons and Martin were placed in solitary for refusing to go to the prison mess or to return to their cells.

Holiday Nears End, Fatalities Rise Steadily

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic	301
Fires	38
Miscellaneous	76
Total	415

Traffic deaths increased sharply Saturday as the long Thanksgiving weekend moved into its final and most dangerous hours—the period when homebound holiday travelers and short-trip drivers fill the highways.

The death rate slackened Friday when many persons went back to work after a one-day holiday. But it then climbed steadily when motorists swelled post-Thanksgiving traffic.

The final phase — the period when highways are clogged with homeward - bound travelers and short-trip drivers — is the period regarded most warily by safety officials. During these last 24 hours, they explain, fatigue and impatience to reach home play a somber role on the highways.

The current death rate tended to underscore the gloomy forecasts. Late Saturday night, the death rate quickened from a midpoint lull of about two an hour to about six an hour.

The National Safety Council did not estimate the number who might die in traffic during the current weekend. However, it said that 407 persons would normally be killed on the highways during a four-day weekend at this time of year.

The council says travel on Thanksgiving is not as heavy as on other major holidays.

An Associated Press nonholiday weekend count two weeks ago showed 433 traffic deaths, 69 fire deaths and 144 in other accidents for a total of 646.

Thanksgiving weekend a year ago claimed 445 lives in traffic, 70 in fires and 135 in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 650.

The record for highway deaths and over-all accident deaths for a four-day holiday period was set during Christmas weekend of 1959 and 706 died in traffic and the total accident toll was 884.

The current holiday period ends at midnight, local time, Sunday.

Seek Convicted Murderer In Alessio Kidnaping Case

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A nationwide manhunt was on Saturday for a convicted murderer after the cash payment of $200,000 for the release of a kidnaped wealthy San Diego sportsman.

The hunted man is believed to have more than half of the ransom cash in his possession.

The victim, Anthony Alessio, 41, is back with his family, unharmed after his ordeal.

The Alessio family, one of the wealthiest in San Diego, operates the Caliente Racetrack at Tijuana, Mexico, just south of here, and the Hotel Del Coronado.

Three persons have been arrested for the kidnaping but a fourth, Frank Marrone, 31, is still at large and is believed to have $122,500 of the Alessio money.

Marrone's neighbors at an apartment house said he once told them: "I'm going to make a lot of money some day. And I'm going to make it at Caliente Racetrack.

The FBI said it understood Marrone, a former bartender, was tried at Anchorage, Alaska, in 1958 and convicted of second-degree murder in the killing of another bartender. The FBI said their information is that he is at liberty in that case on $30,000 bond pending an appeal.

Alessio was kidnaped from his luxurious San Diego home Tuesday afternoon, but word of the crime was kept secret until Friday night as FBI agents and police worked on the case.

Alessio returned from the racetrack and was kidnaped as he stepped out of his white Cadillac. He was driven to a vacant residence and then to a motel.

Soon Alessio's wife, Virginia, received a call demanding $650,000 for her husband's release and warning her that he would be killed instantly if authorities were notified.

This was the first in a series of phone calls and communications. The Alessio family, which includes Alessio's six brothers, finally talked the kidnapers into accepting $200,000 for the abducted man's release.

Following instructions, a brother, John Alessio, placed the money in bills of $100 and less in a duffel bag and drove to a parking lot in Hollywood Wednesday night. He left the bag in the unlocked car and walked away. A man removed the bag and disappeared in heavy traffic that was connected with a Santa Claus parade in Hollywood that night.

Ninety minutes later Alessio was found by FBI agents in the San Diego motel, still handcuffed and blindfolded, but unharmed. The family had received a call telling them where Alessio could be found.

Shortly after Alessio was freed three persons were arrested in Los Angeles in the case. They are Robert James Gorman, 29, an escapee from the Men's Prison at Chino, Calif., where he was serving five years to life for robbery; his wife, Ruby Elaine, 30, and Selma Clark Marrone, 25, of Los Angeles. With their arrest FBI agents recovered $77,500 of the ransom money.

Mrs. Marrone is the wife of the man still being sought.

Name Scotia Man Top Steer Feeder

CHICAGO (AP) — Tilden J. Burg, 65, of Sciota, Ill., was declared the nation's top steer feeder Saturday for the third consecutive year.

His medium-weight load of Aberdeen Angus was picked as the grand champion carload of steers at the International Live Stock Exposition.

The runnerup was a family team, Karl and Jack Hoffman of Ida Grove, Iowa, winners of the title more than a half dozen times.

Burg feeds 600 to 1,800 steers a year on his 1,020-acre farm 15 miles northwest of Macomb. He generally buys the calves in October and feeds them 13 or 14 months on oats, corn and good quality hay. Last year, his winning carload sold at $56 a hundred pounds when the top price at the Chicago stock yards was $29.

TOWN ON THE MOVE—Prefabricated homes roll through Chicago on railroad flatcars. Forty houses were being shipped 2,200 miles from Carlisle, Ind., to Seattle, Wash., via Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad. From Seattle, they will go by barge to their destination—Anchorage, Alaska. Almost ready for occupancy, the houses are equipped with appliances, hot water tanks, heating systems, and electrical wiring

With The Girl Scouts

Many turkeys have been consumed and many Thanksgiving favors made and delivered this past week by Girl Scout troops in Illinois Prairie Council and now everyone is looking forward to Christmas with its many facets for troop activities. Pine cone decorations head the list at present and many a leader's home has a room full of assorted cones drying out in readiness for spray painting.

Practice for Christmas caroling has begun in many troops and plans for taking small gifts and Christmas favors to nursing homes and hospitals have been laid. The next few weeks will see much troop activity in preparation for Christmas.

Members of the training committee of the Board of Directors met Monday morning at the Scout office and set up plans for another basic training course for new leaders to be held on Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. Be sure to mark the dates on your calendar now.

Next week's meetings will all be held on Friday: Public Relations committee will meet at 9:30 a.m. at the Scout office and the program committee at 11:30 a.m. the same day at Hamilton's cafe.

There will not be any neighborhood meetings in Illinois Prairie Council during the month of December. Board committees and the Board of Directors will meet as usual.

Convention Visitors

Mrs. Robert Hemphill of this city and Miss Adrienne Wickendon of MacMurray College visited the National Council of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. in St. Louis last Tuesday, spending the entire day at the meetings.

Miss Carey Ammerman of MacMurray College accompanied the three local delegates to the convention on Monday and returned to Jacksonville with Mrs. Hemphill and Miss Wickendon on Tuesday.

Visitors on Wednesday were Mrs. George Lashmett of Winchester and Mrs. Bona Adkins of White Hall. These ladies attended in full uniform.

Thursday visitors for the day were Mrs. William Gross, Mrs. George Trutter and Mrs. Floyd Sorrill, all of this city.

Mrs. George McNamara of Jacksonville was a full-time visitor and remained for the full five days.

When the delegates returned to this city they were accompanied by Mrs. Stanley Montgomery, daughter of Dr. Garm Norbury and Miss Kemp, both of Hartford, Conn. Miss Kemp is president and camp chairman of the Hartford Council of Girl Scouts. Also returning to Jacksonville with the delegates was Miss Ann Soiter of New York, a district director in Scouting, who visited a friend at MacMurray College.

Troop News

Troop No. 89 of Washington school advanced in Scouting rank last week when 20 girls in the troop "flew up" from Brownies to Intermediate Girl Scouts. Mothers of the girls attended the candlelight ceremony held at Washington school. Refreshments were served following the program. Mrs. H. G. Kant is the troop leader and she is assisted by Mrs. John Sauerwein and Mrs. Robert Reeve. The troop has just re-registered for another year.

Intermediate Troop No. 85 of Bluffs, Mrs. Norris Whorton, leader, made Thanksgiving favors last week and took them to Passavant hospital.

Girls of Intermediate Troop No. 81 of Our Saviour's school made a trip to Hudson's Dairy recently in which they all participated. They enjoyed a treat after touring the dairy. Last week this troop took a nature hike at Nichols Park and environs, collecting pine cones to be used for Christmas decorating projects. They also observed trees and plants and discovered a tiny owl. Troop leaders are Mrs. Floyd Sorrill and Mrs George Trutter. These ladies visited the National Council as mentioned earlier.

Thanksgiving favors were taken to the Smith nursing home on East Beecher by the girls of Brownie Troop No. 96 last week. Mrs. Ruth Ronat is the troop leader.

Brownie Troop No. 98, Mrs. Ralph Mudd leader, made and took favors to the Bell nursing home on Jordan street. Both troops are at Jefferson school.

WESLEYAN SINGERS TO ENTERTAIN AT ASHLAND HIGH

ASHLAND—The Apollo quartet, popular male singers organization from Illinois Wesleyan university, will present a program in the Ashland high school on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 29.

Members are Douglas Amman, senior from Fulton, Ill.; Jim Stahly, junior of Normal; Gene Cousins, junior from Evanston; and Roger Rilling, sophomore from Rockford. The accompanist is Sam Anliker, a senior from Secor.

The Apollo quartet has had a continuing existence as a Wesleyan music ensemble for 34 years, making it one of the oldest collegiate organizations of its kind in the state. Continuity is maintained by replacement of graduating personnel each year. The appearance in this city is one of ten programs the Apollos are doing this week in area high schools.

ADVERTISE—IT PAYS

Routt Choice

CATHERINE McGINNIS

The senior class and faculty at Routt High School have selected Catherine McGinnis to represent the school as its Good Citizen for the DAR awards this year.

Miss McGinnis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McGinnis, 516 State street, Beardstown, Ill.

Pittsfield PTA To Meet Monday

PITTSFIELD—The Pittsfield High School and Elementary P.T.A. will meet together on Monday evening, Nov. 28, at 8:00 p.m. in the senior high school auditorium. Each organization will have a short business session before the meeting. The meeting will be the Youth White House Conference panel report.

Those on the panel will be Mrs. Perry Lindley, Springfield; Mrs. Kenneth Fuller, Lincoln; Mrs. Meyer Shulman, Pittsfield; and William Albers, Quincy. Hostesses will be junior parents: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stilwell, Mr. and Mrs. G. VanderStoep and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hayden.

November is an important month in P.T.A. with American Education Week, Nov. 6-12; Book Week, Nov. 13-19; National Child Guidance Week Nov. 27-Dec. 3, R.I.A.L. Religion in American Life, to encourage families to worship together in the church of their choice. As this will probably be the only time this panel will report in Pike County, invitations have been extended to all Parent-Teacher Associations in the county, to all principals and school personnel, and to all school board members. Others interested are welcome.

Completes Training

Philip Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones of Pittsfield, is visiting his parents. Phil has completed his boot training in the Navy. He has been in San Diego since September when he enlisted for three years and will return to San Diego on Tuesday for a six months course in machinists repair school.

Notes

The Women of the Methodist church will serve a chili soup dinner with pie, sandwiches and coffee on Thursday, Dec. 8, at the Orr Memorial hall. Serving starts at 11 a.m.

Pittsfield has received for the city sales tax for the month of September, $3,732.76. This has been applied to the new lake project fund, which brings the city's total tax collected to $99,419.86 for the 26 months period during which the tax has been assessed.

The annual luncheon of the Illini Community Hospital Auxiliary will be held on Monday, Dec. 5, at 1:00 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Shulman. Guests are invited and reservations should be made by Dec. 2 with Mrs. Dave Webel.

THANKSGIVING DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Koehler enjoyed a turkey dinner Thanksgiving at the home of Edgar Koehler and family in Springfield.

Ends Training

HAROLD DENNIS BRANNAN

Harold Dennis Brannan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brannan of Virginia, has completed recruit training at the Naval training station Great Lakes, Illinois and is now spending a fourteen day recruit leave with his family and friends in Virginia.

Fireman Brannan, enlisted in the Navy through the Jacksonville Navy Recruiting Office in June and was guaranteed a school under the High School Graduating Training Program. While in Recruit Training he chose the Electrician Mate School and he was selected to attend the class convening December 12, at Great Lakes, Illinois.

Upon completion of this school Harold will be assigned to a Navy ship or Shore Base as an Electrician's Mate.

ADVERTISE—IT PAYS

Plan Annual Drive Dec. 1-7 For White Hall Hospital

WHITE HALL—The third annual drive for the White Hall Hospital will be held from Dec. 1 to Dec. 7, with members of the White Hall Hospital Auxiliary and American Legion Auxiliary making a door to door canvass.

Before the new hospital was properly equipped and the old area brought up to state requirements, an indebtedness was incurred by the hospital directors of $71,500. The proceeds from the 1958 and 1959 drives paid off past due and pressing debts, leaving the amount due as of today $50,000.

As has been previously outlined, the hospital receives no tax monies, nor are there any endowment funds, the only funds obtainable being those received from the annual drives and the income from the operation of the hospital itself. On the latter case it has been gratifying to know that the income from business during the past two years has been sufficient to meet the operating expenses. During the 12 month period ending Oct. 1, 1960, the amount of business done was $73,865.02 and this was enough to meet the operating expenses of $73,652.02, for the same period. The expense figure included the annual payroll of $43,929.90.

The current drive must be made to meet the regular payments on the loan principal listed above, and as time passes more equipment, repairs and replacements are needed. For instance, boiler repairs during the past year ran over $300. This was an extraordinary expense which did not fall under the category of operating expenses and was paid for out of the funds of the 1959 drive.

If residents respond as readily as they did during the last drive, the success of the current one is assured. Please give as generously as you can, for as many have learned the White Hall Hospital is a necessity in the community.

MRS. EVERETT WOODS IS ASHLAND CHURCH CIRCLE HOSTESS

ASHLAND— The Ada Walbaum Circle of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Everett Woods, with Mrs. Pearl Reed assisting.

Mrs. Mabel Riley presided at the meeting. At the business meeting, plans were completed for the chili supper to be held at the church on Tuesday, Nov. 29. Committees were announced for the bazaar as well as for the chili supper. The leader of the afternoon's program was Mrs. Ruth Robinson, and the lesson was "Noble Heritage." Mrs. Alva Watkins and Mrs. Ralph Thompson assisted Mrs. Robinson in presenting the lesson.

Thirteen members answered roll call with a verse from Psalms. The meeting was closed with a prayer by Mrs. Wayne Brackett.

Two Arenzville Properties Sold By Meyer Heirs

ARENZVILLE — Two pieces of real estate belonging to the estate of Henry Meyer were sold by the heirs at public auction Saturday morning at the Arenzville village hall.

Miss Joe Ann Beard, of Herculaneum, Mo., a teacher in the St. Louis schools, bought a 26 acre tract which is improved with an eight room modern house, on a bid of $7,000. A two car garage and several farm buildings are located on the property.

Two lots and a six room residence sold to Harold Rolf for $3,000.

Homer Dahman of Arenzville is attorney for the heirs, including Louise Schroeder, Bernida Rolf, and Bernice Lovekamp.

Middendorf Brothers of Jacksonville were auctioneers.

Job Placement

PICKING THE EXPERIENCED MAN FOR AN INEXPERIENCED POSITION

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — What kind of job do you have? Well, don't count on it.

According to reliable U.S. management findings, more than 600 new kinds of jobs appear on the American scene each year—many of them replacing old jobs and skills. A few real life examples:

● Sputnik I went into orbit three years ago. In the space race today, the U.S. Department of Labor estimates, our missile workers number nearly a half million.

● RCA, a major brand name, reports that four out of every five of its products has been invented or commercially developed since the end of World War II.

● Add items like automation, computers, frozen foods, nuclear power, miniaturization, shuttle-less looms—all kinds of things calling for new job specifications and a translation of old skills.

But how are men being fitted into this rapidly changing employment picture?

Poorly, say a growing number of job guidance counselors, management consultants and—curiously—aptitude testers themselves.

Intelligence and aptitude testing take the biggest criticism.

At Columbia University, for example, a study covering 12 years and 17,000 aptitude tests reveals that predictions and evaluations of individuals based on test scores were not nearly as good as guesswork based on personal observation and interviews.

Several testers report they can raise IQs by teaching subjects how to take tests, or by offering understandable rewards like free movie tickets. Most testers agree that standard tests don't work well on any but middle-middle class subjects, and even then, not on people who don't like tests.

Nevertheless, critics say, the trend is toward more testing in job placement. It's easier for the placement officer than making a decision.

MISSILE WORKERS now number nearly a half million.

Next on the criticism list is the job application form. The problem: a concentration on employment history rather than on personal achievement.

If you've never put a satellite into orbit before, the argument goes, how can you weed out those who have never launched a satellite? Aren't you really more interested in other things: what they think of as being satisfying about a job, what kind of pattern their achievements take, etc.?

Hiring by job history alone, according to an employment guide called "How To Make a Habit of Success," leads to misuse of manpower. Studies reveal that the output gap between the most productive man and the least productive in a department differs by as much as 300 per cent.

Also in for its share of contempt is today's industry-wide recruitment policies from colleges and universities.

• • •

One of the nation's (and the world's) biggest and best-known companies has just been advised by its high-priced management consultants to abandon its campus recruiting methods of going after the best men.

"Forget about the top 10 per cent in the class," the advice went. "They want challenge and you want to stock-pile them. Instead, pick the number of men you want at random from the rest of the top half of the class. All you're after is competence and mediocrity."

One top guidance expert, Bernard Haldane, reports that his studies show the peak of success for a man hired by today's recruitment comes at age 34 instead of 64 "when he's far wiser, far more experienced and better educated."

Roundtable Talk: Battle Between The Iron Ships

The historic battle in 1862 between the Confederate "Merrimac" and the revolutionary-designed "Monitor" for control of Hampton Roads, where the James river empties into Chesapeake Bay, will be the subject of Pete Foersterling when he addresses the December meeting of the Jacksonville Civil War Roundtable Friday, Dec. 2.

Until the "Monitor" appeared, the iron-clad "Merrimac" ranged with impunity, sinking at will the wooden warships of the Union. The entire North shivered with fear that the South would rule the seas, and the report of the "Monitor" forcing its dreaded opponent to retire thrilled the North as few subsequent events have.

The battle also brought about an entirely new concept in naval warfare.

Foersterling, associate professor of the MacMurray College art department, has prepared original drawings to illustrate his talk.

All men interested in Civil War history are invited to attend. The program will be held in Tanner Library, Illinois College, and will follow a dinner at 6:30 p.m. at Baxter Hall. Dinner reservations may be made by calling Jack Kurtz, Roundtable president, or Ernest L. Hoagland, secretary.

GUESTS FROM INDIANA

Mr. and Mrs. Watson Maddox and children Becky and Tom of Decatur, Ind., were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fearneyhough, at their home southwest of the city. They attended a family dinner Thanksgiving evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Morris.

Knights Templar Will Feast On Roast Turkey

The Sir Knights and Ladies of Hospitaller Commandery No. 31, Knights Templar, will meet at the Masonic Temple on Monday evening for a post-Thanksgiving dinner of roast turkey and all the trimmings. The dinner, which will be served at 6:30 p.m., at $1.00 a plate is open to all members and their ladies with advance reservations.

A number of guests from Elwood Commandery at Springfield are expected to attend the special dinner.

The stated conclave of the Commandery will follow the dinner, during which the ladies will be entertained with a special program. In addition to the routine business, a complete set of proposed by-laws will be presented to the membership for adoption and plans for the Christmas observance will be made.

Mayor, Jacksonville Turn Out To Greet Santa

A giant throng was on hand Friday when Santa Claus arrived in Jacksonville. He set up housekeeping at once in his little hut in Central Park and will be at home to all the children, and especially the good ones, from 2-4 each day until Christmas.

He'll also be glad to visit with his little friends Friday evening, from 7-9 p.m.

Santa, dressed in white and red, and with his flowing whiskers quivering in the warm breeze, arrived promptly at 2 p.m. Drawn by four prancing Shetland ponies, he circled the square once. As he went he threw candy kisses to his friends.

When he arrived at his house, he was greeted by Tom Rusinek, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, (left) and Mayor Robert DuBois. His driver was Clarence Pieratt of the Pegwell Packing Co., Springfield.

The day was bright and sunny; the temperature in the high fifties. It seemed that maybe Santa had arrived ahead of his seasonal schedule, but the rustling leaves in Central Park said "Christmas will be here before you know it."

STRING STEEL FOR MOUND BYPASS

The new State Route 104 bypass at Mound avenue is rapidly taking shape, with the laying of six huge steel beams, weighing 104 pounds per linear foot. The longest beam is 70 feet. The beams were placed in position Friday by the Caldwell Engineering Co. of Jacksonville, top photo showing workmen riveting steel.

These huge beams were fabricated at the Illinois Steel Bridge Co. plant in this city. Completion of the concrete deck over the bridge is dependent on the weather.

Overpass on the Wabash Railroad west of the city, also built by the Caldwell Engineering Co., is shown in lower photo. The overpass at the railroad has been completed for some time. The new bypass will swing traffic from State Route 104 from a point west of Passavant hospital to U.S. Routes 36-54, which pass through the city on Morton avenue.

Carrollton Girl Bride Yesterday At Church

CARROLLTON — Miss Judy Ann Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Edwards of Carrollton became the bride of John Groeppel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Groppel of Jerseyville Saturday, Nov. 26 in a wedding ceremony performed by the Rev. Father John Moore in St. John's Catholic church at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Clinton Meek of Carrollton was the soloist for the ceremony and her accompanist was Mrs. Lawrence Thien, also of Carrollton.

The ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with an arrangement of white blossoms. The aisle was marked with clusters of foliage tired with white satin ribbons. A bouguet of red delight rose buds were placed before the blessed virgin by the bride.

The maid of honor was Miss Donna Reynolds, of Carrollton a cousin of the bride and the bridesmaids were Miss Darlene Tepen of Rockbridge, Miss Mary Lou Mattis, and Miss Doris Pohlman both of Carrollton. The best man was Russell Groppel, of Jerseyville, brother of the groom and the groomsmen were Jerry Koster, Carrollton, cousin of the bride, John Roberts of Jersevville and John Carpenter of Alton. The ushers were Dale Edwards of Carrollton, brother of the bride and Carl Moore of Jerseyville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of handclipped chantilly lace and tulle over bridal satin. She carried a cascade of snow drift pom poms and sephanotic blossoms fashioned around a white orchid all of which rested on her white prayer book.

The attendants wore identical floor length dresses of lavender silk taffeta. Their bouquets were cascades of carnations in shades of lavender.

Following the ceremony luncheon was served at the Colonial Room at Day's cafe and a reception was held for the bridal couple at 2 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus hall. A dinner for the wedding guests was served at 6 o'clock in the Knights of Columbus hall followed by a dance also in the hall, after which Mr. and Mrs. Groppel left on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will make their home at 81 Washington St. Jerseyville, Ill.

Mrs. Groppel is a graduate of the Carrollton Community Unit High School in the class of 1960 while Groppel, who is employed by the Shell Oil Company at Woodriver is a graduate of the Jerseyville Community Unit High School in the class of 1956.

Community Club At Chapin Plans Christmas Party

A meeting of the Chapin Community Club was held at the Legion Hall with the president, Deneen Brewer, presiding.

After general discussion and reports from committees the following new officers were elected: president Miller Obert; vice president, Ernest Detmer; secretary, Dorothy Surratt; assistant secretary, Elizabeth Surratt; treasurer, David Sidwell; and assistant treasurer, Hubert Fricke.

It was decided to sponsor a Christmas lighting contest and to hold a community Christmas party on Saturday night, December 17, in conjunction with the American Legion treat and Santa Claus for children. The following committee was appointed to make all arrangements: Martha Allen, Elizabeth Surratt, Willa Shepard, Margaret Smith, Dorothy Surratt, and Ann Hymes.

Others present for the meeting besides the above named committee were Deneen Brewer, William Vanlter, Donald Kolberer, Elksworth Rigor, David Sidwell, Miller Obert, Raymond Fricke, Ernest Detmer, and Oren Hymes.

The retiring officers are: president, Deneen Brewer; secretary, Ann Hymes; and treasurer, William Vanlter. The president expressed thanks and appreciation for the wonderful help and cooperation they have received from every one.

Refreshments of doughnuts, cup cakes, and coffee were enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Pollard

Pollard And Pence Rites At Patterson

PATTERSON—In a recent ceremony at the Wilmington Baptist church in Patterson Miss Joyce Ann Pence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pence, White Hall and Private Jack R. Pollard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pollard, Roodhouse, were united in marriage, with Rev. William R. Martin of White Hall officiating.

Miss Mary Alice Landreth of Roodhouse served as maid of honor and Janis Donnell Pence, sister of the bride was bridesmaid. Jeanne Marie Pence another sister acted as flower girl.

Donald Jones of Roodhouse was best man and Ronald Dawdy of Morton, Ill., and David Blakey, Patterson, were ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown, designed and made by her mother, of white Chantilly lace and chiffon over taffeta. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations. Her finger tip veil was held in place by a cloche of white velvet flowers.

The maid of honor chose a beige cocktail length dress with pink accessories and corsage of pink carnations. The bridesmaid wore blue taffeta and eyelet with a corsage of pink carnations.

The little flower girl wore a blue party dress and carried a nosegay of pink flowers.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Ruby Bowman, accompanied by Miss Ruth Ann Bushnell, furnished traditional wedding music.

The groom's mother chose a blue suit for the wedding and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's mother wore a brown flowered taffeta with a bronze corsage.

After the ceremony a small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for members of the wedding party, close friends and relatives.

Mrs. Pollard is a member of the junior class of the Roodhouse Community high school and will continue her studies for the present.

Private Pollard is a graduate of Roodhouse Community high with the class of '59 and is now with the U. S. Army stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Newcomers Club Installs New Officers

At an impressive ceremony Tuesday evening, Nov. 22, at the Triple Flame Steak House, new officers for the Jacksonville Welcome Wagon Newcomers club were installed.

Due to the absence of the Welcome Wagon hostess, Mrs. John O. Burch, the retiring president Mrs. Victor Blazevic installed the following new officers: Mrs. Dean Welch, president; Mrs. John R. Pine, vice president; Mrs. Frank Hynes, secretary; Mrs. Paul Langdon, treasurer; Mrs. Robert T. Dinsmore, assistant secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Howard DeGroot, program chairman.

Guests introduced were Miss Margaret Beck and Mrs. Ronald Wallace.

The members voted to bring to the next meeting canned goods, clothing and 50 cents for Christmas baskets for needy families.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Edward Anderson, Mrs. Leonard Vittitow, Mrs. Ronald Harpole and Mrs. Charles Alcorn.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Dean Welch, Mrs. Don Speir, Mrs. Ralph Pough and Mrs. Glenn Reid.

Journal Courier Editor Will Be On Findley Panel

Toward Understanding Miracle Of Life—

Model Helps Explain Childbirth

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

CLEVELAND — (NEA) — The growing educational trend of teaching by demonstration has added another facet: "pregnant" manikins to explain the mysteries of childbirth.

The program of prenatal classes sponsored by Metropolitan General Hospital here is designed primarily for ladies-in-waiting but is open, too, to other planning-the-family women.

Effect of the instructions was evidenced by a mother who admitted she never really understood what happened during childbirth until she attended the classes—just before her sixth child was born.

The plastic model illustrates graphically what happens during pregnancy, what goes on during the labor period preceding birth and, finally, how a child is brought into the world.

The manikin less than two feet long—actually it's a model of a woman's torso—has been a big factor in stimulating prenatal knowledge since it was donated to the hospital early this year by members of a professional sorority group.

Mrs. Delbert Beswick, supervisor of patient instruction for Metropolitan General, says:

"'The classes have done wonders in helping women overcome their fears of the birth process.

"After our demonstrations and lectures the expectant mother better understands what goes on in the labor and delivery rooms.

"With an explanation of step-by-step procedures fresh in mind, the mother-to-be enters the hospital of her choice with confidence and the proper sense of expectancy in safely reaching her motherhood goal.

Mrs. Delbert Beswick

For demonstration purposes the torso model is equipped with a pelvic structure and fetus that are removable. Expressions of interest have been voiced by other hospitals planning similar courses and it is fairly certain that copies of the pregnant manikin soon will make their appearance on the nation's hospital scene.

Expectant mothers learn more than the physical aspects of childbirth. In the five-session class taught by Mrs. George Steffel the subjects range from personal hygiene to what clothes to buy for the baby—extremely important to those for whom this is a first-time experience.

Health—mother's and baby's—comes in for a major share of discussion.

Mrs. Steffel emphasizes:

"Young mothers benefit from our talks on diet, sufficient rest and paying strict attention to the doctor's orders. All these factors have a bearing on the health of the baby.

"Continued health supervision for the baby is important. We remind the mother that registration of her child in any of the well-baby clinics not only is beneficial to the young one but also gives peace of mind to mothers inclined to worry during some of the fretful stages children go through.' "

The manikin remains ever-pregnant, replacing fear with confidence, and a knowledge of accouchement which, surprisingly, can be news even to a mother of five.

English Song Writer Lionel Bart Is 'The Noel Coward Of The 60s'

LONDON (AP) — The name in British popular music today is Lionel Bart. Remember it.

At 29, this youth from the poorer parts of London has just turned down a Hollywood offer that he says could have yielded him two million dollars over the years for his musical smash hit "Oliver."

He rejected the huge offer because he believes he eventually can make more money by producing the film himself.

He also wants to be the man who wrote the first really big British film musical hit.

Most observers here are ready to say Bart, who cannot read a line of music, can do almost anything he sets his dynamic mind to do.

He has two smash musical shows running in the West End. They are "Fings Ain't Wot They Used T'be" and "Oliver." The latter, a musical about Charles Dickens' book "Oliver Twist," will open soon in New York.

In a few months, Bart will have another musical show, "Tonight, Josephine," in the West End. Nobody can remember an English music man with three shows at once in the heart of theaterland.

He is turning out popular hit tunes almost every time he sits down at his upright piano in a small alley cottage home and picks out a melody with one finger. Then he calls in an arranger to whom he hums or sings the song.

A few years ago hardly anyone had heard of the name Lionel Bart.

Today, Noel Coward calls Bart the best English song writer since—yes, since Coward.

Four years or so ago, Bart was playing a washboard in a rock 'n' roll group led by Tommy Steele.

Bart, who had failed in his efforts to be a commercial artist and who always wanted to be an actor, wrote the song that helped make Steele a teen-age idol. It was called "Rock With the Cave Men."

He wrote something called "Livin' Doll" for a teen-ager named Cliff Richards. Both became famous in England.

"Livin' Doll" sold 1½ million records and Bart had to begin worrying about tax problems.

Bart was born in the East End, the son of Russian-Jewish parents. His father is a tailor.

Lionel spent his boyhood around the stalls of Petticoat Lane. At 13 he won a scholarship to a school of art but he never became a commercial artist. Instead, he met Tommy Steele at a party and began playing that washboard.

"I did it for kicks," he says today. "Ten bob—$1.40—a night."

This year people began talking of this short, dark young man with the soft pleasant voice as "The Noel Coward of the 60s."

Until Bart met Coward he worked in a haphazard manner.

Coward saw "Oliver," and sent Bart a personal note of congratulations. They became friends and Coward advised Bart on organizing his composing career.

Fight For Control

British Gangs Want 'One-Armed Bandit'

By TOM A. CULLEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON — (NEA) — When slot machines become legal in Britain on Jan. 1, their control may depend on an undercover war now being waged by under world syndicates.

So far there has been no open violence. No machines have been hijacked. No one has been beaten, no acid thrown. The syndicates are too smart for that.

But thousands of these "one-armed bandits" have been imported primarily from West Germany in preparation for the new year. Fourteen London clubs have been broken into recently and $15,000 worth of slot machines stolen. Nothing else has been touched.

Usually a syndicate "salesman" appears the morning following the robbery, offering to install his own make of one-armed bandits for a "share" in the profits.

Meanwhile, the underground here seethes with rumors that some of Frank Costello's former associates will organize the slotmachine racket along American lines.

Lending color to these rumors was the F.B.I. seizure of $250,000 worth of slot machines in Brooklyn last month. The 420 gambling machines in the Brooklyn docks awaiting shipment to a firm in Birmingham, England, were seized by G-men acting on a tip from Scotland Yard.

King of Britain's one-armed bandits is Bill Webster, a 231-pound, florid-faced pub owner, who alternately threatens war to his rivals, and pooh-poohs the chance of Americans muscling in on the trade in "fruit" machines, as they are called here.

"No tuppenny thug is going to muscle in on this territory," shouts Webster, banging his fist on the counter of his pub.

Big Bill Webster adopts the soft sell when speaking of slot machines as "social amenities" (he shudders at the term "one-armed bandit").

"This is a legitimate business," he explains, adding, "if Capone and Lucky Luciano were operating today, they would not be gangsters, but businessmen. Big businessmen, like me."

In Webster's lingo, gangsterism becomes "misdirected energy." He is also a great believer in what he calls "dynamic relaxation." It everyone took it up," he maintains, "there would be no gangsters."

Despite this soft patter Britons are not reassured. They view the coming of the slot machines on Jan. 1 with fear and apprehension, remembering the stories of bribery, protection rackets and murder that followed in the wake of the one-armed bandits in America.

FBI man H. G. Foster examires a cargo of slot machines seized in New York which allegedly was bound for an international gambling syndicate in England

Wilber Chapter Holds Installation Ceremony

The 1961 officers of Wilber Chapter No. 358, Order of the Eastern Star, were installed at a beautiful and impressive ceremony at the Masonic Temple on Saturday evening, Nov. 19.

The chapter room was decorated with potted ferns and palms, a basket of glads, and yellow and bronze mums in the East. Mary and Oliver Buck, 1960 Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron, assisted by Clara Bradshaw, associate conductress, presided.

The installing officers and their escorts were introduced and escorted to their stations. Hazel Hasse, Amaranth Chapter, Grand Organist in 1959, mother of the Worthy Matron elect, served as the installing officer. She was escorted by Walter Hasse, past patron of Amaranth Chapter.

Lillian Heidinger, past matron of Wilber Chapter served as installing chaplain, and was escorted by Glenn Heidinger, past patron of Wilber Chapter. Vera Kinnett, past matron of Wilber Chapter, served as installing marshall, and was escorted by Jess Kinnett, past patron of Wilber Chapter.

Inez Canatsey, past matron of Wilber Chapter served as installing organist; Nan Milburn, past matron of Wilber Chapter, soloist; Floyd Hess, past patron of Wilber Chapter, color bearer and Dorothy Buchanan,, past matron of Wilber Chapter, registerd guests.

Jane Devore was installed as Worthy Matron in a very impressive ceremony. As she was escorted to her station in the East, an escort was formed by members of the Jacksonville Assembly No. 19, Order of Rainbow for Girls.

Dale Devore was installed as Worthy Patron, and as he was escorted to the East, a similar escort was formed. After he reached his station, the Rainbow Girls performed a drill which ended as they formed a cross in front of the altar.

Other officers installed were: Audrey Bond, associate matron; Bill Buchanan, associate patron; Mabel Lewis, secretary; Josephine Muckelston, treasurer; Clara Bradshaw, conductress; Marilynn Schile, associate conductress.

Helen Morrison, chaplain; Doris DeShara, marshal; Lorraine Farrell, organist; Dorothy Birdsell, Adah; Catherine Wright, Ruth; Terry Smith, Esther; Catherine Fanning, Martha; Joan Houston, Electa; Virginia Denham, warder; and Don Houston, sentinel.

Nan Milburn will be the soloist and Burton Schile will be the color bearer for the ensuing year.

During the ceremony, Nan Milburn, sang several beautiful selections, honoring the newly installed worthy matron and worthy patron, and guests. She sang also to the Junior Past Matron and Patron after they were escorted to the altar, by their son and daughter, Jim and Nancy Buck, to sign the Bible.

Short speeches were made by the new worthy matron and worthy patron. As each was presented with their past officers jewels, Mary and Oliver Buck spoke also. The installing officer spoke briefly.

Following the installation ceremony a reception was held in the dining room, where guests were served cake, and punch or coffee from a beautifully decorated table.

Committees for the installation were, chapter room, Fern Haigh, chairman, Dorothy Chumley, Italene Summers and Mabel Ingels; reception, Bern DeFreitas, chairman, Leah Caldwell, Martha June Svob and Lena Melton.

Ushers were, Nancy Buck, Madge Bond, Joy Buchanan and Patty Bradshaw.

The 1961 School of Instruction will be held December 4 at 9:00 a.m. with Berenice Raisch in charge. All members are invited and asked to bring a sack lunch if they wish to spend the entire day at the school.

The first meeting will be held on December 8 at 7:30 p.m. The annual Christmas bazaar will be held after the meeting and everyone is urged to bring something to be sold at the bazaar.

AWD Auxiliary Has Party For Hospital Vets

The American War Dads Auxiliary sponsored a party at the recreation hall for 43 veterans who are patients in Ward 3, Jacksonville State Hospital.

Entertainment for the party was furnished by Mrs. Alta Eisch and her musicians from the State Hospital. Bingo was played and cigarets were given as prizes and each veteran received a prize. After the games the ladies served doughnuts and coffee to all present. Mrs. Warren Massey and Mrs. James B. Marsh, of the volunteer service department of the State Hospital made the necessary arrangements for the party. The Auxiliary members assisting with the party were Mrs. Bertha Hazel, Mrs. Nelle Wandell and Mrs. Opal Bends, hospital chairman for the Auxiliary.

The Auxiliary met November 22, at the American Legion Home. Reports of the standing committees were heard and announcement made of plans to remember all Morgan County servicemen overseas whose addresses they were able to secure. It is hoped as many overseas men or women can be remembered as possible. Various ways of making money for the organization was discussed and the decision finally left to the finance committee. The next regular meeting will be held on December 27.

Former Lebanese Citizen To Speak At I. C. Monday

A member of the Arab Information Center, Farouk Mawlawi, and former Lebanese citizen who was born in Jerusalem, Palestine, will speak before the Illinois College convocation, Monday, Nov. 28, at 10 a.m., on "Moslem and Arab Contributions to Culture."

Mr. Mawlawi was appointed assistant director of the Arab Information Center, Midwest Region, in November, 1959. He has recently returned from an extensive tour of the Arab states, during which he met with several high Arab officials.

A graduate of the National High School in Tripoli, Lebanon, Mr. Mawlawi received the General Certificate of Education from the University of London in 1951. After one year of teaching in a Lebanese public school, he came to the United States where he enrolled at Roosevelt University in Chicago, from which he has received a bachelor of science degree and a bachelor of arts degree in political science. Presently, he is completing the requirements for a master of arts degree in political science.

All those interested in hearing Mr. Mawlawi are cordially invited to attend the convocation.

Republicans Map Plans For Vote Probe In State

CHICAGO (AP) — Republicans seeking to overturn Sen. John F Kennedy's Illinois victory mapped plans Saturday for a two-pronged offensive: a grand jury probe and an appeal to the state electoral board.

The latest tabulations show Kennedy the victor over Vice President Richard M. Nixon by 8,849 votes out of nearly 4¾ million cast Nov. 8. Illinois has 27 Electoral votes.

While the Republicans cried vote fraud in predominantly Democratic precincts of Cook County (Chicago), the Democrats showed no outward concern.

Sidney T. Holzman, chairman of the Chicago Board of Election Commissioners and one of several election officials scheduled to appear before the county grand jury on Tuesday, remarked:

"There is nothing I enjoy better than a fight."

Among the leaders of the campaign to challenge the Kennedy verdict are Mrs. Marie Suthers and Francis X. Connell, Republican minority members, respectively of the board of election commissioners and the county canvass board.

The Chicago Tribune said it learned they have appealed to the trying agency — to withhold certification of the Cook County canvass on grounds it "incorporates knowingly fraudulent returns."

The Board will meet in Springfield Monday. Four of the five board members are top-ranking Republicans.

On another front, State's Atty. Benjamin Adamowski, Republican defeated by a margin of about 6,000 votes, is scheduled to return from a Colorado vacation to handle the Cook County grand jury investigation.

Elections officials due to appear before the jury, in addition to Holzmen, are Judge John Karns, head of Cook County election machinery, John Daly, member of the city board, and Edward Parlee, assistant city corporation counsel.

"I can assure the public I need no subpoena to go before the grand jury," Holzman commented. "It will be a privilege to appear."

Kennedy Works Shaping Cabinet, Then Plays Golf

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy did some work on the shaping of his official family Saturday as well as visiting his personal family.

But he couldn't tell reporters who his new son looks like and didn't even drop any hints about who'll be named to his official family.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger told newsmen Kennedy had made several long-distance phone calls to discuss appointments to his Cabinet. But, Salinger added, in no case did he talk to the man he has under consideration. Instead he sought advisers' ideas on his prospective appointees.

Salinger disclosed several such phone calls were made Friday, the day John F. Kennedy Jr. was born. They were followed with more Saturday, and probably Kennedy will keep them up for several days, the press aide said.

It probably will be a few weeks before the results of these conferences become public because the only announcement known to be imminent is that of the director of the budget. This is expected next week so the appointee can begin studying the budgetary machinery and the spending recommendations now being shaped by the Eisenhower Administration for submission to the 87th Congress when it convenes in January.

In addition to his hospital visits to his wife and son, Kennedy played golf with Florida's Democratic Sen. George Smathers at the Burning Tree Club in nearby Maryland. Burning Tree is a favorite golfing spot for President Eisenhower, a member of the exclusive club. Kennedy is not a member, and it was not disclosed as whose guest he played.

Running Your Car Electrically

You Will Probably Pay More for Economy

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Now that Yankee ingenuity has managed to produce the world's largest small car, the next big problem for Detroit is obviously how high to price the world's first "cheap" just-around-town car, finally possible after recent technical advances.

While the market studies and cost accounting is under way, here's what the engineers promise for this revolutionary second car for the family:

- No more winterizing, summerizing, radiator troubles—in fact, no cooling system at all.
- No more knocking, missing, ring jobs, oil change, engine trouble of any sort—in fact, no more engine.
- Furthermore, half the fuel cost, twice the mileage, a fraction of the maintenance and at least triple life expectancy of your automobile.

Engineers working on this car estimate the selling price at well below $2,000. But in automotives, engineers don't make prices so savings like these will sell for a lot more on today's car market.

* * *

The magic behind the new car is electricity and improvement in portable electric power, plastics, electric motors and recharging equipment.

Battery-stored electricity at today's power rates will give you a maximum 60-mile day for about 25 cents —less if you buy your electricity at commercial night rates according to Bronislaus Ulinski, director of development and design at Yale and Towne's Automatic Transportation Division.

The battery, now available, will cost about $800 and last about seven years, according to Claud Erickson of the Lansing, Mich., Board of Water and Light.

You can recharge the battery at home, according to J. T. Cataldo of the International Rectifier Co. A gadget called a gated diode or silicon controlled rectifier will allow you to plug a line directly into your battery from your home wall socket. (You can further save if you use a line from your neighbor's home wall socket.)

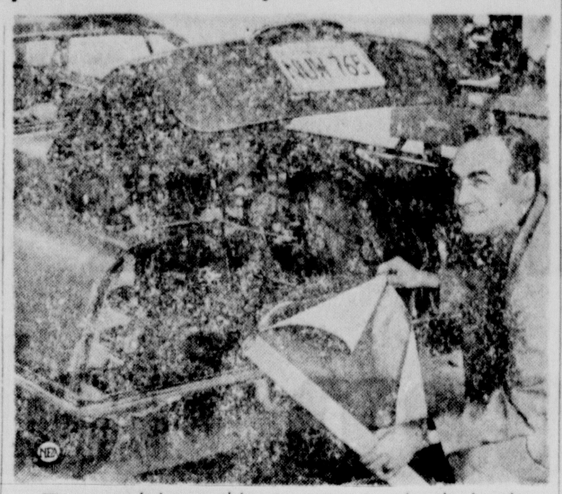

The battery power drives a simple electric motor with a thimbleful of moving parts. You'll probably have one motor on each wheel, eliminating differential gears, transmission, extravagant horsepower.

* * *

You'll start and go from a cold stop. You won't waste power by idling in traffic. Your motors will work at 98 per cent efficiency (instead of the usual 40 per cent in conventional gasoline engines.)

There won't be any noise, odor, or additions to air pollution. There won't be anything to rust out under the hood. And with advances in plastics, nothing will rust anywhere else.

Oddly, like a voice from the grave, today's promise of a feasible electric car is a fulfillment of a prediction made by Thomas Edison more than 65 years ago when cheap gasoline sent automotives into internal combustion engines instead of electricity for power.

There won't be anything to rust out under the hood.

Edison forsaw a near future when more electricity would be used in the U.S. on recharging cars and trucks than on household appliances and light. As late as 1938, when the last electric truck was made, he seemed to be right.

Today in England, 40,000 electrics still run errands through the streets. In the U.S., 165,000 electric fork lifts, golf cars, sweepers and invalid carts are in operation as well as a few of the old trucks.

Even the highest-octane minds admit that the step to electric passenger cars is a short one. Electricity today is one-third what it cost in Edison's day. Gasoline costs three times more.

And with sun-powered batteries and fuel cells (chemicals that combine to make electricity) estimated at less than a decade away, portable electricity will take you farther, faster, cheaper. It just won't be economically feasible to stay home.

Illinois Counts 11 Traffic Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Thanksgiving traffic death toll in Illinois reached eleven Saturday as the long weekend moved toward its conclusion.

Two persons were killed in fires and five died in miscellaneous accidents.

Leo E. Rosenberg, 35, of Du Quoin, and his 9-year-old daughter, Carol Jean, died in a two car collision near Elkville Thursday night.

Mrs. Celeste Emery, 68, of Champaign, and Claud Monday of Clementsville, Ky., were killed Friday in another two car accident.

Mrs. Dorothy Maxine McGee, 34, of Mattoon, died in a car-truck collision in Mattoon Friday.

Michael Savage, 18, of Chicago, was killed in a two car crash Thursday.

A one car accident near Rockford Saturday killed Kenneth West, 25, of Rockford.

A Chicago Transit Authority bus struck and killed Vincent Perro, 75, of Chicago Saturday.

Harry Lloyd Walker, 66, of Windsor in Shelby County, died Friday in a tractor-auto accident on Illinois 32 near Windsor.

Mrs. Lillian Weber, 63, of Arlington Heights, died in a head-on crash of two cars near Arlington Heights Saturday.

Paul Estes, 25, of St. Louis, was killed Saturday when his sports car overturned near Cobden.

Maurice H. Brink, 26, of Rochelle, was working under the auto when the hydraulic jack supporting it slipped. He died about five minutes later.

SANTA FINDS HIMSELF HOBBLED ON AERIAL LADDER

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—It couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

Santa Claus arrived Saturday by helicopter. He landed atop a department store roof, then started down a fire ladder with his bag full of toys.

Halfway down, something broke. It was Santa's suspenders. His pants tumbled down around his boot tops. One thousand youngsters held their breath. Santa clung to the bag and the ladder, took a hitch in his britches, and made it safely to the ground.

Santa—who was really Conrad O'Neil, a city fireman—said he wasn't embarrassed because he had his regulation fireman's uniform under the Santa uniform. But, he said, "It isn't much fun to be hobbled on an aerial ladder."

Woman Missing Six Days Found Alive In Culvert

FARMERSVILLE, Tex. (AP — A search party Saturday found a 65-year-old woman alive in a roadside culvert where she said she spent six days feebly calling for help.

Mrs. J. J. Brooks was described by her doctor as being "terribly weak" after her ordeal in the culvert, about 250 yards from the Park Lake Country Club.

Hundreds of searchers and cars had passed by her during the search which started early Monday. The search ended at 2:15 p.m. when Fire Chief Raymond Brandon spotted a corner of Mrs. Brooks' housecoat protruding from the culvert.

Authorities believe Mrs. Brooks slipped while taking an early morning walk Monday. She fell into the ditch at the side of the road and slid into the mouth of the culvert which passes under the road.

The culvert was extremely muddy from recent rains.

She was taken to her home under care of her family doctor who said she was "in remarkably good condition after a nightmarish week."

Farmersville is about 50 miles north of Dallas in northeast Texas.

The weather in northeast Texas this past week has been cool, but above freezing.

EXTRA KEYS

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP) — David Tull parked his car in a downtown lot. When he returned for it several hours later, he found it apparently had been used by joyriders.

Two keys, neither of which belonged to Tull, and a note were on the seat.

"Could you use these?" read the note. "They fit."

President Rejects Guinea's Charges Of Partisanship

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Saturday it is not true, as President Sekou Toure of Guinea contends, that the United States supports those who oppose freedom for Africans.

Toure linked his complaint chiefly to the U.S. attitude toward the turbulent Congo. Guinea has lined up there with the position taken by the Soviet Union.

Toure set forth his views in a cablegram dated Nov. 20. Eisenhower replied Friday, and the White House made the exchange public Saturday.

Eisenhower said the record is clear that the United States has been in the forefront of those nations which have favored emancipation of all peoples, including Africans.

He added: "With specific reference to the Republic of the Congo, the United States warmly welcomed its independence. We have recognized and upheld its unity and territorial integrity through United Nations actions."

Toure had expressed concern at what he termed "the development of a partisan position by the United States in the situation in the Congo."

The United States has been supporting Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu, whose delegation recently was seated in the United Nations over the objections of Moscow. The Soviet Union backs former Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Eisenhower told Toure that "considerable partisanship has been demonstrated by some states." He added that U.S. backing for Kasavubu "is not a question of partisanship but an attempt to strengthen one of the essential foundations of stable and effective government in that unhappy country.

Report Effort To Bring Lumumba Back To Power

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP— New efforts to bring deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba back to power were reported Saturday from Stanleyville in Oriental Province, a traditional Lumumba stronghold.

The reports followed arrival in Stanleyville of Gen. Victor Lundula, who headed the Congolese army during Lumumba's rule and led it into a bloody civil war in southern Kasai Province.

Lundula disappeared from sight after Col. Joseph Mobutu took over the Congo in a bloodless coup Sept. 14.

U.N. headquarters confirmed the general's arrival in Stanleyville where a pro-Lumumba triumvirate hopes to use the city as a possible springboard for Lumumba's return to power.

At the same time, reports from the giant Congolese army camp in Leopoldville indicated steadily mounting opposition to Mobutu's rule, which a number of soldiers apparently regard as too weak.

Mobutu's control of the 2,000-man garrison began to slip after Monday's battle for the Ghana embassy residence, in which six Congolese were killed by U.N. troops defending Ghana Charge d'Affaires Nathaniel Welbeck.

Welbeck left the Congo after an all-night siege in what the Congolese army described as a major victory over the United Nations.

Since then, victory-flushed soldiers have been clamoring for revenge. U.N. troops in the capital have been in a state of constant alert.

Johnson Promises Macmillan New 'Burst Of Energy'

LONDON (AP)—Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson has promised British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan "a new burst of energy" when the Kennedy administration takes over the White House Jan. 20.

The Texas senator spent several hours Friday night with Macmillan, outlining the general aims President-elect John F. Kennedy intends to pursue.

Qualified informants said Saturday they boiled down to this:

1. Fiscal responsibility at home, so that the money is there to meet commitments abroad.

2. A global drive to prove that capitalism can give a worker more security than communism.

3. Broadened Social Security in the United States to serve as an example to the rest of the world.

4. Full-scale backing of the Western alliance wherever needed, with either support or required leadership.

Johnson was described as having outlined to Macmillan a broad policy program hinging on British-American partnership to build up strength economically and politically. From such a position of strength, it was said, approach to the Communists as well as influence on the uncommitted Asian-African areas would be more effective than just "rocking along" in cold war.

The vice president-elect flies back to Washington Sunday. He will see Kennedy almost immediately with words of encouragement from Macmillan as well as from President Charles de Gaulle, who gave him a 50-minute audience in Paris.

Johnson refused to describe his conversations with Macmillan. But he indicated to newsmen a wide range of subjects was covered.

Acquit Crowley, Convict Garner In Rubin Slaying

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—George Garner, 38, Cairo coin machine distributor, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter Saturday in the pistol slaying of night club owner Jake Rubin March 25.

A Circuit Court jury fixed his penalty at eight years in prison.

A co-defendant in the 12-day trial, Ted Crowley, 53, a Quincy hotel operator, was acquitted.

The jury of 10 men and 2 women went sleepless for more than 24 hours and deliberated for 13 hours before reaching a verdict.

Rubin, 37, was shot to death by Garner in his Latin Quarter night club after an argument over the club's firing of a strip tease dancer friend of Garner. The prosecution also contended Garner blamed Rubin for a police raid on a house of prostitution in which Crowley's wife was arrested.

Testifying in his own defense Friday, Garner told the jury his gun discharged accidentally as he struggled with Rubin. He said Crowley accompanied him to the club but had nothing to do with the shooting.

This testimony contradicted that of several prosecution witnesses. They testified Crowley shoved Rubin into Garner and that Garner then fired a bullet into his head. They said there was no struggle for the weapon.

Circuit Judge Harold Zimmerman had instructed the jurors they could return a finding of either innocent or guilty of murder or voluntary manslaughter. The penalty upon conviction for voluntary manslaughter ranges from 1 to 14 years.

The case went to the jury at 9:15 p.m. Friday.

Homecoming Festivities Are Held At Virginia

VIRGINIA—This year, the annual Homecoming of the Virginia High School, usually held the night before Thanksgiving, was celebrated two nights, on Tuesday, Nov 22, and Wednesday, Nov. 23. Basketball games held the spotlight on the first night, also a number of choruses and other musical numbers.

On Wednesday night, the program opened with a band selection, "Three Jacks," featuring a cornet trio, directed by Harold Wolfe and composed of Bernard Devlin, Larry Illias and Ron Murphy.

Bernard Devlin, president of the Student Council, welcomed the audience and Wayne Briggs gave the response. Information was given by Leland Herzberger, president of the Junior class. Directed by Harold Wolfe and accompanied by Beverly Dotzert, the High School Chorus presented two numbers, "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and "The Whiffenpoof Song."

The High School Boys, accompanied by Beverly Dotzert, gave a "Style Show," which was a takeoff on the style shows usually given by the girls. It was a comedy and furnished much merriment.

The Grade Double Sextet, directed by Mrs. Robert Virgin, and accompanied by Connie Sue Schaeffer, presented "The Inch Worm," and "Wonderful Copenhagen."

The band played the Processional and the Coronation was underway. The queen's court was composed of Julia Montgomery, whose escort was Gary Reichert; Pearl Newberry, escort was Greg Darland; Janet Morris, escort Franklin Shafer; Judy McDonald, escort, Reg Velten; Mary Ann Doherty, escort, Bernard Devlin; Bonnie Williams, escort, Merle Ring; Wanda Green, escort, Max Webster; Joann Loring, escort, Tom Fair; Mary Scott, Tom Brodman; Mary Jean Brannan, escort, Roy Lyons; Rena Kay Devlin, escort, Bob Hierman; Georgeann Hierman, Charles Dudley.

Pearl Newberry was chosen queen and was lovely in a light blue formal with white and blue lace trim. She was crowned by last year's queen, Mary Riemann, who wore a yellow formal. Her attendants were Donna Blakeman and Ann Herzberger, who were dressed in red and white nylon dresses and carried the queen's flowers, red roses, and Kevin Velten and Henry Taylor, who carried the crown and gift.

The usherettes were dressed in red corduroy skirts and white blouses and were: Rita Ann Sinclair, Kay Middleton, Jolene Frisch, Barbara Dodds, Jill Montgomery, Barbara Fanning, Rebecca Calhoun, Sandra Cox.

Following the coronation, the band played the Recessional and Lyn Symons orchestra furnished music for the dance.

How your company can help you save $1,000...for 63¢ a day

"Teaching yourself good habits" used to be the only way to save money. But millions of Americans have discovered a much easier method where they work: The Payroll Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Bonds.

This plan is as sure as payday. You tell your payroll clerk to set aside from each check whatever amount you've a mind to, and you never have to give saving another thought.

Just 63c a day buys a $25 Savings Bond a month (cost $18.75). Inside of 40 months you'll have your bundle of Bonds worth $1000 at maturity.

Speak to your employer or payroll clerk today. In a few minutes you'll be saving for the things you want – as well as putting your dollars into a stronger America.

Some more advantages you might think about

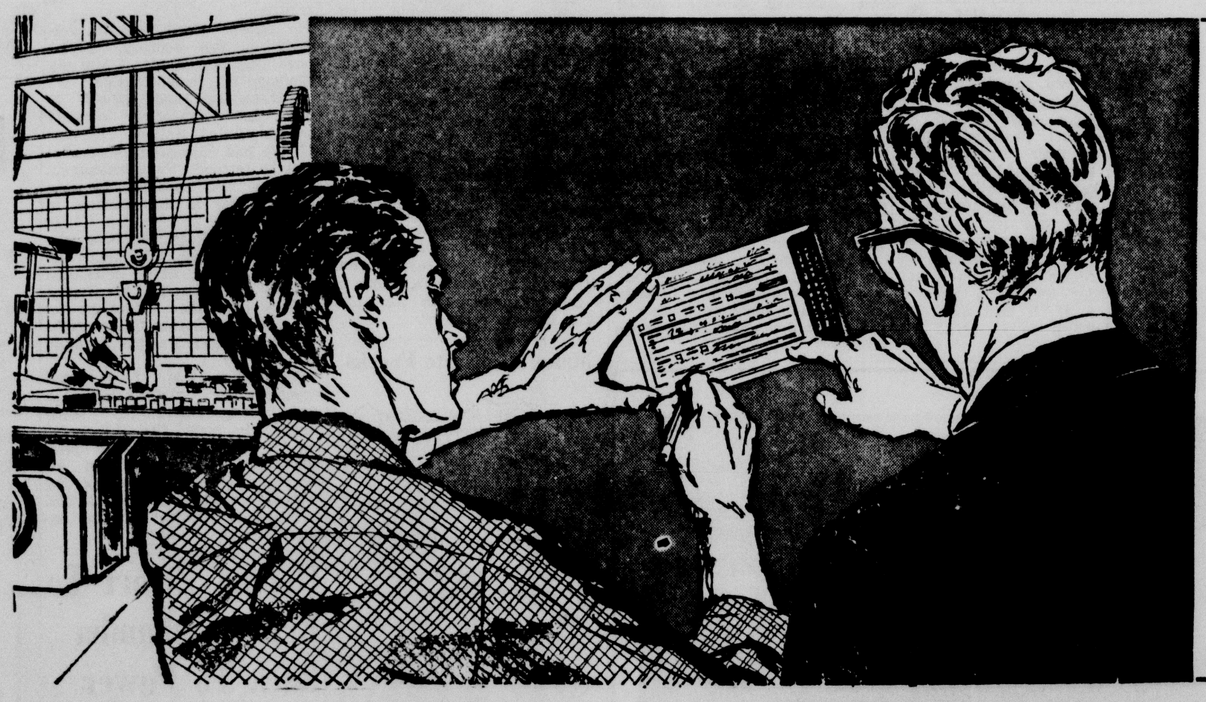

You now get 3¾% interest, to maturity. This new rate, which went into effect June 1, 1959, makes your Bond money grow faster. Series E Bonds now mature 14 months earlier than before—in just 7 years, 9 months. Bonds bought before June 1, 1959, earn more, too—an extra ½% from that date to maturity.

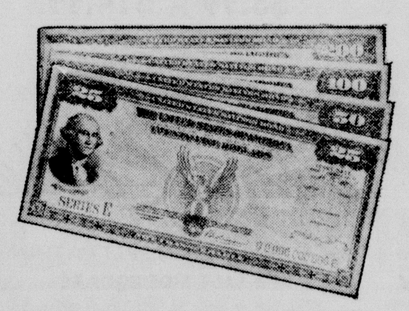

You can get your money, with interest, any time you want it. Bonds are a ready reserve that you can cash at any time at any bank. But it pays to keep them.

Your money is guaranteed by the U.S. Government. Bonds are an absolutely riskless investment. The Government promises you that the cash value of your Bond will not drop—it can only grow.

Your money can't be lost or stolen. The Treasury will replace your Bonds, free, if anything happens to them.

You save more than money. You help save the peace. Every Bond you buy helps keep our Nation and our Nation's economy strong.

Here's how you can reach your savings goal with U.S. Savings Bonds in just 7 years, 9 months.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—Butcher hogs under 230 lbs led a higher price trend this week as offerings during the holiday-shortened week dropped about one-third.

With the market 50 cents to $1 higher, a relatively few offerings sold up to $19 a hundredweight, equalling the highest peak in almost two years.

Despite the seasonal competition from poultry, pork loins sold as much as $4.50 a hundredweight higher on the Chicago wholesale market.

In the third week of higher prices, slaughter steers advanced $1.25-1.75 and brought the boost for three weeks to $4 at the extreme.

Buyers said the market reflected the small supplies which forced bids up to $29 top during the week for 1,100-1,400 lb prime grade. The average price of all slaughter steers was up $2 from late October and the $29 top was the highest since July.

In the sheep trade, slaughter lambs were strong to mostly 50 cents higher for the week and ewes gained as much as $1 to the highest levels for that class since July.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)— Following is a summary of the hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week:

Compared Friday last week: Barrows and gilts sold 50-1.00 higher with the most advance on weights under 230 lbs. Sows advanced 25-50. Mixed grades No. 1 and 2 and mixed No. 1, 2 and 3 190-220 lb barrows and gilts closed at 18.60-18.85; 27 head No. 1 at around 210 lbs 19.00; mixed No. 1, 2 and 3 mixed No. 2 and 3 200-240 lbs barrows and gilts brought 18.00-18.65 with mixed No. 2 and 3 and No. 3 240-280 lbs 17.50-18.00; mixed grades No. 1, 2 and 3 and mixed No. 2 and 3 300-400 lb sows 14.75-16.00; mixed grades 2 and 3 and No. 3 400-550 lbs 13.75-15.25.

Cattle—Slaughter steers and heifers were 1.25-1.75 higher with all weights and grades sharing in advance, cows strong to 50 higher, bulls strong, vealers steady to 1.00 lower.

Bulk of choice and prime 900-1,450 lbs slaughter steers 26.00-18.75 with closing sales from 26.75-18.75, dozen loads prime 1,100-1,400 lb to 29.00. Several loads high choice 1,000-1,100 lb steer yearlings 27.75-28.00 late when many loads prime and mixed choice and prime 1,050-1,450 lb weights brought 28.60-28.75 and numerous loads choice 1,100-1,375 lb steers brought 27.00-27.75.

Load lots mixed good and choice steers 900-1,300 lbs 26.00-27.00 late with bulked good grades 24.75-26.50. Standard and mixed standard and good steers 23.00-24.50. Mixed choice and prime slaughter heifers 25.75-27.00 largely 26.50 up with bulk choice 25.25-26.50 at the close. Mixed good and choice heifers 24.75-25.25 late with bulk good 23.00-24.75. Utility and commercial bulls 17.00-20.00. Good and choice vealers 21.00-25.00.

Sheep—Compared with Friday last week: Slaughter lambs strong to mostly 50 higher. Ewes advanced 50-1.00 and reached the highest levels since last July. Several loads choice and prime 100-112 lb fed western wooled lambs 18.00-18.25, four decks 105 lbs mixed shorn and wooled 17.50. A load choice and prime 94 lb shorn fed lambs with No. 1 pelts also 17.50. Choice and prime wooled native lambs 17.50-18.00, most choice 17.00-17.50. Cull to choice wooled slaughter ewes largely 5.00-5.50.

Herter Pledges U. S. Support To S. Korean Premier

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has pledged a continued support of the U.S. government for the new government of South Korean Premier John M. Chang.

This was contained in a letter delivered by Ambassador Walter P. McConaughy, who called at the premier's office today.

Herter praised the Korean people for their attitude during the April revolution which overthrew the authoritarian government of Syngman Rhee.

"The atmosphere of calm and resolution which has charterized the adoption of your new system of government and the subsequent general elections augurs well for the realization, in practical terms, of the popular aspirations which were reflected in the events of last March and April," Herter wrote.

METHODISTS NAME OFFICERS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Methodist National Lay Committee on Evangelism re-elected five of its top officers and named two new ones Saturday.

Re-elected were the chairman, Sollie E. McCreless, San Antonio, Tex.; vice chairman Hally P. Johns of Philadelphia, Richard W. Campbell of Altoona, Pa., and Kazuo Saito, Los Angeles; and treasurer Sam W. Brown of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

New officers named were Mrs. J. N. Vallow of Kinmundy, Ill., secretary; and Howard Jones, London, Ky., to a new vice chairmanship.

BEST JAPAN IN BOWL

TOKYO (AP)—The U.S. Navy eleven from Yokosuka edged Japan's Collegiate All Stars 8-0 in the fourth Turkey Bowl classic Saturday.

The victory gave the Americans three victories against one loss in the annual Turkey Bowl games. A crowd of 5,000, including U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II and Rear Adm. Frederick S. Withington of the U.S. Navy in Japan, saw the televised contest.

The Yokosuka Seahawks were limited to 175 pounds per player to equalize weight difference between smaller stature Japanese

GRAIN FUTURES RECOVER AFTER BROAD DECLINE

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—After two successive weeks of rather broad declines, the grain futures market recovered a good deal of lost ground this week.

All commodities except rye moved ahead, most of them by big leaps. Corn and oats, which had been scraping the season's bottoms for several days, made a sharp reversal and were in strong demand most of the holiday-shortened week.

Wheat ended the week 1⅜-2½ cents a bushel higher than a week ago, December $2.02-½; corn 1-1¾ higher, December $1.02¼-⅜; oats ¼-1⅞ higher, December 59⅛-¼; rye 3⅜-3¾ lower, December $1.09⅜-½; soybeans ¾ higher to ¼ lower, January $2.16¼-½.

Most influences in the trade were strictly commercial, although the government report on grains held in the price support loan was credited with imparting some firmness to wheat. A few brokers also construed as mildly bullish the report on soybean crushings during October but a few seemed inclined to disregard it as a market factor.

The report by the Department of Agriculture early in the week showed 365 million bushels of wheat placed in the loan program as of the end of October. That figure compared with only 262½ at the same time a year ago, but traders pointed out that the 1960 yield was about 21 per cent greater than 1959 production. However, they considered the increase as slightly relatively larger and an indication that a still larger volume of the grain will wind up in the loan before spring.

The soybean crush of 35½ million bushels was an increase of almost 9 million from the previous month but the trade comment on stocks of nearly 100 million bushels still held by processors was decidedly bearish.

Export business in wheat continued at a fairly good clip and the demand on that account pulled in a good deal of short covering along the way.

Corn attracted a brisk demand with the decline of cash arrivals and brokers expressed belief the peak of the harvest time pressure may now have been passed.

Irish End Long Search For Win Saturday, 17-0

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Notre Dame's long search for victory ended in the rain and mud of Memorial Coliseum Saturday as a hard-running sophomore quarterback, Daryle Lamonica, led the Irish to a 17-0 shutout over the Trojans of Southern California.

A turnout of 29,297 sat through intermittent downpours and saw the Irish finally break an unprecedented losing streak of eight straight games.

Lamonica, 19, 6-2, 205, from Fresno, Calif., guided the Irish 71 yards to set up a field goal shortly after Notre Dame got the ball on the opening kickoff. And the outcome seemed never in doubt from there on.

Southern Cals' warriors held Notre Dame scoreless in the second half but they could never mount a truly serious threat until the final play of the game.

Reserve quarterback Ben Charles passed to Jim Naples for what would have been a touchdown, but the halfback dropped the ball and the gun sounded.

The contest closed out a dismal season for both teams. Southern Cal ended with a 4-6 record and Notre Dame's 2-8 matched its previous poorest registered in 1956.

Lamonica engineered two touchdowns, scoring one himself. In 10 carries on a sloppy field he gained 53 yards, many of them on rollouts in crucial situations.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite uncertainty about the economy, the stock market made a pretty fair advance this week.

The Thanksgiving Day market recess cut the number of trading days down to four and was an additional depressant. Many traders squared away their commitments on Wednesday and went off for a long weekend.

Although expectations were for a very dull session on Friday, the market finally perked up after a couple of hours of hesitation and posted the best daily advance in more than two weeks.

Speculative demand was quite lively for more volatile stocks in the fields of electronics, vending machines and bowling equipment. Some of this buying spilled over into the less glamorous issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average spent most of the week lurking just above the 600 level which is now regarded as a downside support. There was no overwhelming opinion in Wall Street that the Dow 600 would prove a very sturdy downside barrier if a real test were made; but as things happened, the list remained well above it.

The Dow Jones industrials on the week rose 2.85 to 606.47.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.00 to 216.30.

Volume for the holiday-shortened week was 12.71 million compared with 13.97 million for the previous market week of five full days. Average daily trading was 3.12 million shares, well above average for the year and the best since the week ended Nov. 12 when it was 3.44 million.

Of 1,423 issues traded, 712 advanced and 534 declined. New highs for the year totaled 71 and new lows 63.

The most active issue this week on the American Stock Exchange was Universal Controls, up ⅜ at 15¼ on 103,200 shares.

For the fourth week in a row U.S. government bond prices faltered this holiday week. Corporates also ended on the downside as the result of a steep plunge by utility bonds.

The setback among Treasury issues did not include the shortest maturity bonds. However, among the others it was sharper than the last two weeks while still within ¾ of a point. Since the start of November the list has given up ¾ to 1½ or 2 full points.

There was little in the way of news or developments to lure either the big or small investor back into the bond markets. Trading retained the relaxed pace of the entire month. Thursday's Thanksgiving holiday lull carried over into Friday.

Volume totaled $21.55 million par value on the New York Stock Exchange compared with $24.71 million the previous week while the average for four sessions was $5.39 million compared with just below $5 million.

Northern Plains Feel Icy Bite Of Arctic Cold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bitter arctic cold bore down on the Northern Plains Saturday and threatened to hammer temperatures down to zero from Montana to northern Minnesota by Sunday morning.

The midwinter-caliber chill stung an area where only Friday the mercury soared to record highs in the 70s. Unseasonably mild and sunny weather still warmed the Central and Southern Plains and most of the east.

Cold wave warnings were in effect for portions of Montana, North and South Dakota and Minnesota. Light snow and gusty northerly winds swept the region at midafternoon. Temperatures were in the middle and lower 20s.

Unpleasant weather continued to harass other sections of the West. Rain dampened northern and central California and fell as snow in the mountains. Fog shrouded wide stretches of Oregon and Washington.

Even though flood evacuees in western Oregon were able to return to homes they were forced to leave on Thanksgiving Day, the Willamette River and tributary streams swirled higher. At least 150 families were evacuated when a 6-inch downpour swamped the area Thursday.

Gibbs Stars In 35-9 Victory For Mississippi

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Quarterback Jake Gibbs passed for two touchdowns and scored a third Saturday to lead third-ranked Mississippi to a 35-9 victory over Mississippi State and give the undefeated Rebels their second straight Sugar Bowl invitation and the Southeastern Conference title.

Rice will meet Mississippi in the Jan. 2 game at New Orleans.

Gibbs, hitting on eight straight passes in the opening half, brought the Rebel offense to life after a sluggish start and the outcome was never in doubt.

The victory, ninth in 10 games for the Rebels clinched their fourth SEC championship. Mississippi's only blemish was 6-6 tie with Louisiana State.

The Rebels marched 38 yards for their first touchdown and 68 for their second to give them a 14-0 halftime edge.

The Turf Congress

A virtual Turf Congress will be in session in New York during the latter part of November when the Thoroughbred Racing Associations, Inc., more popularly known as the TRA, holds its 19th annual meeting of the membership. Invited to participate in the 3-day conclave of some 200 officers and executives from 48 race tracks in the United States and Canada are top representatives of other groups in Thoroughbred racing such as the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, The Jockey Club, The American Thoroughbred Owners Association, Jockeys' Guild, American Trainers' Association, American Thoroughbred Breeders' Association—in fact all responsible organizations connected with horse racing. These meetings afford a forum at which the various interests in the sport that has become a multi-million dollar business can air their individual, but often inter-related problems.

The Thoroughbred himself, a very important player in this game, while not represented at the business meetings, will have his hour at the dinner which concludes the convention, when awards for the year's champion performers, named by the TRA Board of Selection, will be presented.

Use Firearms To Smash New Riots In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—National Guardsmen and police used firearms Saturday night to smash new antigovernment riots by hundreds of youthful leftists in downtown Caracas.

Officers said two persons were killed and 26 injured.

National Guard units swung into action after packs of demonstrators blocked traffic, hurled stones at police and paraded through the streets shouting pro-Castro slogans.

The new outburst erupted less than 24 hours after heavily armed guard units helped police quell a destructive demonstration here Friday night against President Romulo Betancourt's regime.

During the peak of the demonstrations, Labor Minister Raul Valera announced a break in a two-day telephone strike that had disrupted service throughout the country.

Valera said thousands of workers in Venezuela's interior had returned to their jobs with the government-owned telephone company. But hundreds of company employes in the capital failed to show up for work.

The second day of rioting began at a downtown school where more than 100 youths hung a black flag and shouted "death to Betancourt."

Other demonstrators, many of them chanting slogans hailing Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro, lit a bonfire in front of the school, about three blocks from the presidential palace.

Radio Rumbos, a Caracas station, said a group of rioters armed with pistols attempted to take control of its studios but was driven off by National Guard units.

Valera announced earlier that unions representing the telephone workers had agreed to mediate their dispute, which centered on demands for job security.

The labor minister said the dispute could have been settled without a strike except for "the intervention of well-known political sectors" among union members. He did not elaborate.

Elizabeth, Philip Create Hideaway In Windsor Castle

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip have created a hideaway in Windsor Castle, with every rug, chair, wall decoration and piece of furniture right out of today's show windows.

The queen and her husband, it was disclosed Saturday, decided to create a suite in the King Edward III Tower that would completely reflect life in 1960. Even the paintings are modern.

They planned the five-room apartment, supervised the drawings and purchases and completed the work before permitting any information to leak out.

Details of the venture were revealed in the magazine Design, published by the Council of Industrial Design.

The modern suite is for family use only and will not be open to tourists. Large sections of Windsor are seen by thousands of tourists annually at times when the queen is not in residence.

The royal couple comissioned Sir Hugh and Lady Casson to prepare the layout, making the one apartment typical of these times. Others are of the past.

In furnishing the suite, the queen drew on the ideas of prominent designers but also accepted some standard brands from manufactured stock.

REPORTED IMPROVING

LONDON (AP)—Featherweight boxer Bobby Neill, who underwent an emergency operation after a title fight against Terry Spinks last Tuesday, was reported still improving Saturday.

Neill has been in a London hospital since Spinks knocked him out in the 14th round at Wembley Indoor Stadium. The operation was for the removal of a blood clot in Neill's brain.

National 4-H Congress Meets

CHICAGO (AP)—One of the biggest annual conventions of boys and girls, the 39th National 4-H Club Congress, assembled Saturday for a five-day spree.

Some 1,350 delegates, between ages 15 and 21, have come mostly from farms, rural communities, and small towns. For many of them the congress, will afford "firsts" — their first departures from their home states, their first chances to see Chicago and stay in a large hotel, and their first meetings with other youngsters from throughout the country.

The youngsters represent some 2.3 millions who range from 10 to 21 years old and are members of some 94,200 4-H clubs. Their four "H"s stand for head, heart, hands, and health.

Debbie, And Karl Honeymoon At Secret Hideaway

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Actress Debbie Reynolds honeymooned at an undisclosed hideaway Saturday with multimillionaire shoe store owner Harry Karl, only hint the bouncy blonde gave "Someplace warm," was the when asked where she and the graying Karl would spend the weekend. One guess was Palm Springs. The bride reports back to work Monday before the cameras.

Miss Reynolds, 28, former wife of singer Eddie Fisher, and Karl, 46 and five times wed, were married Friday night at the sumptuous home of the bridegroom's sister, Sarah Pollack.

The wedding caught Hollywood by surprise, although the pair had been dating for a year.

"We decided a few days ago to get married now," the actress said, "so the children can have a real family Christmas."

She has two youngsters, Carrie Frances, 4, and Todd, 3, by Fisher. Their celebrated romance broke up early last year. Fisher married screen beauty Elizabeth Taylor shortly after Debbie testified at her divorce trial that: "My husband became interested in another woman." She didn't name Miss Taylor.

Fisher and Miss Taylor are due in Palm Springs Monday. The pair, now in Paris, wished Miss Reynolds well.

For the wedding, Miss Reynolds wore an ankle-length wedding dress of pale blue. She described her ring as "a plain wedding band of diamonds."

"I feel wonderful," she said after the ceremony.

"I never felt better in my life," Karl added.

CENTENARIAN DIES IN VANDALIA

VANDALIA, Ill. (AP) — Charles Wesley Scarlett, who observed his 100th birthday about six weeks ago, died Saturday at Fayette County Hospital in Vandalia of infirmities.

Scarlett is survived by three daughters and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday in Vandalia with burial at Vera Community near Vandalia in the locality where he formerly owned a farm.

AID FOR BROTHER BISHOP

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Twelve bishops of the Church of England in South Africa have decided to give the bishop of Johannesburg, Dr. Ambrose Reeves — recently deported by the government — 1,000 pounds — $2,800 — a year from their own pockets. The idea was suggested by the bishop of Grahamstown, Dr. Selby Taylor, who said it would be "a gesture of concern and sympathy for a brother bishop exiled from his charge," Dr. Reeves is in Britain.

Negroes, KKKs Both Demonstrate In Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Negro students disregarded white-robed hooded Klansmen parading in front of a downtown department store Saturday and picketed the store in protest over segregated lunch counters.

It was the first time Klansmen and Negroes have staged demonstrations simultaneously on the same ground in Atlanta.

Klansmen paraded around Rich's department store for three hours before leaving the scene to Negro pickets. There was no disorder and no arrests.

Thousands of shoppers paid little attention to either group. Christmas chimes from the store mingled with horns of cars that jammed the area.

The Negro picketing was a resumption of antisegregation demonstrations that resulted last month in the arrest of 79 persons on charges of violaing a new state trespass law aimed at halting lunch counter sit-ins.

After the mass arrests, a 30-day truce was called to permit white and Negro leaders to seek a solution. Negro sit-in demonstrators returned to the downtown area Friday, causing the closing of store eating facilities on what is usually the biggest shopping day of the year.

Some 30 Klansmen appeared at 10 a.m. Saturday at Rich's, largest department store in the Southeast. They marched in single file, 15 feet apart, circling the store which covers an entire block. Men in civilian clothing handed out Klan pamphlets criticizing "sit-ins, kneel-ins, wade-ins and all other push-ins." The pamphlets called attention to a segregation rally set for Wednesday night at a downtown hotel.

An hour later, fifteen or more Negro pickets bearing antisegregation and boycott signs, began parading across the street from the Klansmen. Other Negroes distributed pamphlets calling on residents to "act for freedom." Their leaflets said merchants "have flatly refused to let Atlanta Negroes shop and eat in dignity."

The Klansmen paraded for three hours. Half an hour before they left the scene, Calvin Craig, Klan grand dragon, went into Rich's, accompanied by Lester Maddox, chairman of a segregationist group.

Maddox said he came downtown to try to stop the Klan marching after some merchants made the request. He said he disapproved of picketing stores that maintain segregated eating places. But Craig said the decision to halt the Klan marching was his own.

Most of the picketed stores closed their lunch counters during Friday's demonstrations. Three drug stores opened them Saturday and Negroes staged a sit-in at once, just across the street from parading Klansmen. They sat at a counter with one of the robed and hooded Klansmen.

Klan groups are permitted to parade and demonstrate in Georgia if they obtain a charter and do not wear masks.

Despite the picketing, Richard H. Rich, president of the department store, said Friday's business equaled the volume of slightly more than $1.2 million for the comparable after - Thanksgiving sales day last year.

Oklahoma State Wins Top Award At Stock Show

CHICAGO (AP) — Oklahoma State University won one of the top awards at the 1960 International Live Stock Exposition today when a lightweight Southdown it entered was adjudged grand champion wether of the show.

The fluffy, brownish-gray 94½-pound Southdown, named Buddy, was over all other breeds and cross-breeds entered.

It was the first time Oklahoma State had won this honor since 1947.

The 9-months-old Southdown was bred by Duron Howard, Mullhall, Okla. The university bought it when it was 2 months old, and it was raised by Alex McKenzie, the university's shepherd.

McKenzie said the money realized from auctioning of the animal will go into the university's general fund. It will be sold Monday.

The record price for a grand champion weather was the $8 a pound paid in 1954 for a 98-pound wether today was shown by Ohio wether shown by Purdue University. That animal brought $784.

The reserve grand champion wether today was shown by Ohio State University. It was a heavyweight Southdown.

Southdowns also dominated preliminary competition. Ohio State won the grand champion pen of three wethers with Southdowns, and the University of Kentucky won the reserve grand championship also with a pen of Southdowns.

Meanwhile, the buildup was under way for what many consider the show's stellar contest — that for grand champion steer. Top breeders and feeders paraded their sleek animals for the judges today, but the 15 - year - old girl who'll challenge them wasn't there.

Says Europe Sees Need To Ease U. S. Dollar Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson said Saturday he found in Europe a growing realization that the U. S. balance of payments position must be improved.

Anderson and Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon said this in a joint statement issued on their return from a week-long tour of major western European capitals. They said such improvement through reduction in the outflow of U. S. dollars "is essential to maintain the free world's financial system in a sound condition."

A major aspect of their fast swing through Bonn, Paris and London was rejected by the Bonn government of their proposal that West Germany pay $600 million toward support of American military forces based in Germany.

Anderson also denied reports of differences between himself and Dillon in talks with West German officials.

"We have had perfect cooperation," he said, "and the only thing we have heard of disagreement is what we have read."

Anderson and Dillon visited the three capitals seeking ways to check the U. S. dollar drain which poses a threat to U. S. gold holdings. They sought also to persuade these countries to assume a larger role in providing funds for growth of the world's underdeveloped nations.

President Eisenhower sent them on the mission as part of his multiphased effort to correct the payments imbalance which finds the United States spending far more abroad than it receives from exports.

Anderson and Dillon will report in detail to Eisenhower, probably early next week.

Vanderbilt No Grid Match For Tennessee, 35-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— Tailback Glenn Glass spearheaded Tennessee's powerpacked single wing offense to a 35-0 victory over Vanderbilt Saturday in a Southeastern Conference football game.

The victory gave the Vols a 6-2-2 mark and left Vanderbilt without a Southeastern Conference win for the first time in history. The Commodores ended the season with a 3-7 mark.

Vanderbilt threatened once in the opening period but a stubborn Tennessee defense took over on downs at the eight and staved off every other Commodore threat.

It was Glass, a junior reserve, who ground out the important yards in Tennessee's first touchdown in the second period, with fullback Jack Nichols smacking over the final yard. Cotton Letner converted his first of three placements.

The Vols lost little time after intermission before they began adding to their lead. Glass scored the first one on a 5-yard run to climax an 80-yard drive.

Vatican Protests Haiti Expulsion Of Archbishop

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The expulsion of a Roman - Catholic archbishop from Haiti has brought a sharp, official protest from the Vatican and almost certainly exposed the Haitians responsible to automatic excommunication.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said Saturday the Holy See — in effect Pope John XXIII — has "presented the expression of its profound sorrow and its protest for the grave episode" through diplomatic channels.

There was no confirmation in the Haitian capital that the Vatican protest had been received.

The Most Rev. Francois Poirier of Port au Prince, 56, the church's highest prelate in largely Roman Catholic Haiti, was expelled Thursday.

Haitian officials accused him of having given money to Communists.

Poirier denied the charge. Now in Paris, he said that "the situation in Haiti is too delicate for me to talk." The Negro republic has been trying to end a university student strike, begun to protest the jailing of a student leader suspected of being a Communist.

The Vatican newspaper defended the archbishop and said it is not likely public opinion can be persuaded of any truth in the charges against him.

Strained relations between the Vatican and Haiti were dramatically highlighted Saturday by the absence of Haiti's Vatican ambassador from a memorial service for four cardinals who died in the past year.

Ambassador Antonio T. Kebreau here for the past 20 months, said he was too ill to attend.

Vatican circles, however described the ambassador's ailment as diplomatic, pointing out that he could have sent a representative.

Among the four commemorated was Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac primate of Yugoslavia, who died last February. His arrest, imprisonment and confinement led to the break of diplomatic relations between the Vatican and Yugoslavia in 1952—the last Vatican tie with any Communist nation.

Navy Gets Off To Head Start To Best Rival Army, 17-12

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS

Journal Courier Sports Editor

Dave Bone, a 6-6 starting candidate for Northwestern University's quintet this winter, hasn't changed a bit except for a few pounds here and there. Dave was this same height when he performed for Coach John Chapman's Crimsons two years ago but he was a shade lighter than he is now. It takes big men nowadays to compete in big time basketball not only in height but in weight as well if a player is to hold his own under the boards. And Dave's 200 pounds certainly will be an asset to him when the Wildcats begin bumping hips with some of the Big Ten's All-Americans this winter.

— o —

Dave is unchanged in many ways. He is still a gentleman first, last and always, is sincere and will always be soft-spoken. But he is different in one respect and it doesn't show. He has matured and is a man of confidence. I was able to make these observations of the relaxed athlete home from the hardcourt wars over coffee at his home Friday morning before he departed for Evanston at noon for a practice session Friday evening. Dave knows the real war hasn't began yet but what the candidates go through in drills to oust each other for starting berths would put a bayonet session to shame. Bayonets on the hardcourt in this case would resemble elbows and tall boys, especially, have the weapons to pierce the enemy.

— o —

Battling for the berths is on such a keen level of competition that the lads don't mind hurting one another if they have to (also to keep from getting chewed out by head master Bill Rohr, who was credited with one of the finest coaching achievements last year in directing the Wildcats to a third place tie in the Big Ten). Bone claimed the players felt a practice wasn't a practice unless someone earned a few stitches. In fact, one lad required stitches for five straight days and affectionately he was nicknamed 'Stitch' by his buddies, which is what they are when not engaged in basketball warfare. At the present time Dave is battling Ken Lutgens for a forward slot and although it's dog-eat-dog for the starting role they are the best of friends. After all, isn't striving to get to the top the American way of life?

— o —

Northwestern opens at home this Thursday against Western Michigan and as the season progresses and starters are established then the routine will get back to normal. Although he hasn't been through a Big 10 season yet, Bone feels the same way as Merritt Norvell about big-time sports in that the constant pressure is always there whether it be from the watchful eyes of the big crowd or within the ranks of your teammates who would like nothing better than to have your position. Both will admit, however, they enjoy every minute of it and wouldn't trade the experience for anything although it means constant work throughout the school year. The Wildcats workout every day and scrimmage on Wednesday, Friday and Sundays. Dave estimated the total number of hours per practice-week prior to the start of the season to be around 30 hours. And these lads have to maintain high grades in order to compete.

— o —

Dave, who is the only pre-med student among the 14 man squad, nine of whom are sophomores, is being groomed as a defensive center and an offensive forward. He is considered the squad's finest jumper although he wouldn't admit it but why would he be at center on defense if it weren't so? If he continues to hold down this position he has his work cut out when the Big 10 campaign swings into gear in January. Northwestern's opening three foes that month would see Dave covering Indiana's Walt Bellamy, Purdue's Terry Dischinger and Ohio State's Jerry Lucas. These lads own all kinds of Big 10 scoring records, are All-Americans of Olympic fame and if you're wondering why there is so much pressure in the big time surely these three names will sway any doubts. A few other fine players Dave will meet up with are Bill Kurz (Quincy) of Notre Dame and Dave Downey (Canton) with the Fighting Illini. Bone has played against the latter pair, also against Tommy Coe, an old foe, of Michigan.

— o —

The nucleus of the Northwestern squad is being formed by Dave, 6-6, Lutgens, 6-4, Brad Snyder, a 6-1 veteran who owns a forward position, Bill Woislaw, 6-9, and John Miller, 6-5, at center and Rohr feels he has four of the finest guards in the conference in veterans Ralph Wells and Bill Cacciatore and sophomores Bill Gibbs of Rantoul and Tom Potter of Moline. Woislaw hasn't any college experience but the Wildcat mentor is very high on him and his deadly hook shot. This year's squad has little chance to challenge Ohio State and Indiana but it could retain a first division finish if the inexperienced front line comes through. Rohr feels he'll make an interesting race of it if he can keep his big men in there. The varsity defeated the freshmen Tusday night 68-54 with Bone getting eight points plus his share of rebounds.

— o —

Dave admits his confidence wavers at times whenever Rohr harps constantly at him for a mistake although he may not be at fault. He does this with all the players and he usually gets that little extra something out of a lad. Rohr isn't one to hand out praises but when he does, "You know you've earned them," Dave stated. "He (Rohr) told me that if I worked hard and kept improving, I could become one of the best board men to ever come out of Northwestern. This is saying a lot but you might say I've made the squad on my rebounding talent alone although I'm satisfied with my scoring. He doesn't seem to care how many points you score but he does care about board control which is my biggest job this year. We're not very big and I don't know how we'll do but I'm eager to give it a try and win, lose or draw I'm going to give them the best I've got."

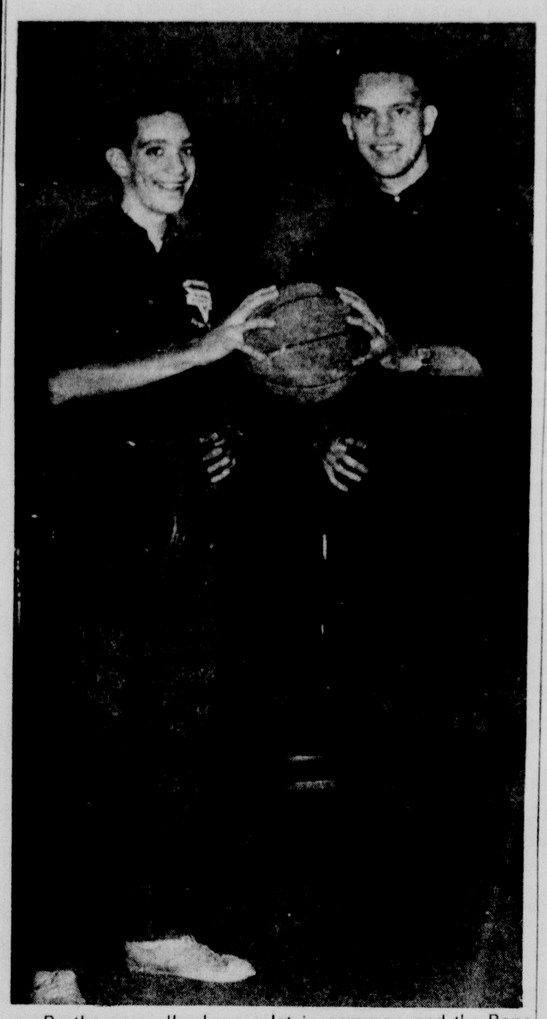

— o —

Sixteen Wildcats began cage drills and since that time two have been cut. Two more will fall by the wayside when the season opens thus trimming the squad to 12. Northwestern, one of the first colleges in the nation to don stretch nylon uniforms (the same material used for football pants), will travel by jet this year. The uniform is just minor Dave claimed but isn't bulky or binding like others he's worn. The Wildcats will stay around home this Christmas but next season they look forward to playing in tourneys at Madison Square Garden and California. They have no tournaments carded this year but on the 21-game schedule is a doubleheader in Chicago Stadium December 19-20 against California and Washington. Mom, Pop, Steve and Tim hope to be there as well as the grand-folks.

— o —

Dave isn't scared or skeptical of the coming season as he is looking forward to the chance. He admitted however offensive tip-ins were hard to come by as it's easy to get boxed out and barring injury he only wishes to make as fine a showing for Northwestern on the hardcourt as Norvell did for Wisconsin on the gridiron. Both boys are setting a trend for our future athletes by showing it can be done. It's nice to have two local products in the Big 10 spotlight, an all time first for Jacksonville, and even more so as the two standouts are sophomores. Dave has admired big time basketball ever since he was six years old and he's getting his first real big chance as freshmen aren't allowed to play a schedule. Dave expressed his opportunity with a humble, "I feel real proud to play for a big school and I'm grateful to everyone concerned."

VARSITY MATERIAL

Brothers usually share a lot in common and the Bone brothers are no exception to this rule. In this case it happens to be basketball. Steve (left) a 13 year-old, 6-3 Jonathan Turner performer, shows Dave he can palm a basketball also. Dave is on the starting five for Northwestern this winter. He enjoyed a few days at home for Thanksgiving before returning for a practice session Friday night. Fan Breezes covers Dave's hardcourt progress and his outlook this season.

Merritt Norvell Recalls His Big 10 Experiences This Fall

Editor's Note — Before Merritt Norvell left for football practice at Wisconsin in August, we talked him into writing his views concerning his chances in Big Ten football. The article was well written and proved to be of great interest to the readers. Below is the second installment and it proves even more interesting now that he has completed a season in the nation's touahest league — the Big Ten. Merritt scored two touchdowns against Iowa, was second in individual rushing with a 4.0 average, tied for second in scoring, led kickoff returns with a 14.6 average and placed third in punt returns with a 5.5 showing. The team won four and lost five. With 41 sophomores returning next year Merritt should enjoy an even bigger season.

By MERRITT NORVELL

The Big Ten — Well, I've been through it and can now shed the traditional 'rookie' nickname. I will attempt to describe the past football season which has brought about many experiences, some good, some bad.

The best word I could use to describe the conference would be a simple 'tough' and believe me it is tough in every sense of the word. There are no weak teams in this league and every Saturday presents a new challenge. This conference doesn't allow a player to be slowed by minor injuries which would allow a small college or prep player to sit a game out. Football becomes a game you play when you're hurt.

Purdue was the most underrated team in the conference. The main difference between playing Big Ten teams and non-conference teams is the feeling you get on Sunday morning and the following week. The latter teams don't present near the hurts as Minnesota, Ohio State and etc. do. If you have ever been run over by a steamroller, which I doubt, the feeling is similar. The contact is much greater with conference schools than with non-loop foes.

There is no let-up from the time fall practice commences until the final second of the last scheduled game in November. It's work seven days a week but I enjoy it. Every Sunday afternoon there is a meeting at which we view the film of Saturday's game.

I have had many fine experiences playing at Wisconsin and had the chance to brush shoulders with some of the finest college material in the nation. Tom Matte of Ohio State without a doubt was probably the finest back we faced all season. Some other stalwarts that come to mind are Willie Jones, Purdue; Jim Tiller, Purdue; Hollis, Iowa; Ferguson, Ohio State; Joe Rutgens, Illinois; Kimbrough, Northwestern; Hinshaw, Stanford; Tom Brown, Minnesota; Manders, Iowa; Rainy, Michigan; Beabout, Purdue, and halfbacks Harris and Ferguson of Iowa. I've also had the chance to discuss football with many stars of the past in addition to the present standouts.

We travel all over the country and stay in the finest hotels. I had the experience of playing my first collegiate football game at Stanford Stadium in Palo Alto. It was a three day trip and my first to the west coast. I would venture to say that this is the most beautiful stadium in the nation. It was the site of the Olympic trials earlier this year. I don't believe any golf greens in our country has grass any better than that which cushioned our cleats there.

The largest crowd we played before this year was at Ohio State's homecoming. There were 83,000 spectators. Other thrills were the nationally televised games with Iowa and Minnesota. I've heard it repeated our scrap with the Hawkeyes was one of the most thrilling games to be seen on television in quite a while. It was also quite a game to play in. The Army-Navy tilt was pretty exciting itself Saturday.

Like all college and pro teams we follow a tight pre-game schedule. Every Saturday means a different team and many changes in preparation. Monday is usually a light day for practice. We workout for about an hour and a half in sweat clothes. Then we have scouting reports on our opponents of the coming Saturday and movies are also shown of their previous games. Tuesdays and Wednesdays are work nights. These are the nights of hard contact and late practice.

Thursday night we go out in sweat clothes, shoulder pads and helmets and drill for an hour and a half. Then we watch movies until dinner time at 6:30 p.m. Our Friday schedule is altered depending on whether we are at home or on the road. If we are at home we report to practice at 3 p.m. and stage light drills. We return to the dressing room and view movies again until 6:30.

After dinner we are allowed to take in a movie but have to board a bus at 10 p.m. for the Holiday Inn, a motel outside of town. We have cookies and milk before hitting the sack. If we are on the road, we leave Madison by plane at noon Friday. Following our flight we go directly to the stadium for a short workout and follow the same routine we would at home.

Saturday morning we rise at eight o'clock for breakfast and then take a walk. Then we rest in our rooms until 10 a.m. at which time we go over our strategy again and watch movies.

Our pre-game meal is at 11:00, a half an hour before we depart for the stadium. This gives us an hour and a half before we take our warmup workout. During this time all taping is done and each of us must make at least 50 trips to the bathroom. Rubber mats are provided to lay on and in a way this is bad because it gives you too much time to think about your assignments and how many mistakes you might make that day. This is just minor pressure building up however prior to kickoff time. The real pressure begins when the ref signals for the opening kickoff.

On all road trips we leave for home right after the game. I could write a book about the various and interesting things that happen in big time football. I only hope I have given the readers some idea of what it is like in Big Ten competition. In this conference you play to win and nothing else. You don't play for ties, losses or the fun of it in this league. You play for keeps!

The players welcome the winter's rest when they can hit the books and really relax for the first time since the beginning of the school year. I plan to do the same.

During the spring I plan to play baseball unless Coach Bruhn has other ideas concerning spring football. You're not allowed to play both.

Bellino, Spooner Lead Middies To Orange Bowl

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Navy built a 17-point lead on the running of fabulous Joe Bellino and the passing of Hal Spooner and then fought off a second - half Army surge for a 17-12 victory that sent the Middies into the Orange Bowl football game against Missouri Jan. 2.

Acceptance of the Orange Bowl invitation was announced immediately after the game. It will be the Middies' fourth bowl appearance and third in six years.

A crowd of 98,616 at Philadelphia Stadium roared throughout the second half as Army fought back with two touchdowns by Al Rushatz and favored Navy struggled valiantly to hold its edge.

In the final tense moments it was Bellino, Navy's great halfback, who intercepted a pass by Tom Blanda on the goal line and ran it back 45 yards away from danger with only 12 seconds to play.

Bellino dashed over from the four behind the second team Navy line for the first score of the game at 12:33 of the first period. After Greg Mather kicked a 27-yard field goal midway in the second period, Navy hit again with Hal Spooner throwing a 12-yard scoring pass to end Jim Luper.

Completely overshadowed in that first half, Army stormed back in the second half as it went to the air on Blanda's passes and crunched out yardage along the ground with fullback Rushatz leading the way.

Still smarting from the 43-12 beating of last year, Army scored in the third on Rushatz' plunge from the one and again in the final period on another 1-yard burst by the hard-hitting fullback.

Trailing 17-12 with five minutes to go, Army crashed through and Bellino fumbled. Rushatz recovered the ball on the Navy 17.

Dick Eckert, the sophomore quarterback who alternated with Blanda in the second half comeback, drove Army to a first down on the Navy six.

Then came the play that broke Army's drive. Eckert was trapped and attempted to pitch out to Glen Adams but the ball got away with both teams chasing it out of bounds on the Navy 20. Army retained possession but a 4-yard run by Blanda and two Blanda passes that missed forced them to give up the ball.

Following a Navy kick, Army had one more shot but Bellino's interception snuffed out the Cadets' last hope and saved the day for Navy.

One Statistic Reveals Why Eagles Are No. 1

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sometimes statistics lie. Sometimes they are meaningless. But there is one statistic more than any other that tells why the Philadelphia Eagles are leading the Eastern Conference of the National Football League.

The Philadelphia team has scored 92 points in the last period of eight games it has played, an average of 11½ for each fourth quarter. Why?

Apparently because the Eagles' quick, sure pass receivers—Tommy McDonald, Bobby Walston and Pete Retzlaff—wear down the defenders and make them easy prey for Norm Van Brocklin's late-game passing.

That's what happened last Sunday when the Eagles, behind 10-0, controlled the ball practically the entire last half and scored 10 points in the final quarter to upset the Giants at New York 17-10.

And that's one reason why the Eagles are 6-point home favorites to beat the Giants (5-2-1) again Sunday and run the Philadelphia winning streak to seven after a season-opening loss to the Cleveland Browns.

If the Eagles' 92 last-period points don't seem impressive, consider that the Baltimore Colts, highest scoring team in the league through eight games, have scored only 59 in the final period out of a 238 total. Philadelphia's total is 211.

The Colts (6-2) hold the same position in the Western Conference as the Eagles do in the East—a game and a half lead with four to play. After a week off, Baltimore is home Sunday to the San Francisco 49ers (4-4), and the Colts are 15-point favorites.

If the Eagles can take the Giants they need only one more to clinch a tie for the title. Baltimore is also in good shape with only second-division opponent left on the schedule. Unless both conference leaders flop, the Dec. 26 NFL title game seems likely to be at Philadelphia where the Colts would shoot for an unprecedented third straight playoff championship.

The Green Bay Packers (5-4), who had the Western lead a few weeks back, lost their second straight, 23-10 to the Detroit Lions on Thanksgiving Day and now the Bears are the chief threat to the Colts.

Chicago (4-3-1) is favored by 22 over the visiting Dallas Texans (0-9) Sunday. The Browns (5-3) must whip the Cardinals (5-4) at St. Louis to remain in contention in the East. Cleveland is favored by a touchdown.

The East's bottom teams, Pittsburgh (3-5-1) and Washington (1-5-2), round out the schedule with the Steelers favored by 10 over the Redskins who held them to a 27-27 tie at Washington last month. Los Angeles is idle.

Georgia Squeezes Out 7-6 Win Over Georgia Tech

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—A pass interception by Bill McKenny and a point after touchdown by Dur Pennington enabled Georgia to squeeze out a 7-6 comeback football victory over Georgia Tech Saturday.

Tech scored in the second quarter of the jarring Southeastern Conference fracas, but Georgia guard Pay Dye stormed through to block the conversion effort by Tommy Wells. This proved to be Tech's death blow and resulted in a fourth consecutive loss to Georgia.

Wells missed two field goal attempts, one in the second quarter from the 22 and another from the Georgia 20 with less than five minutes to play.

Georgia scored on a plunge by fullback Bill Godfrey for three yards.

Senior quarterback Marvin Tibbetts guided Tech to its touchdown, a 55-yard drive in the second quarter. He scored it from the one after dashing 11 yards to set it up.

This was Tech's third one-point loss of the season and gave the Yellow Jackets a 5-5 record. Georgia finished with a 6-4 record.

JUST THE RIGHT TONIC

NEWBURY, England (AP)—Knuckleduster, a racehorse who trains on two bottles of beer a day, scored a 15-length victory in the Hennessy Gold Cup Handicap Steeplechase Saturday.

His trainer, Derek Ancil, rode the horse to his fourth straight victory of the season. Then he told of Knuckleduster's drinking habits.

Ohio State's NCAA Champions Are Pre-Season Favorites To Defend Big 10 Title Successfully

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State's NCAA basketball champions are pre-season favorites to defend their Big Ten title successfully, and only Indiana is given any chance of challenging the Buckeyes.

Ohio State virtually has the same squad which ran rampant through the Big Ten and then knocked off mighty California to nail down the National Collegiate Athletic Association crown.

Led by All-America Jerry Lucas, the Buckeyes will have their first team intact with the exception of Joe Roberts, a powerful rebounder. Lucas, 6-8, will play alongside John Havlicek, Mel Nowell and senior Larry Siegfried. Roberts will be replaced by either Richie Hoyt or Bob Knight, both 6-4.

The Buckeyes again boast strong rebounding, excellent shooting and good speed. If they have a weakness, it could come from the bench with the loss of Roberts and 6-7 Dick Furry.

Indiana is a definite threat and has the personnel to go all the way. Leading the Hoosiers is 6-11 Walt Bellamy, one of the nation's better big men. Gordon Mickey, Bill Altman, Gary Long and dribbler Jerry Bass could round out the first team.

Purdue has a veteran team with Terry Dischinger, a sophomore sensation last season with his deadly shooting, at the controls. The Boilermakers have holdover lettermen in Dick Mitchell, Bob Oill, Tim McGinley, Jerry Berkshire, Bob Kehrt and Phil Wills.

The Boilermakers upset Indiana in their conference opener last January but inexperience caught up to the sophomores. They're a year older and could turn Purdue into the league's darkhorse.

Illinois is relying on sophomores and Coach Harry Combes could have one of the best in the league in Bill Small. Small, sophomore Dave Downey and senior John Wessels have won starting berths. Sophomore Jerry Renner has been impressive in workouts but Illinois is expected to do a lot of experimenting before presenting a starting lineup for the conference opener at Ohio State Jan. 7.

Northwestern has a 14-man squad which includes nine sophomores. Guards Ralph Wells and Bill Cacciatore are the only first stringers back from last season. Leading sophomore candidates are Dave Bone, Tom Potter and Bill Gibbs.

Minnesota's prospects are confused because of the questionable status of 6-6 Ray Cronk and 6-5 Paul Lehmann. Cronk was not in school for the fall quarter and will have to make up his grades to be eligible for the Big Ten campaign. Lehmann had a knee operation and cannot see service until January.

Iowa has only two seniors, Ron Zagar and Dennis Runge. However, the Hawkeyes also have pivotman Don Nelson, one of the team's leading scorers last season as a sophomore.

Wisconsin hopes to improve on its ninth-place finish. The Badgers have seven lettermen, including 6-6 Tom Hughbanks and 6-2 Marty Gharrity and 5-11 Jack Ulwelling.

Michigan State also has problems. Dave Fahs and Art Schwarm are the only returning lettermen. Top sophomore candidates are 6-7 Ted Williams, 6-5 Dick Hall and 6-3 Jack Lamers.

Michigan will try to climb out of the cellar under the guidance of new head coach Dave Strack, a former Wolverine star. John Tidwell is the Wolverines top scorer and other lettermen include Bob Brown, Rich Donley, Jon Hall, Steve Schoenherr and Charles Higgs. Michigan has a great prospect in 6-7 Tom Cole, a sophomore from Springfield, Ill.

Six of the Big Ten teams will play Thursday. Creighton will be at Illinois, South Dakota State at Iowa, Bradley at Minnesota, Western Michigan at Northwestern, Ohio State at Ohio University and Wisconsin at Butler. Michigan and Purdue will debut Friday night and Indiana and Michigan State will hold off their openers until Saturday.

Rice Lands Bid To Bowl Despite Loss To Baylor

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Bobby Ply led Baylor on a 75-yard drive with less than three minutes to go Saturday to beat Rice 12-7 and hand the Southwest Conference championship to Arkansas.

But the defeat did not keep Rice out of the Sugar Bowl. It was extended an invitation immediately after the game by the Sugar Bowl Selection Committee and took the bid to meet Mississippi.

Rice had scored with 5:39 left as sophomore Randy Kerbow led an 80-yard parade and Max Webb kicked the extra point that gave the Owls a 7-6 lead.

Then Ply stepped in, and with help from Ronnie Stanley and Ronnie Bull, led Baylor to victory as 30,000 fans screamed.

There was only 2:23 left on the clock as Baylor made its touchdown. Ply passed for 38 yards in the winning drive.

Haas, Pott Extend Mobile Open Lead To Two Strokes

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Freddie Haas and Johnny Pott stumbled in with one-under-par 71s Saturday but extended their lead to two strokes in the third round of the $15,000 Mobile Open golf tournament.

The round also was marked by a triple bogey 7 by Arnold Palmer, the year's leading money-winner at $71,716, who wound up with a two-over-par 74 and dropped four strokes off the pace.

Haas, New Orleans, now stands at 66-68-71—205, and Pott, Shreveport, La., at 68-66-71—205.

Two strokes back were Jon Gustin, Gladwyne, Pa., opening day leader with Haas, with 66-69-72—207, and Dave Hill, Denver, Colo., at 68-70-69—207.

Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., followed at 69-70-69—208. Another stroke back were Palmer, of Ligonier, Pa., at 68-67-74—209 and George Bayer, Pasadena, Calif., 71-70-68—209.

Final round of the 72-hole tournament is on tap Sunday.

Don Fairfield of Jacksonville, Ill., and Dick Hart of Hinsdale, Ill., were in a six-man tie for fifth place. Fairfield's card, to date, is 72-69-70—211.

KIWANIS BANQUET SPEAKER

The Kiwanis football banquet honoring the city's four football teams on Thursday, December 8, will feature Ray Eliot as the guest speaker. Now assistant director of athletics at the University of Illinois, Eliot retired from active coaching Jan. 1 after 28 years of service, 23 of which were at the university, his Alma Mater.

Eliot's coaching career began in Jacksonville at Illinois College. He served one year as assistant football coach, then was promoted to the head coaching job and compiled an impressive 17-10-2 record. He also served as baseball coach, and his teams won 71 games while losing only nine.

As head football coach at the university from 1942 through 1959, Eliot posted an overall record of 83-73-11, won or shared three Big Ten titles, and produced decisive victories in the two Rose Bowl games in which his teams appeared. Earlier, while serving as one of Bob Zuppke's line coaches, he also was head hockey coach and assistant baseball coach.

Eliot first arrived on the university campus in 1928 from his home in Brighton, Mass., with $5.85 in his pocket and three shirts. Fighting handicaps such as poor eyesight and the fact he was self-supporting, he managed to maintain a good scholastic record and play three years of varsity football and baseball. In 1931, his last season as an Illini gridder, Eliot was named by Ohio State players as the best guard they had faced all year.

As an Illini football and baseball player, an Illinois College coach, a line assistant to Zuppke, and head coach at his Alma Mater, Eliot has stuck firmly to his dedicated assignment in life, "a builder of fine men."

His solid background in coaching, his dynamic speaking ability, his great popularity with persons from every walk of life, all equip him perfectly for his speaking assignment at the Kiwanis banquet before the football teams and fans of the Jacksonville area.

Tickets for the event to be held in the Illinois College gymnasium may be purchased at The Drexel, Heidinger Drug, Steinheimer Drug, Illinois College, Jacksonville High School, Routt High School, Illinois School for the Deaf, or from any member of the Kiwanis Club.

Football Roundup

Navy rolled to a 17-12 victory over Army Saturday and promptly accepted an invitation to play Missouri in the Orange Bowl on Jan. 2 as the major bowl alignments were virtually completed on the final big Saturday of the college football season.

Mississippi made a bid for the national title by trouncing Mississippi State 35-9, and then as champion of the Southeastern Conference, voted to return to the Sugar Bowl.

Ole Miss' opponent will be Rice, which took a 12-7 beating from Baylor in its finale to finish in a three-way tie for second place in the Southwest Conference behind Arkansas.

Arkansas already had clinched the host spot in the Cotton Bowl and officials Saturday invited Duke to provide the opposition. The Blue Devils, idle, promptly accepted.

Alabama gained the Bluebonnet Bowl spot by shutting out Auburn 3-0.

This will be Navy's first appearance in the Orange Bowl. The Middies have played in the Sugar and Cotton bowls in recent years and made a Rose Bowl appearance in 1924.

Navy built up a 17-0 lead in the first half on a 4-yard run by Joe Bellino, a 27-yard field goal by Greg Mather and a 12-yard pass from Hal Spooner to Jim Luper.

But in the end, the Middies had to fight off the rebounding Cadets.

Mississippi's victory was the Reb's final bid for the national championship which will be determined on the results of the last Associated Press poll of the season next week.

Ole Miss is No. 3 in the current poll behind Minnesota and Iowa. Both completed their seasons last week and both were defeated once. Mississippi has a 6-6 tie with Louisiana State to mar its otherwise perfect record.

In other games, North Carolina dealt Virginia its 27th straight defeat, 38-5; Texas Christian downed Southern Methodist 13-0; Georgia edged Georgia Tech 7-6; Holy Cross toppled Boston College, 16-12; Tennessee whitewashed Vanderbilt, 35-0; Clemson trounced Furman, 42-14; South Carolina clubbed Wake Forest, 41-20; Louisiana State halted Tulane 17-6; Oklahoma vanquished Oklahoma State 17-6; Notre Dame snapped an 8-game losing streak and blanked Southern California, 17-0; the Air Force Academy upset Colorado, 16-6; Tulsa tripped Houston 26-16, and UCLA got past Utah, 16-9.

Big Scramble For Bowl-Bound Teams Erupts Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The big scramble for major college football bowl teams Jan. 2 erupted Saturday, with the Orange Bowl at Miami getting a big plum in Navy, Mississippi and Rice going into the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, and Duke accepting a bid to meet Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl.

This completed the major Jan. 2 setup, since Washington of the Big Five and Minnesota of the Big Ten already had been lined up for the Rose Bowl.

No sooner had the Midshipmen reached their Philadelphia dressing room after beating Army's Cadets 17-12 than the team announced it would go to Miami to play Missouri in the Orange Bowl.

Mississippi, unbeaten in 10 games but tied 6-6 by Louisiana State earlier in the season, manhandled Mississippi State 35-9 and as expected voted to play again in the Sugar Bowl.

Rice, although beaten 12-7 by Baylor, accepted an invitation to meet Mississippi at New Orleans.

Duke of the Atlantic Coast Conference was idle Saturday, but accepted a bid to meet Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. Duke has one game to go, meeting UCLA next Saturday.

Alabama defeated Auburn 3-0, and voted to play Texas in the Blue-bonnet Bowl Dec. 17 at Houston.

Baylor already had been on tap for the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 31. While an official opponent was yet to be signed, Florida players had agreed to play there if a bid was forthcoming.

Howard Arundel Wins Scratch Singles Title At Springfield Sunday

Howard Arundel of Jacksonville added his name to an elite list of local bowlers who have more than held their own with Springfield's finest keglers.

Arundel won the Scratch Singles title last Sunday in the Springfield Bowling Association City Singles tournament. The champ rolled 212, 233 and 213 for a total of 658 and with handicap, a 708.

He bowls in the Tuesday night Senior Commercial League at the Parkview Lanes.

Other Jacksonville winners in the past: Alan Smith, 1959, won the All-Events title; Ralph Eoff and Tony Gaudio, 1958, Springfield Doubles crown; Wally Baptist, 1958, won 'Round the Town' tourney; and Ralph Eoff and Wally Baptist, 1957, doubles champs.

Over the years the local men including Eddie Page, who was recruited for his bowling ability by Springfield, have fared real well in the Capital City.

Anderson, A Diabetic, Found Dead Saturday; Played For Chargers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ralph Anderson, 25, star end of the Los Angeles Chargers and one of the finest pass receivers in the American Football League, died Saturday, probably of a diabetic attack.

Anderson, a quiet giant who had suffered from diabetes for years, was found dead on a bed in a girl friend's apartment. He had gone there after a night out and dropped drowsily on the bed with his clothes on. That was the way he was found.

News of Anderson's death stunned the Chargers and broke up their final practice session for their game here Sunday with the Oakland Raiders.

"I can't believe he won't be with us any more," said linebacker Ron Botchan, who was Anderson's roommate on the road.

"The news was absolutely shocking," said Coach Sid Gillman.

Anderson actually was contested Charger property. The Chicago Bears, for whom Anderson formerly played, have sued the Chargers for $300,000, contending the Los Angeles club had lured the big end away from them.

Anderson's girl friend, Virginia Hunt, 23, told police they went to a movie Friday night with Botchan and later had a few drinks.

Later, Virginia said, they went to her apartment and Anderson lay down. She said she left him in the bedroom and made a bed for herself in the living room.

Saturday morning, she said, she came into the bedroom, saw Anderson's feet moving, and thought she was waking up. But when she returned five minutes later, she said, he was motionless. She turned him over, but he was limp.

Anderson, a 6-foot-2 220-pounder, was graduated from Los Angeles State College in 1958. This season he caught 44 passes for 614 yards and scored five touchdowns for the Chargers.

Alabama Slips By Auburn, 3-0, On Field Goal

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Alabama squeezed past Auburn 3-0 Saturday on Tommy Brooker's 22-yard field goal and an ironclad defense. Alabama then promptly accepted an invitation to play in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

The Tide, closing out with an 8-1-1 record, will meet Texas, with a 7-3 mark, in the bowl at Houston, Tex., Dec. 17.

Despite the close score, this 25th game in a cross state rivalry dating back to 1892 belonged to Alabama all the way.

The Crimson Tide, closing out with an 8-1-1 mark, used a livelier-than-usual offense and a stiffer-than-usual defense to bottle up Auburn's tough Tigers almost from beginning to end.

The running of Mike Fracchia, Leon Fuller, Pat Trammell and Billy Richardson, and the passing of Bobby Skelton led Alabama deep into Auburn terriory three times in the first half alone.

Skelton's passing and Fracchia's running led the Tide to the Auburn six in the second quarter. Then Brooker, booting from the 12, got Alabama's three-pointer.

McPike, Watts Awarded Letters At Kirksville

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. — Milt McPike and Bob Watts of Jacksonville were among 31 boys receiving football letters this season at Northeast Missouri State Teachers College.

McPike, a junior majoring in physical education and industrial arts, is the son of Mrs. Catherine McPike, 330 Marion St., and Watts, a sophomore majoring in physical education, is the son of Mrs. Catherine Watts, 1105 Hackett Ave. Both were members of the defensive backfield on the 1960 team, which won the conference championship of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association. This is McPike's third letter and Watts' first at the College.

Finest Bowlers Available Enter Match Tourney

CHICAGO (AP)—The finest bowlers available are in a field of 128 men and 64 women competing in the fourth World's Invitational Match Game Championship Tournament in the Coliseum next week.

A special tourney preview officially will open the $48,240 meet Thursday night. The 11-day grind across 16 lanes will begin in earnest Friday morning.

The men's field will bowl six games a day for four days before being cut to the high 48 scorers. The survivors will fire 12 more games on Dec. 6, with the top 15, on the basis of 36-game totals, joining defending champion Don Carter of St. Louis in the match game finals.

The entire women's field will bowl four games daily the first four days. The 32 high scorers will bowl eight more games on Dec. 6 to establish the finalists who will join defending champion Olga Gloor of Chicago in the finals.

The fields include entries from 25 states, Mexico and Canada. The winning jackpots for men and women, respectively, are $7,500 and $4,000.

In addition to the defending champions, the field includes national all-star champions Harry Smith of St. Louis and Sylvia Wene, Philadelphia; the 1957 World's champion Marion Ladewig, Grand Rapids, Mich.; ABC masters winner Billy Golembiewski, Detroit; ABC singles king Paul Kulbaga, Cleveland; ABC all-events champion Vince Luccie, Morristown, Pa.

CHANGING TIMES

NORTH CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — Forty-five years ago it cost the U. S. Navy $25,092 to erect twin 410-foot radio towers at the Great Lakes Training Center.

Today it's going to cost the U. S. Navy $24,994 to dismantle them. Built in 1915, the towers have not been used for the past 10 years.

Tornadoes Come Alive In 2nd Quarter To Best Jacks In Opener

TAYLORVILLE — After a shaky start, Coach Al Sherline's Tornadoes came roaring back to sink 34 charity tosses and hit 43.5 per cent of their shots for a 74-50 victory over Jacksonville High Saturday night in a cage opener for both quintets.

Jacksonville got off to an 8-1 lead in the first quarter but the Crimsons committed too many fouls and Taylorville quickly capitalized on the opportunity to come back and grab a second quarter lead that held for the remainder of the game.

The losers were guilty of 26 personal fouls while Taylorville was charged with 18. JHS lost Rich Sweeney, Ken Norton, Chip Baldwin and Gary Spangenberg on fouls in the second half.

Saturday night's victory was almost a repeat performance of last year's opener between the two schools as Taylorville earned its triumph from the charity line. However, last night's game saw the Tornadoes three field goals better, 20-17.

Ken Norton led Jacksonville's scoring with 12 points before fouling out in the third period. Ten of the points came in the first half.

Larry Dial was Taylorville's big gun with 23 tallies, 13 of them coming in the first two quarters. Ken McNeely also chipped in with 16 toward a winning cause.

Blow 7-Point Lead

Taylorville jumped off to a one-point advantage at the outset on a free throw by Larry Dial but the margin didn't hold up very long as JHS center Rich Sweeney countered with a layup for a 2-1 margin. The Chapman five then built up a seven point spread, 8-1, with Ken Norton getting a three-point play, Gary Spangenberg a field goal and Bill Stanford a charity toss.

Coach Al Sherline's Tornadoes collected their first eight points from the free throw line and the JHS lead slowly dwindled. Chip Baldwin hit two quick buckets to keep Jacksonville out in front, 16-10, but not for long. A field goal and two free throws by Jim Achenbach in the dying seconds knotted the score at 16-all after eight minutes of play. Of Taylorville's 16 points in the initial canto, 10 were from the charity line.

JHS Falters

After a slow start, Taylorville began its bid to overhaul the Crimsons with a torrid second quarter. Sweeney broke a 16-16 tie with a free throw but it was the final lead for the Crimsons as the Tornadoes roared back on successive buckets by Dial, McCormick and McNeely.

With JHS laying off its full court press Taylorville quickly put a 10-point advantage on the boards, 33-23. The Crimsons felt the opening game mistakes in this period with some bad passing, several violations and missed layups.

While Jacksonville was going through the period cold, it was just the opposite for Taylorville. The Tornadoes hit seven of nine field goal attempts after connecting on only three of 11 tries the first quarter. The winners shot at a 50 per cent clip for the half while JHS hit nine of 29 attempts for 31 per cent. The Crimsons also ran into personal foul trouble with Baldwin and Sweeney collecting four apiece while Spangenberg was charged with three for the half. Jacksonville trailed by nine at intermission, 37-28.

Maintain Pace

With the Crimsons in foul trouble Taylorville was able to control its point margin against Chapman's juggled lineup. The Tornadoes had their lead trimmed to seven points at the start of the third frame on a basket by sub John Warga but from there Taylorville maintained anywhere from a 10-15 point spread, the margin the winners enjoyed after three periods, 56-41.

Jacksonville lost its front line in Ken Norton, Rich Sweeney and Chipper Baldwin via fouls this stanza. Both teams were all even in field goals with 15 apiece but the Tornadoes had sunk 26 free throws to JHS' 11 after 24 minutes of play.

Matter of Time

The fourth quarter was just a matter of time running out because it was evident the Crimsons weren't about to overtake Taylorville's comfortable lead. While JHS was going scoreless the first two minutes of the final canto the Tornadoes piled up their biggest advantage of the contest and maintained the 20-point plus advantage.

The Crimsons' most noticeable weakness came under the boards, especially their own, which Taylorville dominated. This weakness resulted in only nine points for the losers in the final eight minutes of play.

For the game, Taylorville hit 20 of 46 attempts from the floor for a 'hot' 43½ shooting percentage while JHS connecied on 17 of 63 shots for a game total of 27 per cent.

'Mail Early' Plea Of Postmaster Phil Day

Postmaster Phillip Day said Saturday "Early mailing of all Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting all of the mail delivered before Christmas. Post Office facilities have been expanded, extra help will be available, and everything is geared up to handle a record Christmas mail in Jacksonville this year."

The entire Christmas mailing period is a big battle against time. Even though Christmas is a month away by the calendar, it's Christmas every day at the Post Office from now on.

The Postmaster advises, "Don't take chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages. Use sturdy corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy wrapping paper and strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be well stuffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the contents."

He said further, "If you have articles of unusual size or bulk, better check with the Post Office before attempting to mail them. The limit of size and weight of packages vary, depending on where you mail your packages from."

Always send your Christmas cards by First Class mail and be sure to include your return name and address on each Christmas card envelope.

Send all Christmas mail going long distances before December 10th. Follow up promptly with cards and gifts for local delivery Mail "Early and Often" for a merrier Christmas!

Alfred Marshall, Born In Scott, Dies At Age 84

WINCHESTER — Alfred Marshall, 84, father of C. E. Marshall of Winchester, died early Saturday morning at St. Francis Hospital in Litchfield. Mr. Marshall was a resident of Harvel, Ill.

He was born April 19, 1876, on a farm east of Winchester, the son of Joseph and Mary Ann Marshall. On Nov. 20, 1897, he was united in marriage to Miss Lettie M. Henry of Winchester who survives. The couple resided on a farm east of Winchester until 1904 when they moved to the Harvel-Morrisonville community and continued farming until 1948. In 1943 they moved to their present home in Harvel.

Mr. Marshall served his community in a number of ways. He helped organize the Harvel Community High School District and served on the Board of Education for 20 years. He served as road commissioner of King Township, as King Township Committeeman for many years, and County Committeeman in the ASC office in Taylorville.

He was a member of the Harvel Christian Church and at present was chairman of the official church board and also was serving as a Deacon. He was a member of the Litchfield IOOF since 1919 and a member of the Modern Woodman Lodge in Morrisonville.

He is survived by his wife, the former Lettie Henry, and the following children, Mrs. Earl Wernsing, Mrs. Chester Vanzant and Fred, all of Harvel; C. E. Marshall of Winchester and Cletus Marshall, Carlinville.

He leaves one sister, Mrs. Rose M. Dunn of Decatur, Ill., eleven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held on Monday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. at the Harvel Christian Church. The pastor, Rev. William White, will officiate. Burial will be in Harvel Cemetery.

The body is at the Bivin Funeral Home in Morrisonville where friends may call Sunday afternoon and evening.

Accidents Send 3 To Hospital At Jerseyville

JERSEYVILLE — Three emergency cases were cared for Thursday at the Jersey Community Hospital.

Edgar Reynolds of Jerseyville was brought to the hospital at 2 a.m. Thursday suffering with first and second degree burns on both feet. The Reynolds baby started to pull over a vaporizer in use at their home and Mr. Reynolds jumped to save the child from burns. The boiling liquid spilled over his feet, severely burning them. He was treated at the hospital and released.

Laverne Price, age 2, fell out of bed at the home Thursday morning and was brought to the hospital for treatment about 3 a.m., suffering from a neck injury. He returned home after treatment.

John Bonner, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Bonner of Brussels fractured his left elbow Thursday afternoon when he fell off of a wheel barrow at his home. He was given emergency treatment at the local hospital and then transferred to an Alton hospital.

Jess Braden, aged 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Braden of Jerseyville, incurred a half inch laceration on the right side of his scalp in a fall down stairs at his home about 9:10 p.m. Nov. 23. He was brought to the Jersey Community Hospital where the wound was treated, sutures being required, and he was then dismissed.

Burglar Fails To Jimmy Safe At Swift & Co.

A rugged steel safe in the office of Swift & Co., on Johnson street took all a burglar had to give it late Friday night or early Saturday morning, but refused to yield up any cash it held.

Repeated pounding knocked off the combination knob and outer door, but the inner door of the safe held firm against the assault.

Officials of the firm said only petty cash had been left in the safe.

The cash drawer was pulled out, disappointing the burglar as it was empty.

Police said the break-in occurred after the burglar worked a sliding door at the southeast corner of the building. An inside door was then forced open with a crowbar.

Discovery of the burglary was made at 7:23 o'clock Saturday morning.

Two Accidents Occur On Main Street Saturday

Police investigated two accidents in the 1200 block on South Main Street Saturday which occurred within five minutes of each other. Both collisions were mishaps involving autos in a single lane of traffic.

The first accident reported at 5:17 p.m. occurred as a car driven by Harry M. Smith heading south on Main street was attempting to turn off into the driveway at Clancy and Thompson's Grocery. He was struck from the rear by a car driven by William R. Suttles of Woodson. Smith told police he was signalling for the turn; Suttles said he did not see the signal.

At 5:20 p.m. a car driven by Chris Beck of 303 West College also was heading south on Main street was forced into a parked car belonging to Russell G. Hutchens, Roodhouse. Beck told officers he swerved to avoid an oncoming car which was passing another auto. His auto jumped the curbing and struck the fence at the State Hospital after colliding with the Hutchens auto. Beck's car was towed to Brummetts garage.

No persons were injured in the accidents.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. James Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Evans and Vicki of Peoria. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Barth Sr. of Chapin were afternoon callers.

Billion Dollar Jackpot Awaits Missing Heirs

This is one of a series of articles on the tracing of missing persons compiled from actual case histories made available to this paper by Tracers Company of America.

How would you like to share in a three billion dollar jackpot? Sounds fantastic, doesn't it? But there's at least that much money — probably more — just lying around in banks and things just waiting for someone to claim it.

Dan Eisenberg, a man who makes a business of digging up lost fortunes—and the people they belong to —has located windfalls totaling more than $200,000,000 in a unique treasure search that covers the world. Eisenberg is a specialist in one of the world's most unusual businesses, finding lost people, including stockholders and heirs.

WHAT IS A MISSING STOCKHOLDER? He's someone who has some old valuable papers stuffed away and has either long since forgotten about them or he thinks them worthless. He may have inherited them, along with a lot of other castoffs. About 35% of those listed as missing stockholders are dead. It's the widows and heirs that get the forgotten fortunes.

ONE LARGE CORPORATION has $52,000 idling for a stockholder to claim it. The stock was bought in 1903 for $2,000. Chances are the original owner is long since dead and his heir has the stock certificates lying around among grandpa's old papers.

Millions Waiting

ONE BANK ALONE in the West, holds $8,000,000 for lost security holders. A financial institution in New York State holds several million dollars for "lost" stockholders of 70 defunct corporations. In California there is $12,200,000 in dormant estates, $150,000 in Revolutionary War Bonds, $20,000 in safety deposit boxes, etc. Recently attorneys general from California, West Virginia, Michigan, Connecticut, Minnesota and Wyoming, met to work out a program to establish the rights of the living to the estates of the deceased, and to decide how to dispose of the unclaimed millions from thousands of estates.

No Legal Obligation

LEGALLY, CORPORATIONS AND BANKS are not obligated to track down missing stockholders, and few have the facilities to do it. So dividend checks and other interest lies idle. But in recent years many companies, eager to clear up their records, have sought expert assistance to find their lost stockholders and heirs. This is where Dan Eisenberg comes in. Many of America's largest corporations, banks and law firms have turned over to him long lists of names of missing stockholders and heirs for him to locate. He already found over 200,000 of them and is currently looking for 35,000 more.

With only slim clews, Eisenberg's agents trace them thousands of miles, sometimes half way around the world. A missionary was traced to the Belgian Congo—the unsuspecting heir to $3,500.

"Most" Need the Money

THE LARGEST MONEY POT went to a couple of elderly, wealthy Park Avenue sisters who needed an extra $400,000 like a hole in the head. But in most cases Eisenberg has found that the money comes in very handy. One $156,000 was divided among two heirs. Eisenberg found one of them in a rented room in Philadelphia, raising canaries for a living.

Eisenberg originally built his reputation looking for credit skips, bill jumpers, etc. Later he expanded to include missing husbands, wives, relatives and others who did the Arabian tent-folding act for one reason or another.

During his 35 years of experience he handled many famous disappearance cases. In 1947, he added a new department whose specialization was to search for missing stockholders and heirs and this now accounts for about 50% of the bulk of his work. His firm, Tracers Company of America, is located at 515 Madison Ave., New York. He is successful in finding over 85% of the missing persons he goes after.

Many of those he finds are the heirs to stock bought in the late 1920's, when thousands speculated for the first time—often without telling their wives and families—on ventures they later gave up as valueless. When dividends stop coming many assumed their stock was worthless. As Eisenberg points out, few realized that while corporations may merge, liquidate, recapitalize, change their name, or in other ways lose their identity, their securities may still remain valuable. Typical of the instructions Eisenberg may get is this slim lead: "Find William E. Baldwin or his next of kin. In 1907 he was located at 127 Walton Place. Bought 50 shares of stock in National Mining and Smelting Co., later merged with Superior Smelting and Refining Co." Next of kin was a daughter who knew nothing about her late father's investment, which now brought over $20,000.

Illinois Recipient

A CHICAGO WIDOW, Mrs. Martha Staver, received $27,000 the result of an investment that she and her husband had believed to be worthless. The reception he gets while delivering his surprise bundles is sometimes rather astonishing.

He notified one "missing" stockholder that he had approximately $6,000 coming in stocks and accumulated dividends from—let's call them—the Teapot corporation. The disgruntled stockholder growled for some inexplicable reason, "You tell Teapot to drop dead." He didn't want their money and wouldn't take it! However, not many carry their grudges this far. A thankless beneficiary at first was delighted to hear the news that he had $800 coming from a dead brother's stock. A day later he called back, boiling mad. "Why in hell didn't you find me eight weeks ago when the stock was worth $860?"

A MAN IN ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. had 2 stock certificates he thought worthless. To remind himself of his poor judgment, he plastered them on a wall of his home. When notified they were worth money, he sawed around them and took the piece of wall to New York. He got $18,000 and bought a new house.

Can Check Old Stocks

EISENBERG HAS FACILITIES— to check every old stock certificate issued since 1860, including a list of 3,600 obsolete but valuable securities. Thousands of people come to him to learn whether their old stocks have any real value. He receives more than 100 letters a day, many inclosing yellowed securities, and about 20% of them pay off handsomely.

From Every Walk

HE ENCOUNTERS IRONIC TWISTS in his treasure hunt. One missing stockholder turned out to be a member of a nudist camp who once invested in a clothing manufacuring firm. Another was a man who made his living organizing deep sea diving expeditions to seek lost treasures. His own lost treasure came to $6,500. Others include a pickle salesman from South America, a silversmith who invested in a copper mine, a French chef who invested in a food canning concern, a circus clown, a gravedigger, a ventriloquist. One missing heir—to $20,000—turned out to be in a mental institution in Missouri. One man, notified of a $3,000 jackpot from a dead uncle's stock, said joyously, "Why that dirty capitalist!"

A MAJORITY OF MISSING STOCKHOLDERS & HEIRS are found through hard work and research, checking into shelves of old records, directories, and files that line Eisenberg's New York office, Tracers Co. of America. He has agents all over the world, with the exception of areas behind the Iron Curtain. They cracked one case by canvassing ten cemeteries around the city, scanning tombstones for the family name—the only clew that had been supplied for one missing stockholder. Eventually the trail led to two women, one 86 and the other 92, who were the dead man's heirs.

Inspection For Delta Nu Set For January 7

Delta Nu chapter of Delta Theta Tau met in regular business session Monday evening, November 21, in the Garden Room at Dunlap Hotel with sixteen members in attendance.

The meeting was conducted by Fran Chumley, president, who announced Delta Nu's tri-ennial inspection which will be held on January 7, 1961, at Dunlap Hotel with Marcia Browning as inspecting officer.

Reports were given by ways and means chairman, Bernice Rutherford, concerning recent money making projects for philanthropy.

On December 2 and 3 the sorority will conduct its fall rummage sale back of the County Jail.

The group voted to purchase a Jacksonville-MacMurray Music Association season ticket to be used by a student at I.B.S.S. school.

Florence Murray, delegate to Epsilon Province Convention in Decatur, November 12-13 at the Orlando Hotel, gave her report. The meeting was conducted by Almyra Jackson, Province Chairman, who was re-elected for a second term. Next year's convention will be held in Peoria with Pekin as co-host city.

The Christmas party committee chairman, Norma Cox, and members announced the annual party would be held on Monday, December 12, location to be announced later. Next regular meeting will be held at the Dunlap on December 4 at 7:45.

Mrs. Otto Turner

Joyce Campbell Bride At Winchester Church

WINCHESTER—Miss Joyce Lorene Campbell of Winchester and Otto Turner of Centralia were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, November 20, at the Methodist church. Rev. Strouse performed the double ring ceremony. Aqua tinted carnations, greenery and burning tapers decorated the church.

The bride is the daughter of the Ray Campbells, Winchester and Mr. Turner is the son of Mrs. Clara V. Meyers, Centralia.

Mrs. Jean Ann Herring presided at the church organ and accompanied the soloist, Richard Coultas.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Oliver Ator, Griggsville, was matron of honor. Another sister, Marilou Clarkson, Pittsfield was bridesmatron and a niece, Miss Kaye Stewart, Griggsville, was bridesmaid. Starla Rae Clarkson, Pittsfield, a niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Oliver (Skeet) Ator, Griggsville, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Duane Cox of Gorham and Earl Bishop, Jerseyville. The bride's cousin, Jimmie Campbell, Winchester, was ring bearer.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore an aqua velvet wedding dress and carried a cascade of yellow roses.

The matron of honor wore rust velvet and secondary attendants were in gold velvet. Their flowers were bronze mums. The flower girl wore aqua velvet.

The bride's mother wore light green lace with gold cymbidium orchids and the groom's mother, a deep floral blue figure, with pink cymbidium orchids.

Receive at Hotel Winchester

A reception was held at Hotel Winchester following the ceremony. Lloyd Bieber of Jacksonville entertained at the organ. Assisting were Mabel Campbell, Beulah Rae Bishop, Barbara Ann Hoots, Dixie Hoots, JoAnn Campbell, Katherine Montgomery, Barbara Yelliott and Ginger Leinweber.

Upon their return from a honeymoon in Colorado and other points west the newlyweds will make their home at Centralia where the groom is a ceramic tile contractor. The bride graduated in 1954 from Winchester high school and in 1956 from Quincy Beauty Academy, 1957 from Virginia Farrell School Advanced Hairstyling. The same year she was an instructor at Quincy. The past two years she operated a beauty salon at Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Campbell left for Jennings, Louisiana, where they will spend the winter months.

Editorial Comment

A Professional Honor

Jacksonville and District 117 are proud of their school system, which from year to year guides and encourages several thousand students toward educational goals. The community also has reason to be proud of the man who watches over the big school system, administering to its needs in a way that has won him the personal admiration of the patrons.

Supt. Jewell A. Mann has just been elected president of the Illinois Association of School Administrators, in recognition of his wide knowledge and firm grasp on educational matters. With a record of 33 years in school service in several cities, he is a past president of the Illinois Education Association.

Educational institutions and systems have long been measured by the strength of their faculties and administrators. The selection of Supt. Mann as head of Illinois School Administrators speaks well for the Jacksonville schools, adding still more prestige to their established reputation of being among the best.

Holding For The West

Japan remains the strongest ally the United States has in Asia on the basis of the just-completed national elections which swept the Liberal-Democrat party back into power.

The Liberal-Democrats, in a grim battle with the anti-U.S. Socialists for leadership, won 295 of the 467 seats in the Lower House of Parliament, a gain of 12. In popular votes the winners received about 22 million votes against 10 million for the Socialists, who won only 145 seats.

This, Prime Minister Hatayo Ikeda said he considered "a mandate from the Japanese people (to continue) close ties with the free world based on the U.S.-Japan security treaty."

The controversial treaty and Japan's economic welfare were the two major issues in the campaign. The election reflected the fact that Japan is riding a wave of prosperity and the Ikeda government has charted an economic course which it said will double the nation's income within the next decade.

The Socialists, of course, campaigned on a platform calling for abolition of the U.S.-Japan security treaty and adoption of neutralism as Japan's foreign policy.

It was Socialist agitation last spring, when the treaty was up for revision, that resulted in fierce anti-government riots. The immediate results were cancellation of President Eisenhower's trip to Japan last June and resignation of Nobusuke Kishi as premier. Ultimately, the riots and their aftermath were the reason for the latest elections.

The election must be regarded as reflecting the confidence the Japanese people put in the United States. They apparently are aware of and grateful for U.S. assistance in restoring Japan as a ranking Pacific power in the years after World War II and for guiding them in establishing a democratic form of government.

For the United States the continuance of strong military and security ties with Japan cannot be overestimated. The Land of the Rising Sun is the key to our Pacific defense bastion.

The Asiatic mainland is in turmoil as Red China probes for footholds in smaller, weaker nations and India teeters on her neutrality fence.

Japan stands as a deterrent to the Communist expansion efforts, and the measure of how the latter rate in Japan is the three powerless seats they have been able to win in the Japanese Parliament.

Twinkle, Twinkle

Go catch a falling star, said the 17th century poet John Donne. U.S. Air Force men have done just that, for the second time, in their mid-air snag of the instrument capsule from the Discoverer XVII satellite. The apparent ease and perfection of the feat, after so many failures, perhaps goes to show that our space program is no longer on a catch-as-catch-can basis.

Goals For Americans
The Communist Challenge

By Dr. WILLIAM L. LANGER
Professor of History
Harvard University

One of a series of easy-to-read condensations from chapters written by eminent American authorities for book publication by Prentice - Hall with the Report from President Eisenhower's Commission on National Goals. Edited by Ray Cromley for Newspaper Enterprise Assn. (Copyright 1960, the American Assembly.)

• • •

The Soviet Union and the Communist bloc over the coming decade generally will redouble their efforts to extend Communist influence and control through economic aid, through political subversion and through military threat.

So great is the military power of the Soviet Union that the threat of nuclear attack is almost certain to become a prime instrument of Soviet policy.

But there is nevertheless reason to suppose that war under present conditions is less than ever attractive to the Kremlin.

For it is an integral part of Communist doctrine that military power, while indispensable, should be restored to only when and if military operations promise easy, quick success. The balance of nuclear power as between the Soviet Union and the United States is such that neither side could hope, even in a surprise attack, to destroy completely the retaliatory power of its opponent. Even the attacking power would suffer terrific destruction.

Under these circumstances it is a matter of life and death for the United States and the nations of the Free World to maintain their defenses at the highest state of efficiency.

It must be a primary American aim also to provide against local aggression, the more so as the United States is bound by treaty to many powers in Asia as well as Europe to lend military support in the event of attack.

The overall deterrent power of the United States is not sufficient to ensure against Communist thrusts, especially in the Middle East and Asia. Indeed, the so-called nuclear stalemate may serve as an incentive to Communist operations of a limited type. It therefore behooves the United States to help strengthen and improve the forces of allied and friendly powers.

American forces abroad should continue to be supplied with tactical nuclear weapons, if only to counter the Communist threat of local nuclear war.

Since use of tactical nuclear weapons in a limited operation would involve a high probability of expanding the conflict into a general nuclear war, both sides would be reluctant to employ them. This means that in any local contest the decision would hinge on strength in conventional weapons, especially of the modern types. It would be difficult, therefore, to overstate the importance of having available adequate conventional forces, so as to provide a deterrent commensurate with the issues at stake.

It is difficult to evaluate at the present time the weight of Chinese Communist military power as a component of the larger Communist challenge. With a population of over 600 million, no one will question the manpower potential of the People's Republic.

Furthermore, the rapid progress of the Chinese in industrial production leaves no doubt that even now they are able to provide modern equipment for a huge conventional army. With this army they are already exerting great pressure on neighboring states. A crucial point will be reached when the Chinese Communist regime comes into possession of nuclear weapons, which may be at any time within the next five years.

Even if there should be some break in the Sino-Soviet alliance, there is every reason to believe that Chinese Communist power by itself will presently be a major threat to the security of the United States.

Failing some progress toward a settlement of political issues or in the direction of arms limitation, there would seem to be no remedy for the United States and the nations associated with it but to keep all defenses strong and maintain the utmost degree of unity in preparing for the most ominous developments.

TEST POSTPONED

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Minnette Ernst parked in the wrong place upon arriving at a state drivers' license office for a driving test. She nervously reentered the car to back up a short distance.

With a companion giving advice from the curb, Miss Ernst froze at the wheel and stepped on the accelerator. The car shot backward across a busy street, knocked down a fence and string of electric lights, and crashed through a pony corral. It finally stopped against a church.

Miss Ernst postponed her driving test.

The World Today

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Here is an ominous aspect of the Soviet-Red Chinese quarrel: It could result in World War III, and Moscow seems to be preparing for the possibility.

Soviet propaganda makes much of the term peace, but at the same time it seems to be actively conditioning the minds of people in Red-ruled lands for the possibility of a preventive war against the United States.

The suspicion is reinforced by the statement of Premier Khrushchev Wednesday to Pravda on the subject of disarmament. Historically, Communist leaders have accused others of planning what, in fact, has been in their own minds.

Khrushchev accused the West of duplicity in disarmament talks, of steadily building up nuclear weapons stockpiles and of constant provocations and spying against the U.S.S.R. All this, said Khrushchev, could enable the United States to "choose the suitable moment for dealing their blow and starting an aggression."

Taken by itself, this might not appear too menacing. But this sort of thing has been publicized time and again by Soviet propaganda ever since last May, when Khrushchev, using the U2 plane incident as his excuse, was preparing to blow up the Paris summit conference.

Since then Khrushchev has given the impression that the appearance of a single U.S. plane or submarine in Soviet air or waters will be considered a military invasion—in a word, an aggression which could be answered with a big preventive blow.

Some Western experts express belief the Kremlin is engaged in a psychological buildup to justify a preventive attack should that, to the Kremlin's way of thinking, become necessary.

In Munich, Germany, experts of the institute for study of the U.S.S.R. say they detect such a trend. Hammering propaganda for six months has been keyed to an antispy mania, to hatred and distrust of Americans, to picturing the United States and West Germany, in that order, as real and present menaces to the Soviet population.

One method of psychological buildup, says the institute, is an attempt to reproduce in Russia the mood of World War II, through glorification of the armed forces and constant appeals for vigilance and defense readiness.

Red China insists upon the letter of Leninist dogma: That war between the two world camps must come. The Chinese say it must not be feared, that Communists must not hesitate, regardless of risks, to expand at every opportunity.

Manifestly, this worries Khrushchev, who has contended that while communism would win, there would be little left after nuclear war on either side.

Khrushchev could lose the argument and be toppled in favor of a group more receptive to the Chinese idea. Desperation could lead to that, if an entrenched hierarchy should see in the developing argument a real threat to its continued sway over the Soviet Union and the world Communist movement.

Khrushchev has played for time, and won some time in the Communist summit which began Nov. 9 in Moscow. He is still on a spot. The dissidents—Red Chinese and those agreeing with them—will watch carefully as Khrushchev approaches the new U. S. administration.

It is possible Khrushchev will win out, and 1961 will be just another nerve-wracking cold war year. It is possible also that he will lose, and 1961 will be the most dangerous year of the cold war era.

FINDING THE WAY
Spirit of Craftsmanship

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Written For NEA

The recent Olympic summer games once more emphasize the important emotional impact of the athlete upon his nation's spirits. We swell with pride at victories, nurse our wounds over defeats. The tensions of the U.N. have served to illustrate that it will take more than winning a marathon to solve the world's agonizing problems. However, in both instances, the importance of the craftsman is underscored.

Justice Learned Hand reminisced on his 80th birthday, saying, "I believe that you will agree to put among the most precious and dependable of our satisfactions the joy of craftsmanship.

"In that I include all efforts to impose upon the outside world an invention of our own: to embody an idea in what I shall call an artifact. It is not important what form that may take: it may be in clay, bronze, paint, or in pencil, in musical score, or in words; it may be in sport; it may be in the mastery of the exercise of a profession; it may be in a well-balanced nature, like Aristotle's great-souled man; or it may be in redeeming the world.

"It is enough that we set out to mold the motley stuff of life into some form of our own choosing; when we do, the performance itself is the wage."

The discipling of he mind and the controlling of emotions extends the influence of such craftsmanship. The millions of young people who are in school each year are told it will be economically sound for them to continue their education. They ought to know another reason for this discipline.

We go to school to explore, to weigh, to choose, to discriminate, to search for facts with a relentless discipline, and to discover the unexplored with reverence and awe.

In this common search all thinking men are caught, and this demands the sublimation of prejudices and the bothersome provincialisms that so often hamper us. Today's international tensions demand his craftsmanship.

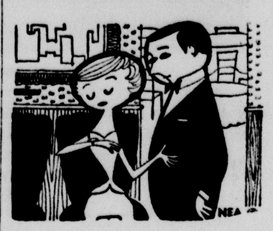

St. Paul saw the spiritual implications of all this and lifted it from the humanitarian level to the spiritual. He had watched the runners in his day, observed the victors, and he saw something more:

"Do you remember how, on a racing track, every competitor runs, but only one wins the prize? Well, you ought to run with your minds fixed on winning the prize. Every competitor, in athletic events, goes into serious training. Athletes will take tremendous pains for a fading crown of leaves. But our contest is for an eternal crown that will not fade. I run then with determination. I am no shadow-boxer; I really fight. I am my body's sternest master, for fear that when I have preached to others I should myself be disqualified."

We are called to be craftsmen, whatever the nature of our race. Contemporary value or personal glory would promise little reason for the effort. But the chance to be craftsman, to leap beyond one's own limitation, must help to lift the meaning of every human being.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There was a time when a Hollywood career was the ambition of every actress in the world. No more.

You could cite, for example, Sweden's Gunnel Lindblom, which is not bad citing. She is a lovely, articulate blonde known to American audiences for her roles in Ingmar Bergman classics such as "The Seventh Seal" and "Wild Strawberries."

She was in Hollywood briefly, not to sign a contract but to help publicize a new Bergman film in which she stars, "The Virgin Spring." She shuddered at the suggestion of working here.

"It would frighten me," she said. "I don't think I could face it. Yes, I have had offers. But they wanted me to sign a 7-year contract. Seven years! It seems like half a lifetime."

Why would a Hollywood career frighten her?

"Because actors have to be so intense about their careers here. I do not want to have my whole life devoted to it. In Sweden, we are able to have our own personal lives. We are not bothered by the public.

"Even Ingrid Bergman can walk the streets of Stockholm and not be approached by people. Oh, perhaps two or three girls might ask her for an autograph. But that is all."

If Miss Lindblom's attitude prevails, it could cut Hollywood off from a principal source of talent. Sweden has long contributed bright names to American films: Greta Garbo, Ingrid Bergman, Viveca Lindfors, Signe Hasso, Marta Toren.

Why should one modest-sized country contribute so much talent? Miss Lindblom helped explain: "We have seven civic theaters in Sweden, all state-supported. Two of the theaters have excellent schools for newcomers."

The performers receive a thorough schooling in dramatics, including the classics. Miss Lindblom came up through Ibsen and Strindberg and made her first big hit in "Faust," directed by Ingmar Bergman. She became part of his stock company for films.

Don't Be a Sitting Pigeon For Home Repair Racket

BY MARIE DAERR

In a Midwest city, motions for a new trial have been filed for two men, aged 33 and 25, members of an interstate home repair racket who were convicted of larceny by trick.

During their trial, a procession of women, including an 84-year-old retired school teacher in a wheel chair, told of having faulty home repairs made by the two men—at big prices.

The stories of these women should be a warning to all homeowners, particularly elderly people, the logical prey of such unscrupulous operators.

Widowed Mrs. G, the former school teacher, told of paying the two men more than $6,000 for repairing her chimney and roof gutters and waterproofing her basement.

"The men had come to my home and told me the chimney might fall down at any moment," Mrs. G said. "So I hired them to repair it.

"They insisted on going ahead with gutter repairs and with waterproofing the basement. I told them not to do the basement, but they went ahead, anyway."

After the basement work was "finished," one of the men brought the aged woman a dozen roses and a used television set and took her to dinner at a fancy restaurant.

"Then I was given a bill for $5,200," she testified. "I paid it. Previously, I had given them $815 for the chimney work."

After the first heavy rain, the widow discovered that both the chimney and the basement leaked. She could not contact the two men, one of whom was serving a federal sentence for counterfeiting.

"I didn't use the television set," the woman testified. "I don't like television."

Another woman, aged 77, told of paying $600 to the men for faulty repairs on chimney and gutters of her home. The woman, a retired office worker, walked into the court room with the aid of a cane.

Another prosecution witness, a mother of three, told how the two "repairmen" collected $1,100 for seven hours work. The $1,100 was part of an endowment for her children.

In their defense, the two men said they were merely employes of a firm which had no business address and used an answering service to get calls.

Their operations, unfortunately, aren't isolated instances. The best place to stop such practices is at the door of the home at which these unscrupulous people knock.

Any reputable repairman will supply references, which may be checked. If he says, "I've been doing work on your street," ask him for the names and his customers.

Also, use your Better Business Bureau for a check on his operations. It exists to protect you from being cheated.

Unsalted Frozen Margarine Is a Boon to Dieters

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Food and Markets Editor

A new sweet corn oil margarine, now in eastern test markets but soon to be in national distribution, is good news to those on low-sodium diets. Will be welcomed also by consumers who prefer a sweet to a salted table spread or cooking fat.

No salt or other preservatives is added to this new Fleischmann's sweet (unsalted) margarine. Frozen the instant it is made, it is sold only in the frozen foods section of the supermarket. Comes in one-pound packages (four ¼-pound prints), wrapped in green printed foil, for about 49 cents a pound. The producers advise that the quarter of the margarine in use may be kept in the refrigerator, but the remainder should be kept either in the home freezer or freezing section of the refrigerator.

We find the consistency and fresh flavor excellent. In many ways it tastes like the fine sweet butter served in better foreign restaurants.

In addition to being unsalted, it has a linoleic acid content of 30 per cent, and is made of 100 per cent corn oil, one half of which is liquid and the remainder hardened only enough to permit shaping into the familiar print form. Freeezing the product makes it possible to attain the 30 per cent level of linoleic acid.

(NOTE: Linoleic acid is a fat not made in the body and may have a vitamin-like status. When used in high proportion of the total dietary intake, it helps the body handle the fats in the blood more easily. Corn, cotton seed and soybean oils are the best sources, in about equal percentages. Most good margarines today contain between 15 and 20 per cent of linoleic acid. One, still in test stage, will contain 40 per cent.)

Mushrooms a la Brandywine is also a new de luxe product, now in 20 major markets and soon to be in nationwide distribution. Packaged in tin cans, these are fresh, paper-thin slices of white mushrooms cooked in their own essence and then in a small amount of water, butter, nonfat milk solids, cornstarch and seasonings. Ready to heat and serve. Not a sauce or gravy, but can be served "as is" as a vegetable side dish, or with cooked meat, fish, poultry, eggs and vegetables. We find they have a considerably fresher taste than any other good canned mushroom we have tasted.

Mushrooms a la Brandywine are made by the Brandywine Corp. of Westchester, Pa., a division of the Borden Co., and come in tin cans with gold-colored aluminum-wrap label in two sizes: in 3½ ounces (about 1/3 cup) for around 19-20 cents, and in 7 ounces (about 3/4 cup) for about 37-41 cents.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS combined plowing and anhydrous ammonia into one operation in recent tests. They found the method saved time, money and labor—with very little ammonia waste.

Plow Time Good Time To Supply Nitrogen

URBANA—University of Illinois agricultural engineers say farmers can save time, money and labor by combining plowing and ammonia application into one operation.

Ag engineer Jack Butler points out that ammonia application usually costs $2 or more an acre—not counting the cost of the ammonia. And it usually ties up farm labor when it is badly needed in other field operations.

Farmers can lick this problem by putting in the ammonia as they plow. Two years of University research shows that very little ammonia is lost if the job is done right.

Here's how the U. of I. research worked:

The engineers set the ammonia tank on top of the plow or disk and let the tank hose trail along in the furrow.

Application rates varied with tillage speed. But, in general, rates ranged from 140 to 200 pounds per acre on the basis of 40-inch spacing.

When researchers compared average losses from more than 50 plow, disk and conventional knife application tests, they found that all losses were below one per cent, although those with knife application were lowest.

Butler says the operation isn't restricted to plowing and discing. Any tillage tool that permits ammonia release at least four inches under ground probably can be used to apply anhydrous ammonia.

Researchers point out that this way of applying ammonia works equally well for fall and spring plowing.

Annual Meeting Of Fair Group Monday, Dec. 5

A free oyster supper for members of the Morgan County Agricultural Fair association, their wives and interested guests will precede the annual meeting to be held Monday, Dec. 5, at Farm Bureau hall. Serving will begin at 6 p.m.

Robert Houston, president, will preside at the business session. Possible changes in the by-laws will be considered; Secretary Glenn E. Spencer and Treasurer James Duewer will give their reports.

The officers report interest in the association stands high, as evidenced by the large percentage of members participating in the mail election of 10 directors. The directors chosen to serve three year terms are Robert Houston, John U. Becker, Milton Birdsell, Bill Buchanan, William Hadden, Elmer Middendorf, Lee Roy Jackson, Marvin Martin, Robert H. Middleton Jr., and J. W. Cully.

Plan Farm Tour Friday, Dec. 9

A tour of three farms in the Concord area to show handling and feeding of high moisture corn, and crop drying, has been arranged by the Agricultural Extension Council, announces Farm Adviser George Trull.

These problems hold peak interest at the present time, Harry Russell, U. I. animal scientist, and Frank Andrew of the U.I. ag engineering department, will be on hand to lead the discussions on the three farms.

The tour will begin on the Edwin Dietrick farm at 12:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 9.

ANGUS CATTLE SALE AVERAGES $415

Despite the stormy weather of Nov. 15, Rundels Angus Farms of near El Paso, Woodford County, held a successful auction and 54 lots of registered Angus cattle averaged $415.

The top bull brought $810, top heifer, $775, and the top cow and calf, $700. Nearly all the females were mated to Dor Mac's Bardoliemere 32.

Out-of-state buyers were from Texas, Wisconsin, Indiana and Kentucky.

More than 210 Illinois farmers last year disproved the theory that "it can't happen to me." They were killed or seriously injured by their own corn pickers.

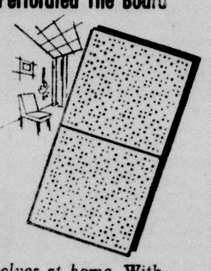

About one-fourth of all fluid milk received in 104 midwestern markets goes into surplus uses, according to a research report issued by the Illinois Agriculture Experiment Station.

Shorthorn Men To Hold Sale At Pawnee

Twenty-two Shorthorn herds from central Illinois will consign cattle to the annual Sangamon District Shorthorn Breeders' association sale to be held at Elmcrest Farm, Pawnee, Ill., Thursday, Dec. 8. Seventeen bulls and forty female lots will be sold at auction.

A new feature of the 1960 event will be the sale of 20 steer calves picked by the sale committee as being suitable for club work. The auction starts at 12 noon with the club calves being sold first.

Elmcrest Farm, site of the sale, is owned by Dr. A. H. Welland. This is also the home of Leveldale Princeps, Grand Champion Bull at the 1959 International Livestock Show in Chicago. This bull will be on display on sale day and four of the females being sold by Elmcrest are bred to him or have calves at foot by him.

The cattle being offered in this sale were all selected in August by a committee of four members who visited the farms of the consignors.

Among the consignors are Ralph W. Bivin, Waverly; Herschel Hunter, Kane; Robert McDevitt, New Berlin; William Lowe, Pittsfield, and William Braker & Sons, Alexander.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

HOG PRODUCTION AND PRICE PROSPECTS

It is easy to become too pessimistic about this business of farming. Take hogs, for example. A year ago many of us were expecting prices to be lower this fall than in 1959. But actually they have been one-fourth to one-third higher.

The big problem now is that prices may be too high. We all know that unusually good prices can bring too much production a year or so later.

Market supplies promise to be smaller during the next four months than they were last winter. This conclusion is based largely on a study of the latest quarterly pig crop report. This report, which covered 10 corn - belt states, showed that on September 1 farmers had 7 percent percent fewer pigs under three months old than they had last year. These pigs will make up most of the market receipts from December through March.

If marketings turn out to be about as the report indicated, hog prices would be expected to range from $17 to $19 during the next four months. During this period the price of corn seems likely to be under $1.00 a bushel Thus the prospect is for a very favorable hog-corn price ratio.

Price differentials between 200-220 pounds and 220-240 pounds have been 20 to 40 cents a hundred pounds in recent winters. The differentials could be a little larger this winter. But seasonal price improvement may offset discounts for weight. In market situations of this kind, sales at 220 to 240 pounds should be considered.

The favorable price of recent weeks will surely bring a substantial increase in the 1961 spring pig crop. In fact, the September report indicated that farrowings in this September-November quarter would be up 3 percent from last fall.

The increase in hog production in 1961 may not be excessive. Production was cut too much last spring, so some increase is desirable. A 1961 spring pig crop of around 56 million head might be sold at profitable prices. This would be 14 percent more than was saved last spring, but 4 percent less than was produced in 1959.

At first thought, production within 4 percent of the 1959 level may seem to be too much. However, population increases nearly 4 percent in two years. So the supply of pork per person might be 7 or 8 percent less than when prices were depressed a year ago.

The actual increase in the 1961 spring pig crop may well be less than the 14 percent figure mentioned above.

Professor W. P. Garrigus, head of the Animal Science Department of the University of Kentucky, recently made a number of forecasts about the swine industry. One was that the capita consumption of pork would increase 20 percent in the next 10 years. To provide pork for this increase, plus pork for our growing population, farmers would have to produce about 40 percent more than they are producing in 1960.

Dr. Garrigus may be over-optimistic, but his statement does point up the fact that there are opportunities in the hog business.

LIGHT MADE THE DIFFERENCE between these two ears of corn grown on the University of Illinois Agronomy Research Farm by crop scientist E. B. Earley. To determine the effects of shading at various stages of development, the corn was shaded for six days with the metal cages shown in the background.

The large nearly normal ear at the left was shaded for six days shortly after planting. The bare nubbin at the right came from a plant shaded during the critical 6 days from July 31 to August 5 when silking and pollination were taking place.

This study would indicate that extremely cloudy weather during the critical growth stages could affect yields, Earley believes.

31 Youths To Represent State At 4-H Congress

Thirty-one Illinois 4-H'ers will receive one of the highest honors offered in 4-H Club work when they attend the 39th National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 27 through Dec. 2.

The young delegates were selected for outstanding achievements in 4-H Club work from a field of more than 72,000 Illinois members.

They will join some 1,900 other delegates and leaders from the United States and about 20 other countries at the big six-day conference.

Group discussions, addresses by prominent speakers and talks with delegates and visitors from foreign countries are educational highlights of the congress.

Entertainment features include a "pop" concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra featuring two 4-H Club members as soloists, and a Friendship Party at the Aragon Ballroom.

Club Congress is conducted by the state extension services and the U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the National 4-H Service Committee, Inc. All delegates are award winners in their respective states.

The 1960 Illinois delegation includes Anne Akin, St. Francisville; Carol Anderson, Chapin; Frank Beatty, Avon; Brenda Bewley, Glasford; Charles Bickelhaupt, Mt. Carroll; Tom Bidner, Mahomet; Ronald Boldt, Seneca; Gary Coates, Neponset; Duane Dean, Griggsville; Eugene Dillow, Jonesboro; Brenda Fisher, Macedonia; Ron Gehrig, Wyoming; Galen Haegele, Barnhill; David Harms, Pleasant Plains; and Patsy Kessler, Mode

Kenny McMillan, Prairie City; Susan Miller, Cisco; Mary Joe Oldham, Shawneetown; Lee Oltmanns, Nokomis; Don Pritchard, Maple Park; Clara Jane Raplus, St. Charles; James Richter, Mascoutah; Ray Rapp, Normal; Chris Scherer, Claremont; Elaine Steimel, DeKalb; Judith Sudheimer, Carbondale; Marilyn Tomlinson, Rushville; Beverly Torok, Monee; Nancy Vogler, Sciota; Margaret Williams, Stockton; and Shirley Yana, Thawville.

A Record Corn Crop For Morgan – Price Lowest In 19 Years

Morgan County was literally up to its ears in corn last week as the harvest of the best crop in the history of the county moved along. Everybody had more corn than they could handle with comfort, and the price dropped down to the lowest November bid in 19 years.

The 1961 crop was unbelievably good. The Illinois crop reporting service last week put the yield in Morgan County at 73 bushels per acre. This was four bushels more than last year's fine crop.

Elevators hesitantly paid 85c a bushel for No. 3 shelled corn Friday, as the price made a slight comeback after tumbling the week before. But most of the corn moving was too wet to grade No. 3, and was subject to stiff discounts. Discounts in the main were running from four to nine cents a bushel, but some corn brought in was so wet it carried as much as a 16c per bushel dock.

Storage A Problem

Farmers who have adequate, acceptable crib room are eligible for a $1.08 price support on this year's crop.

The 1960 crop season got off to a slow start, with surplus moisture. It boomed along during the summer, thanks to the water stored in the soil, and then went through an ideal maturing and drying period during the early fall months.

The state average this year is estimated at 67 bushels per acre, just the same as last year. But Morgan corn was four bushels better than last year.

Piatt County, which is almost 100% prairie land, had the best crop in the state, an average of 86 bushels per acre. Macon was second with 84 bushels and Logan third with 83.

In 1920 the Illinois average was 35 bushels per acre; in 1930, a year of general drought, 26 bushels; 1940, 42 bushels; 1950, 54 bushels.

The yields on the high producing soils of Morgan County have run into fantastic figures this year. Many fields went well over 100 bushels per acre; quite a few hit over 120, with an occasional 140 plus yield. These were not dinky experimental fields—but regular commercial 40-80-120 acre fields.

Hard Price Dip

This bountiful harvest has jammed the entire grain trade from top to bottom—but the price is not one to bring smiles to the producer.

The Morgan County soybean yield was put at 30 bushels, a bushel more than last year.

Figures for corn and soybeans for nearby counties are: Calhoun—56, 21; Cass—73, 28; Greene—61, 27; Jersey—58, 24; Macoupin—60, 27; Pike—63, 25; Sangamon—70, 31; Scott—65, 27.

Ashland Opens Parking Lots

ASHLAND — A new off-street parking lot has just been completed south of the fire house. This lot has been leveled and graveled and is for use by everyone.

Parking in front of the Municipal building and to the fire house has been changed from angle parking to parallel parking, which makes more room for traffic flow down this street.

Another off-street parking lot has been in use for several weeks, back of the bank and Lockett's Cleaning building. This lot was made available by the State Bank of Ashland.

To Reverse Bus Routes

The Board of Education of Ashland Community Unit 212, at a special meeting held Monday night, added the following to the board policies: "Bus routes will be reversed at the start of each school year."

This action was taken in order to equalize as much as possible the time children spend on the bus in the morning and in the evening.

It was decided that it would be more advantageous to reverse routes for the full school year. Otherwise buses would have to be re-scheduled twice a year on a semester basis and this would cause considerable confusion, especially at the beginning of the second semester.

Winter Wheat Surplus A Regional Problem

URBANA — A University of Illinois grain marketing economist stated last week that our real wheat surplus problem doesn't involve all wheat, but only hard wheat.

L. F. Stice pointed out that we do not have a national wheat problem, but regional problems. The regions are the plains states, the major producers of hard wheat, and especially the central and southern plains states that produce hard red winter wheat.

Stice reports that by July 1, 1961, hard red winter wheat stocks will rise to 1,232 million bushels. Since we use and export only about 550 million bushels of this kind of wheat, there will be more than a two-year supply on hand before the 1961 crop is harvested.

Hard wheat is used primarily for bread.

In contrast, the supply of soft red winter wheat on hand next July 1 will total only 12 million bushels, about a three weeks' supply. Out of this year's supply of 206 million bushels, we expect to export 59 million bushels and use 135 million bushels in the U.S., Stice reports.

This kind of wheat grown in southern Illinois and Indiana is used for making cake flour and other pastries.

The 1960 production and prospective use of all classes of wheat except hard red winter are nearly in balance. The 1960 crop of hard red spring wheat is estimated to be 190 million bushels, and disappearance 189 million. This year's production of white and durum wheat will actually fall short of use.

Any new legislation to alleviate the wheat surplus problem must recognize that not all wheat-producing areas of the country have this problem, Stice emphasizes. The bulk of our present wheat surplus came from wheat farms in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado. A much lesser amount was produced in Minnesota, Montana and the Dakotas.

TWO FROM CHAPIN ATTEND MEAT CUTTING SCHOOL

CHAPIN — Two Chapin young men, James Carrigan and Donald Johnson have returned to their homes here from Toledo, Ohio where they attended a meat cutting school of instruction.

Carla was 2 years old yesterday, November 26, and Michael had three candles to blow out on his Birthday Cake October 12. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Andrews of Chapin.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hester of Glasgow and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Andrews of Winchester.

MICHAEL ALBERT SCHONE

Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Schone of Arenzville, will celebrate his 3-year-old Birthday Nov. 29. He has a sister Debra who was one last month.

CARMEN SUE SMITH

Carmen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith, Route 2 Jacksonville, makes her first appearance in the Birthday Parade today to celebrate her first Birthday November 7.

GERALD EUGENE LACEY

Gerald is a first marcher and will blow out that one candle on his Birthday cake November 30. Gerry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Lacey of 585 Caldwell street.

ANITA FERNE McMANUS

Anita has 3 candles to blow out on her Birthday cake November 21. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee McManus of 708 S. Church.

RENEE LYNNE CHILDERS

Renee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin C. Childers of 514 Pine, will be 2 years old December 2. She has a brother Timothy and her Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Brannan of Eldred and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Childers of Winchester.

MICHAEL AND JUDY DOYLE

Mike was 2 years old November 23, and Judy is making her first appearance in the Birthday Parade as she looks forward to blowing out that one candle on her Birthday cake December 3. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Doyle of Virginia.

Michael and Judy Marie were honored at a duck dinner at their parents' home Sunday, Nov. 20th.

Those present were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doyle, Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kinnaman and Mark, Barbara Doyle of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ore, Freddy and Linda of Virginia and Duke Walbaum of Ashland.

Mike and Judy received many nice gifts.

BIRTHDAY WISH

All the Junior Page readers and your editor wish everyone one of these Birthday Marchers a VERY HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Experiment With Sound

Get two empty tin cans and punch a small hole in the middle of the bottom of each one. Use a long string to connect the two cans.

Put a knot inside each hole so the string will not slip out.

You will need another person to help you finish the experiment. Each person takes one can and walks away from the other person until the string is stretched tight.

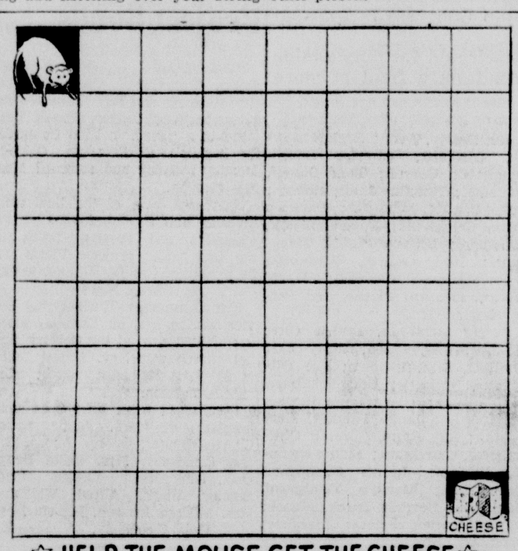

Remember that the string must be stretched tight for the experiment to work. Now take turns talking and listening over your string telephone.

When listening, hold the can tightly over the ear and put your index finger in the other ear to cut out outside sounds.

What Happens

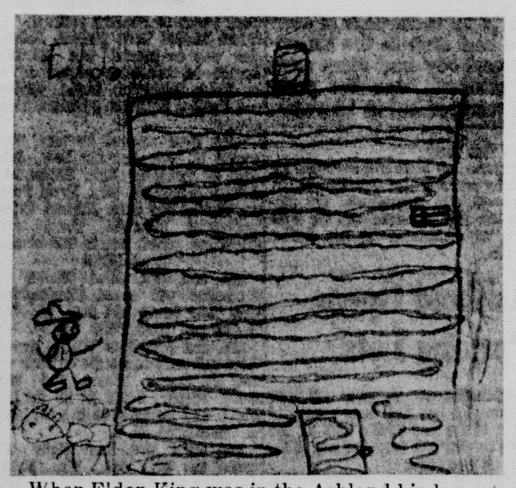

As one person talks, the sound vibrations are picked up by the sides of the tin can. They are also picked up by the bottom of the can and passed on to the string.

After passing along the stretched string, the vibrations pass through the other tin can and vibrate the air inside it. These vibrations are then picked up by the ear of the other person.

Too Wonderful

By Mary Pence Claywell

A V-shaped shadow in the sky . . .
A "Quack . . . quack . . . quack," serene and high,
As wild fowl wend their chartered flight
To fairer climes, and warmth and light,
Are signs that Autumn's on the wane . . .
That Summer sleeps along with Spring,
And Old Man Winter, close at hand,
Prepares to spread across the land,
White robes . . . to cover earth's quiet breast
While Mother Nature . . . takes her rest:

Ah . . . V-shaped shadow in the sky . . .
Your chartered flight, your weird cry . . .
The scarlet leaves that flutter past,
They dying Fall . . . and Winter's blast,
Earth's snowy robes, and slumbering life
All harmonize . . . in spite of strife
In this old world, from sea to sea . . .
Are all too wonderful . . . for me!
'Tis vanity to strain my eyes
In trying to . . . discern the skies!
To fathom God's perfected plan
Is far beyond . . . the scope of man!

Building Radio From A Kit

By Joseph A. Smith

Part 6: Troubleshooting

Obviously, maintaining the workability and/or repairing a kit is no different than it is for any other piece of equipment. First off, what will be needed?

Intelligent troubleshooting will require a V.O.M., the complete schematic diagram (or pictorial), a soldering iron and other tools. Maintainance will require eventual replacement of aging component parts. For example, if the bypass capacitors, coupling capacitors, etc. are more than five years old, it would be wise to replace all of them gradually (or all at once if the budget can stand it).

Replacement of these aged parts will greatly improve the performance of such gear. When replacing such individual parts, change one at a time and carefully mark it off on the diagram. Replace the old part with the identical value capacitance and voltage wise. For best results use only new replacement parts.

With the availability of Armed Forces Surplus parts and several sources of so called "Bargains" parts from wholesale catalogues, even the limited budget fellow can afford new parts. Yet is is wise to check even a new part before you install it into the unit being overhauled or modified. (To date, for example, the author has overhauled all of the following personal gear: A 7" T.V. receiver, A 5 year old V.F.O., The complete Stereo system, a small communications receiver, and his transmitter.)

If you are able to correctly make these replacements in overhauling your gear, you will save the budget plenty!

When a given unit is overhauled, do a thorough job of it in some such manner as this. First replace all capacitors. Next carefully check all resistors with a V.O.M. to see that they are up to stated value (making allowances for alteration of value as shown on the meter due to other circuit component parts etc.), and replace any burned or questionable resistors as well; they won't cost much and it's well worth it.

Next check all tube sockets. If any have excessively loose pins, why not replace it before an intermittant condition develops? Check and test all tubes in a good tube tester, or try substituting with newer tubes—type with type. Check for loose screws, soldering lugs, solder connections that over a period of time may have worked lose or virbated loose. Clean the plates of variable capacitors etc. with either blown air or a tiny pipe brush or small paint brush with long bristles.

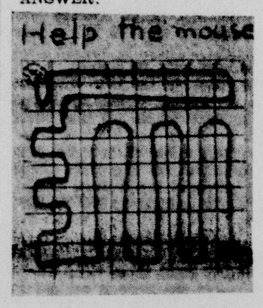

Troubleshooting any piece of equipment may almost always be done via the "Process of Elimination" method. That is, where you ascertain what your difficulty is, what it is doing and should do, determine the malfunction section of the gear, and then carefully check over this particular section for the troublemaker.

Intermittant types of "Bugs" are sometimes more difficult to locate, but the same process of elimination will in time bring its cause out too. If the trouble is intermittant by nature, it may help to take a pencil in hand or insulated small screwdriver in hand, and proceed to gently tap each and every tube, capacitor, etc. Then move transformers (ae Intermediate Frequency jobs) around a bit on the chassis looking for a possible intermittant connection.

Look for an intermittant ground such as a wire grounding now and then that should not. Also look for a loose solder point, a defective coupling or bypass capacitor, a defective choke, a loose soldering terminal attached by lock - washer and screw to the chassis, etc.

Exercise care when making repairs, keep track of each and every change made, and remember, here too haste makes waste.

ANSWER:

Horned Toad Pets

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part 1: What Do They Eat?

Marna looked through the small windows cut in the top of a pasteboard shoebox. There sat two dismal looking horned toads.

"Why take them away from their home here in California?" Marna's father asked. A new Chinese doll, brought to the little girl, a bamboo hat to her mother for a mending basket, and a puzzle for her brother, all from China town.

But the box of toads sat on the library table, it was to go on with her Aunts to their home in Illinois.

"What are you going to feed them?" Father asked, "Nothing?"

"Oh, we put in some bread crumbs," Aunt Maude assured him,"

Marna peered again and again. The toads had not eaten anything. They only sat unhappily in a corner of their box.

"They can's live in Illinois, it gets too cold there," Father suggested. Let them stay where they belong."

"But they can get under our porch, it will be warm enough there," Aunt Mable told him, "We want them to live in our ferns; no one has horned toads at home."

Father rattled his paper while Aunt Maude and Aunt Alice helped Mother with early supper in the dining room.

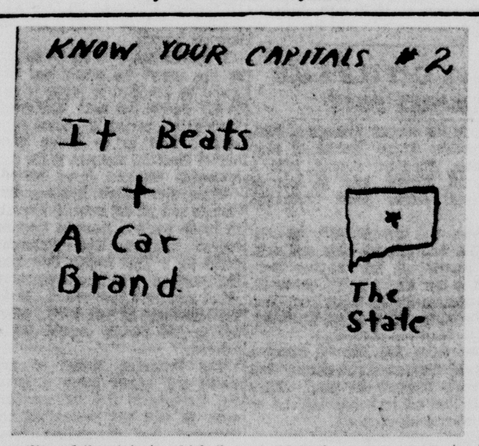

Soon they all went to the table, but Marna was not very hungry. She kept thinking about the toads huddled far back in the shoe box, she tried to be thoughtful for animals. These certainly had eaten neither a crumb nor a leaf.

Slowly she put her hands around the box and carried it to the front steps. "Now you can have something to eat," she said, and opened the lid close to the flower bed where insects lived. Out hopped both toads.

"We can find them again in the morning, I guess," Marna thought.

True Story—

Long-Ago School Girl

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 8: Children Behave

The class passed at teacher's call and sat down quietly on the long bench. There was no pushing, and believe it or not, children usually walked on "tip-toe" for it was an enforced custom in those days of heavy, hard-soled shoes, and it was a very good thing indeed.

The teacher called each child by name to recite, and no one spoke out of turn, but if the one called could not answer, the others raised eager hands and awaited the teacher's nod for permission to answer.

In all reading classes, from primary through grade eight, children read aloud when in class. This too, was an efficient way to find out who the slow readers were and thereby give them the help they needed. Each one was allowed to read a paragraph or more, and the next one up, began where the other left off until all had read aloud."

Black Board Work

At times, the arithmetic classes were allowed to work at their desks or on the black board. The teacher walked up and down the aisles giving aid where needed, but more often they also came to class for explanations and then worked out problems at the black boards.

Class periods were from ten to twenty minutes. Perhaps you wonder how anything could be accomplished in so short a time?

It is easily explained: The lessons were already prepared and the pupils were ready to answer or recite, except when some new step called for explanations from the teacher. These were given to the whole class until the matter was understood by all. So it worked out much better than many might believe, and much was accomplished.

All examination questions were mailed out from the County Superintendent's Office and the proof of what was accomplished was much in evidence when the teacher graded the papers. Too, the seventh and eighth grades took Central and Final examinations when they finished grade school to see if they would be allowed to enter High School in some near-by town or small village.

Pretend Flight Tests Would-Be Space Man

The volunteers for the job of being Project Mercury astronauts were first given complete physical examinations and tests.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) then gave them psychological tests. These tests were to find their exact psychological (mental) makeup and estimate their ability to cope with the stresses they would meet in space.

These tests were based on studies of the problem of selecting space men. These studies had been made by laboratories, before the start of Project Mercury, who anticipated the need for such programs.

These programs, naturally, dealt with the general conditions to be met in space. So they were tailored to fit conditions that will be met when the Project Mercury capsule goes into orbit and returns to earth a day later.

The psychological and stress tests were given to the prospective astronauts by the Air Force with the help of the Army and Navy. Most of the tests were carried out at the Wright Air Development Center Aeromedical Laboratories at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio.

The tests in these general areas: personality evaluation; behavioral sciences; stress and fatigue; acceleration force; equilibrium (steadiness) and vibration high energy noise; low air pressure; thermal (temperature) stress; anthropology (the study of man's development).

For the WADC tests the astronaut candidates were devided into six groups of five each and one of two. The first group started its tests on February 15, 1959. Each man was tested for six days and three evenings.

A complex appraisal of all the test results went into the WADC's evaluation of the candidates. Like the physical examinations, the test results were not a matter of passing or flunking any of the prospective astronauts. Instead they were designed to measure how one candidate compared with the others.

Data from the Wright Air Development Center and the Lovelace clinic in Albuquerque New Mexico were forwarded to the NASA Space Flight Activity at Langley Field Virginia. There they were used for the final step in selecting the seven Project Mercury astronauts.

At Langley a group of medical and technical experts judged the findings of the examinations. Finally, seven astronauts were selected on the basis of their physical, psychological and stress tolerance ability and the particular science, or specialty each represents.

Let's Go Birding—

The Biggest, Shyest Plover

By Emma Mae Leonhard

That last Saturday in October was a truly foggy day. The fog was so dense and yellow it seemed to be reflecting the yellows of the autumn-colored maples.

Even devoted and veteran birders were justified in doubting whether they would be able to find any birds covered with that blanket of fog.

However, some of us decided to explore the south side of Lake Mauvaisterre. As we were driving along Vandalia Road and approached the part of the Lake which borders directly on the road, we saw four birds at the edge of the water.

Immediately, we recognized the two Killdeer and the Greater Yellowlegs.

In their midst stood a gray-looking bird with plumper proportions and a short, stout bill. Here again was the Black-bellied Plover which we had located with our binoculars for the last three weeks far out on the mud flat.

Here, whiter than the fog stood the plover so close to the road and our car that we did not need binoculars to enjoy the dusty spots and bars on its back and its pure white forehead, crown, sides of the head to the upper level of the eye, and the back and sides of its neck.

Although the Black-bellied Plover, known as the largest and also the shyest of our plovers, seeks ordinarily a remote mud flat, there it stood, unaware of on-lookers.

When the Greater Yellowlegs flew away, it walked calmly out into the shallow water and began feeding. As long as we had time to watch this comparatively rare plover, it continued to dip its bill regularly into the water, pick up some morsel, swallow it, and move on for another snack.

We wonder how many people passed it as they drove along the Vandalia Road that foggy morning.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

Have you heard a pair of teenagers conversing lately? Apparently the youngsters communicate . . . but how they do it is sure hard to understand. Experts keep reassuring us that teen talk of today is no worse than that of any other generation, but even "boo-boop-bee-doo" and "23 skidoo" can't hold a "crazy candle" to the current teenage Webster of words like "grinchy" and "goopy" and "flimp." Like most of the new talk of teendom, all 3 are derogatory terms. Some of the new lingo came from the armed forces and show business. "Raunchy" (sloppy) is an old GI word, and so is "scrounge" (tramp). Hangovers from the old era of Swing music are such traditional favorites as "mellow" and "groovy" (both meaning excellent). But when you come to words like "grinchy" and such, they're all new . . . and all the teenagers' own.

SANTA CLAUS ARRIVES IN CENTRAL PARK

SAFE IN THE HANDS of Capt. Willner and Chief Runkel, the lead ponies of the team Santa used to bring him to his home in Central Park moved through the large crowd that was on hand to greet the jovial old character who arrives here about this time every year.

He'll greet his little friends from 2-4 p.m. daily. And on Friday evenings he'll keep open house from 7-9 p.m.

SANTA WAS A BUSY person Friday afternoon, as many of his friends swarmed the park to welcome him to the city. This photograph shows some of those who were early arrivals at his hut in Central Park.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is the American wife a household eyesore in curlers and flowered frock?

That's the way she's seen on many a TV show, and Marilyn Erskine is conducting a one-woman crusade against such slander. She appears on Tuesday nights as the spouse on the Tom Ewell show, and she's no frump.

"I should think women would resent the way they are portrayed on some of the family shows," she remarked. "I do. I'm a housewife myself and my portrayal stems from the way I appear in my own home.

"After all, Tom is supposed to be a successful businessman in the show. He is earning perhaps $18,000 or more a year. It stands to reason he would want and expect his wife to be smart-looking and neat.

"But I think it's true of most housewives in any salary bracket nowadays. They are more careful about their appearance."

Marilyn had her own personal tilt with this question two years ago. She had to drop 30 pounds.

"I like to eat," she confessed. "One day I looked at myself in the mirror and said, 'This has got to go.' After all, I was married to a very attractive man (businessman Charles Curland). It was senseless for me to continue looking plump while he took care of his body.

"So I started a campaign. I had dieted most of my life and always found it dull. I determined to find ways to continue the enjoyment of eating and yet take off the pounds. I tried to cook things—in smaller amounts—that were not fattening, but still delicious."

The pound-shelving not only helped her health and morale, it boosted her career as well.

"After all, this is a very fat-conscious town," she said. "When I was under contract to MGM, they were always telling me, 'Better do something about that rear, dear.'

She did a few films at MGM, then played Ida in "The Eddie Cantor Story." After that, she did no films, concentrating on TV and rearing two children. She resisted a series until the Ewell show came along. It was too good to pass up, and now she's giving a weekly boost to housewife morale.

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stuart Whitman, ex-boxer, ex-football player and ex-bulldozer, is the busiest actor in Hollywood because his bosses long ago pegged him as a young Clark Gable.

Studios for years have been looking for a young successor to the famed star. Now that death has taken the king, the search will be intensified.

A 20th Century-Fox executive explains Whitman's current work schedule, a throwback to the early 1930s.

"When you have someone who has the potential," says the exec, "there is only one way to build a major star—and that is by exposure. And we don't mean TV exposure—that's overexposure and usually a casting rut.

"About a year ago we decided Whitman had a little of the early Gable appeal in him, so we put him in movie after movie without a day off. Watch what happens to this boy in the next year."

It's true. Whitman finished "Murder, Inc.," in New York City, came home and kissed his wife and four kids goodby and left for Ireland to make "The Mark."

That was his first trip overseas. As the picture neared its 11-week schedule, he bought a new English car and cabled his wife to join him for a continental vacation. She did, but she, like Whitman, saw only Ireland.

He finished work on a Friday and was told to report back to the studio on Monday to start "The Fiercest Heart." The last week of that picture he was told to start packing again. Now he's in Italy making "St. Francis of Assisi." He plays the fun-loving and disbelieving playboy friend of the saint.

"Stu doesn't know it," says the Fox executive, "but we may give him a week off between this one and his next—provided 'St. Francis' doesn't go over schedule."

Exposure plus a variety of roles—some of them heavies—is the Whitman program. It parallels that of Gable's 30 years ago.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Joanne Dru, long accustomed to the pampered life of a movie star, is getting her lumps in a television series.

"Even in movie Westerns," says the beauteous actress, "I always had it soft. Doubles do all the tough work for you."

This season she's starred in "Guestward Ho" in which she plays a New York model who goes west with her city-bred husband to operate a dude ranch.

Much of her acting is done while cooking on a wood stove for which she has to chop the wood; sweeping with a straw broom; milking cows with her own pretty hands; cleaning the chimney; mending fences; scrubbing barns and painting walls.

Joanne, once a Copa girl in New York City, says she likes the job anyway.

"Where else do you get paid so well for doing chores?"

HOLLYWOOD AP) — In "Midnight Lace," Doris Day does a hysteria scene that is Academy Award calibre—and it was unintentional.

Producer Marty Melcher, also Miss Day's husband, discloses that the actress worked herself into such a frenzy that she scared herself.

"I can't go on. I can't go on like this," she screamed. Melcher said she was speaking her mind—not the words in the script.

"But it was so hysterical that Director David Miller kept the cameras moving—and it stayed in the picture."

Today's hand taken from the 1950 National Men's Pairs has long been one of my favorites. Played at six no-trump, South will make all the tricks unless the ace of spades is cashed at trick one. In that case all he will make is his contract.

The hand should normally make six hearts or clubs, but the two voids won't help declarer at all and home declarers actually managed to go down two tricks.

The bidding in the box is that used when I held the South hand. Needless to say I did not know exactly how to bid it and my jump to five no-trump was not a grand slam force, but rather a warning to my partner that I held queen, jack and a small spade. At least, that is what I intended my bid to tell him.

I must say that this was putting quite a strain on him, but he came through nobly and figured out just what I was doing. Also, he reasoned that six no-trump counts more in duplicate than six of a suit and accordingly raised me to the no-trump slam.

West opened the deuce of clubs and I made seven, but it did not matter. In that all expert field we were the only pair in no-trump.

CUBS MAKE FAVORS FOR HOSPITAL

Dens 1, 3 and 4 of Cub Pack 109 made Thanksgiving Favors of Turkey Nutcups and Thanksgiving Prayer for all the patients at Our Saviour's Hospital. The Favors were presented to the Hospital at a Social Hour held in the Conference Room on Saturday afternoon, November 19th. Cubs were welcomed by Sister St. John, Sister Maura, Miss Hagel, Dietitian, and Miss Goerg, Student Nurse.

FOCUS ON HEALTH

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Medical scrawls, tolerance against frostbite, and advice on 'flu shots figure in the week's medical notes:

Huh?

An ailment known as cacography stalks the land, and too many doctors have fallen victim.

Cacography is illegible handwriting. This week, Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York and the nonprofit Handwriting Foundation are seeking a cure. Courses are planned to change medical scrawls into script, and if successful the project may be extended elsewhere.

Hospital officials complain scrawled prescriptions and charts cause much lost time and confusion. The Handwriting Foundation tells of a narcotics addict who was caught forging a prescription, because he wrote it too clearly.

Frostbite Protection

Humans accustomed to working at very cold temperature can handle cold objects with their bare hands and not suffer injury as nonacclimatized persons might.

New experiments find that rabbits are far less subject to serious frostbite if they are first acclimatized to cold temperatures before being subjected to freezing temperatures. But the reason is not yet clear, say Indiana University researchers.

Special Protection

Special care to secure vaccinations against 'flu is urged by the National Tuberculosis Association upon persons who have TB, bronchitis, bronchial asthma, and other lung ailments. Such people run a higher risk of serious trouble if 'flu breaks out, it cautions.

Research on Kidney Stones

Soviet researchers say kidney stones may one day be treated by breaking them up into small pieces with ultrasonic waves—sound waves so high pitched they are not audible to the human ear. Soviet reports say preliminary experiments in test-tubes and in animals look promising.

The Berlin Tourist Office says 21,500 foreigners live permanently in Berlin, including 1,775 Israelis 1,300 Italians, 2,500 Austrians and 1,900 Poles.

BALANCE OF TRADE—Europe and the United States have always been good customers of each other. Newschart shows the business record for the last decade between this country and the two most important groups of European countries—the six members of the European Common Market (Euromart) and the seven which have joined into a Free Trade Assn. Imports from and investments in both areas increased steadily for eight years, as did U.S. exports to them. Then exports dipped while imports shot up sharply. This trend, which seems to be continuing, has caused concern in some quarters. Over the whole period of 10 years, U.S. exports to the 13 nations show a gain of only 51 per cent; on the other hand, imports climbed 260 per cent and investments 217 per cent.

TRIAL BY SLANDER

By Travis Macrae

XXIV

Marian parked the car outside the prison grounds. Janet went inside, a guard by her side, knowing that it would take all of her resources to maintain any sort of calm. The impassive face of the guard helped. I suppose he's used to my kind of celebrity, she thought.

It was a large, dreary place with a strangely uninhabited look. She was escorted to a chair in the visitors' room. When Jason was brought in, her heart jumped, and she wondered if she were going to be able to speak at all. Across the table his face betrayed such hunger and such concern that she went weak, and the sight of him, pale in his state-issued cotton clothes, his hair cropped, made her look down at the floor.

"Hello," he said, sitting down as the guard directed, his eyes never leaving her face.

"Hello," she answered hoarsely.

"Are you well now? I was so worried over you when you collapsed during the trial."

"Yes. I'm fine."

"Good. And the boys?" She looked up at him and the force of his gaze almost overwhelmed her. "Janet, don't give up. Whoever murdered Antonia may possibly give himself away somehow. Don't lose hope. Stop crying, Janet, and listen to me."

". . . give himself away," Janet echoed. She tried to pull herself together to listen to what he was saying. As he talked, her last doubt was dispelled. "He didn't do it, he didn't do it," she kept repeating under her breath. She glanced at the guard; he seemed uninterested.

". . . it's our only chance," Jason was saying. He beat one clenched first on top of the other. "But the trial is cold now. Has anyone seriously considered the possibility of someone else murdering her? If I had planned to murder Antonia, I'd have thought of a safer way. Certainly I'd not have left what amounts to a trail of bread crumbs right up to my door," he added, his eyes still fastened on hers. "Berenson's not inclined to go pounding up and down dark alleys rounding up suspicious characters, although he is doing what he can. But, Janet, I'm going to spend my life here if someone doesn't do something."

"What can I do, Jason? I'll do anything. You know that."

"You'll either have to convince someone or pay a detective. Don't you have a friend who's a policeman?" He grinned. "What about him? And think about the gun, Janet. Somebody stole that gun. That's the first step. Be unreasonable. Don't think of likely people. Think of anyone who could have seen it—friends, neighbors, kids — anyone."

"Yes. I will." A great hope filled Janet, an unreasonable thrilling hope. "Oh, I will, Jason."

He sighed, and she saw the pain in his face. "You look terribly tired, Janet," he said. "This has been awful for you."

"For me! How has it been . . . here?"

"Not too bad." He said it matter-of-factly, and Janet was reminded of the time he'd told her that the promise he'd shown had never been fulfilled.

"Oh, Jason," she whispered. "I love you so. I've missed you so terribly.'"

"I've never doubted it. But I like to hear you say it."

Gerry nosed her father's car alongside the curb in front of Cliff's apartment and took a comb and lipstick out of her purse. Every Wednesday night, Cliff's night off duty, she came over to cook dinner for him and for Billy.

She opened the door and stepped into the living room. Billy sat on the floor, a curly-headed miniature of his father, in front of the television.

Cliff came out of the kitchen. "Mrs. Hamilton wants to talk to me as soon as possible. I told her you were going to be over here, so she said for us both to stop by around nine."

"Oh, Cliff. I can't go. You go by yourself and I'll wait here with Billy."

"Don't be silly. We'll both go. I told her we would. Billy will be asleep by then. We won't be long."

"I don't want to see her. It was what I said that made her sick."

"Now, Gerry," Cliff said, putting both of his hands on her shoulders, "we've been through all this. It was just a slip of the tongue. It didn't make one bit of difference in the outcome of the trial. Mrs. Hamilton was under a strain, and if it hadn't been what you said, it would have been what someone else said. Mrs. Hamilton's not unreasonable. She doesn't hold it against you. Come along."

* * *

"When I was coming home from school the other night, I heard a couple of men talking about her. They said it was amazing what a person can get by with if they have a social position and money and an innocent face. One said he was sure that she gave him the gun and thought she'd probably bought off the police to keep quiet."

"I suppose she could have given him the gun. Not that I believe it for a minute. But I suppose she would have gotten by with it if he'd wanted to protect her."

"I suppose she couid," Cliff said placidly.

"You mean it? You really mean she could have gotten by with it."

"Sure," Cliff said. "What would you do?"

"Gosh. It gives me the chills."

Fix Tray Favors At White Hall For Veterans

WHITE HALL—Nine members of American Legion Auxiliary met at the Legion Home on Tuesday with a covered dish luncheon and made 200 tray favors in the shape of clasped hands, with candy attached to each, to be sent to the veterans at Jacksonville.

Mrs. Earl Liming is chairman in charge of rehabilitation and the favors were made under her direction.

It was voted by those present to cancel the planned soup and chili dinner to be served on Dec. 24th, due to the Christmas rush.

Past president members of the Auxiliary who belong to the Greene Jersey County past presidents parley attended the meeting in Carrollton on Monday night, held at Day's Cafe with members of the Jerseyville group as hosts. A business meeting followed the supper.

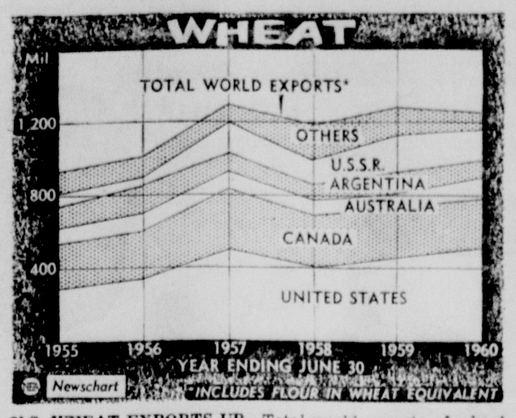

Roodhouse members will be hosts for the next regular meeting. Attending from here were Mrs. Bob Hubbard, Mrs. Roy Dugger, Mrs. E. C. Neece, Mrs. Otto Lyman and Mrs. W. C. Nettles, White Hall.

RNA Camp 987 met Tuesday night at the IOOF hall with a potluck supper served at 6:30 o'clock. Nora Goodrich, Chancellor, gave the Prayer of Grace. The committee for the supper was Dorothy M. Young, Lena Bertram and Cora Dikis. Table decorations were in the Thanksgiving theme.

During the lodge session, Teresa Kaffir was admitted to social membership. It was voted to hold the regular Christmas party on Dec. 13th, with a ham potluck supper, the lodge furnishing the meat and drink. Committees were appointed for the program, gift exchange, dining room and kitchen.

Bunco followed lodge with prizes being won by Mrs. Virgil Bowen for high; Mrs. Perry White low; Mrs. George Book, door and Mrs. Ivamae Dickerson, bunco and floating.

Your City Light & Power lends a hand in turning Jacksonville's business district into a colorfully lighted place to do your Christmas shopping.

A City Light and Power Department crew is shown arranging Christmas lights. This requires more than five full working days to complete.

This year, as in the past, your City Light & Power Department has had an active hand in turning downtown Jacksonville into a gaily lit place to do your Christmas shopping. Strings of colored lights supplied by the Jacksonville Associated Merchants have now been placed in service around the square, on East and West State, and North and South Main. The manpower and equipment for stringing the Christmas lights was cheerfully supplied by your City Light and Power Department.

This is just one of the many services your City Light & Power Department performs throughout the year at no additional cost to the citizens.

YOU BENEFIT MORE WHEN SERVED BY YOUR CITY LIGHT & POWER DEPT.

Yankees Shell Out Huge Bonus For Pitcher

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees Friday paid "one of our largest bonuses ever" to sign Howard Kitt, an 18-year-old left-handed pitcher sought by every major league club.

New General Manager Roy Hamey called the signing of Kitt, 6 feet 3, 195-pound sophomore at Columbia University, a first step in a future club policy aimed at entering full-scale competition with other teams in going after free agents. No sum was disclosed but Kitt reportedly received $50,000 plus.

The Yankees, under former General Manager George Weiss, seldom paid high bonuses to untried players.

Kitt, from Oceanside, N. Y., had a career record of 40 victories and one defeat while pitching for Oceanside High school, and recreation and sandlot teams.

Plum's Record Eyed By Norton

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The National League's leading passer, Milt Plum, and the league's interception leader, Jerry Norton, see what they can do to thwart each other's specialty Sunday when the Cleveland Browns square off against the much-improved St. Louis Cardinals.

The Browns' Plum has thrown 151 passes without a single interception. He is first in percentage of successful passes, 67.5.

Norton sharpened up his theft record with four interceptions against Washington last week and now has a total of nine—four more than the seven defensive specialists who share the No. 2 slot.

The Cards hope to trade places with the Browns in the NFL standings Sunday. The Browns are third, one peg higher than the Cards, with a 5-3 record. The St. Louis slate reads 5-4.

SIGN FOR SUB CARD

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Promoter Al Lewis announced Friday he had signed former welterweight champion Virgil Akins, of St. Louis, and Candy Mc Farland of Philadelphia for a 10-round bout at Convention Hall Dec. 6.

The fight subs for one originally scheduled between Philadelphians Charley Scott and Carl Hubbard, who was knocked out by Akins in Chicago last week.

It will be one of four 10-rounders, featured by a return meeting of Len Matthews, the No. 1 lightweight contender, and Doug Vaillant, Cuban champion, who fought a draw earlier this year.

Houston Whips Boston, 24-10

BOSTON (AP)—The Houston Oilers, guided by rookie quarterback Jacky Lee, ground out a 24-10 American Football League victory over Boston Friday night and all but clinched the Eastern Division championship.

The victory gave Houston a three-game Eastern Division lead with only three games remaining.

Houston, now 8-3, can do no worse than tie for the division title. Boston, which had won three in a row, fell into a tie with New York for second place, each with a 5-6 mark.

Lee, filling in for the ailing George Blanda for the second straight week, directed touchdown drives of 80, 41 and 63 yards, passed for one himself and set up the other two with passes.

Youth Baseball Programs Have Poor Umpiring

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The National Baseball Congress says youth baseball programs over the nation are suffering from poor umpiring. It plans to do something about the problem.

Ray Dumont of Wichita, Kan., head of the congress, announced Friday that 400 umpire associations being chartered throughout the 50 states are being asked to include a junior division of umpires 18 years of age and under.

These young umpires will be mailed monthly training material to increase their efficiency.

"At least 90 per cent of the umpires in the youth programs are not qualified and most of them don't even know the playing rules," Dumont said.

WORTHY OF ITS GREAT NAME—The fleet ballistic missile submarine USS George Washington cuts through the leaden reaches of the Atlantic, outbound from Charleston, S.C. The 100-million-dollar underseas craft opens a new era in warfare. Traveling beneath the waves on silent patrol, its 16 Polaris thermonuclear missiles are a threat of instant devastating retaliation against any aggressor thinking of surprise attack. It can stay under water almost indefinitely. Its power and relative invulnerability are unsurpassed. More of these deadly craft are to come.

Investigate Break-Ins At Two Homes In City

Jacksonville police were called to investigate two instances where homes were entered and ransacked Wednesday evening. A call received from Lloyd Burmeister at 7:25 p.m. sent police to his home, 738 North Clay Avenue, and a call from Roy Stout at 10:20 p.m. summoned police officers to his residence, 704 South Diamond Street.

At the Burmeister home officers found evidence indicating the unknown parties attempted to enter his home through a window they broke in the garage. When unable to force a door leading from the garage to the kitchen they left the garage and broke a second window in the kitchen.

Closets and cabinets were ransacked throughout the house, but nothing of value was reported missing. A small sum of money was taken. A witness who saw a light in the basement told police the incident probably was occurring about 6:15 p.m. when she noticed the light while passing.

The burglars at the Stout home forced entry through a door on the north side of the house with a screwdriver. Drawers in cabinets and dressers were ransacked and a large sum of money was taken. Police reports especially mentioned the following items as missing: six or seven silver dollars, five banks containing $125 in quarters, and $45 taken from a purse.

City police are continuing to investigate the cases in an effort to locate the burglars.

Reports Theft Of Bicycle

John Daley, 110! West College, reported Friday evening the theft of his bicycle. Daley told police officers he had parked his vehicle in front of the JHS gym and went inside for about 15 minutes. When he returned his bicycle was gone. Daley said a witness at the scene told him a Negro boy rode the bicycle south on Fayette street.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at the funeral home. The Rev. Leo Norton will officiate. Burial will be in Glasgow Cemetery.

Grass Fire Threatens Farm Near Literberry

The Jacksonville Fire Department was summoned to the Literberry area Friday afternoon to combat a large grass fire which threatened buildings on the farm occupied by C. A. Robbins. The call was received about 1:37 p.m. when the brush fire got out of control.

The farm owned by Ora Crum of Jacksonville is improved with a barn, sheds, garage and house, all of which were threatened by the large grass fire. Local firemen managed to keep the flames in check through use of a booster line and pressure tanks.

No damage was reported after the fire was finally brought under control.

Earlier in the day a grass fire had sent firemen to the home of Chub Blue at the intersection of North Sandy and Dunlap Street. Pressure tanks were used to extinguish the fire and no damage was reported.

'CUTOVER' TO BOOST VOLTAGE LEVEL

Illinois Power Company will begin the complex job of changing its Jacksonville transmission lines from 34,500 volts to 69,000 volts on Monday, Nov. 28, Clarence Senn, service area manager, has announced.

Weather permitting, the "cutover" is expected to be completed no later than Thursday, Dec. 1. Illinois Power Company expects to perform this work without any interruption to its customers. In any event, electric service will not be interrupted over a very few seconds. The conversion to higher voltage operation will require men to open switches at IPC's old power house substation and to close switches at their new substation on Anna street. These switches control the flow of electricity to their 4,000 volt distribution lines throughout the city.

Pole-mounted transformers will step this voltage down to the normal 120 or 240 volts for homes.

"Our customers won't notice any immediate change but the 69,000 volt network will provide better continuity of service," Senn said.

The company has installed shielded lines and has incorporated the latest designs in pole line construction which provides greater resistance to storm damage. The new substation on Anna, west of Main, incorporates the latest design features in construction and equipment.

The company is coordinating its cutover with a comparable change being made by Central Illinois Public Service Company. The two utilities have inter-connecting lines at two Jacksonville locations.

Practice run-throughs and weeks of planning have preceded the cutover, Senn said, so that customers will not be inconvenienced by a lengthy outage. Among the details that had to be worked out were the correct phasing of power flowing between the two companies; the testing of material and equipment involved; and the exact timing for the functions of the linemen, substation operators, and engineers taking part.

When asked what would happen if something unforseen develops, he pointed out that one interconnection with CIPS would remain energized. This tie line could then be used as long as necessary to provide an alternate supply of electricity.

After the changeover is completed, two power lines, both at the new 69,000 volt level will be in service. Either line is of sufficient capacity to handle the entire electric load in Jacksonville.

Top Level Policy Battle Develops Over 6,000 Mile Range Minuteman Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quiet but mounting revolt is being waged by Air Force officers against the notion that war can be deterred simply by aiming a small number of missiles at an enemy's population centers.

The Air Force holds that adherence to this doctrine is the road to national suicide.

A key factor in this revolt is the development of the 6,000-mile range Minuteman missile, a true push-button weapon designed for mass production.

The Minuteman, so the Air Force believes, will make it possible to abandon the theory of "deterrence by terror."

In Air Force opinion the use of terror, a threat implying mass slaughter of civilians by the military, is effective only so long as the enemy's civil and military defenses are weak, but that it will not deter a well-prepared army.

Clearly, the Air Force believes the Soviet Union is no longer susceptible to the terror deterrent.

And this is where the Minuteman missile enters the picture.

With this weapon, which is to be flight tested—two years ahead of schedule—at Cape Canaveral, Fla. next month, the Air Force believes the United States can regain clear military supremacy for the West. Minuteman can be produced in such numbers, says the Air Force that it could knock out much of the Soviet Union's nuclear missile potential with a saturation attack aimed at military zones.

Hours of background briefings by Air Force officers on the role of the Minuteman in national defense have shed considerable light on what may become a rip-snorting controversy between the services in the new administration.

Of necessity the briefings went to the heart of Air Force strategic beliefs. All the spokesmen presented the official Air Force viewpoint, but none spoke for personal attribution.

In any case, these beliefs may well mark the most significant return to the first principles of warfare made public by military planners since the beginning of the missile age.

In lectures to its own officers, the Air Force maintains that to destroy enemy cities without first destroying his military striking force is strategically and morally wrong.

The Air Force contends that to make population centers prime targets for attack would amount to an expenditure of the United States' major force against nonvital targets, leaving the enemy fully armed and with this nation at its mercy.

Thus, the Air Force has returned to an ancient military principle: An armed force exists to destroy the enemy's armed force.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, has said repeatedly in speeches: "The concept of deterrence as interpreted by some is merely the possession of military strength which could inflict severe and perhaps indiscriminate punishment upon an enemy. Apparently they disregard the need for military strength sufficient to defeat him. I cannot agree with it. If deterrence fails and a nion must fight, it must have the strength to win."

In brief, the Air Force believes an enemy can be deterred from attack or beaten if he ignores the odds, only by the existence of clear military superiority.

If both the United States and the Soviet Union have roughly equal missile forces, the Air Force contends, the Russians might be tempted to nibble away at the free world, gambling that the United States would not risk nuclear war for the sake of allies.

The Air Force also believes the bulk of the deterrent forces should be based in this nation where the enemy could not destroy them one by one.

This latter arguement is directed against the placing of our major strategic reliance on the Navy's missile-launching Polaris submarine force. Navy officers have argued dispersion of missiles at sea in submarines would insure their survival while drawing fire away from continental United States. Placing a missile striking force inside the country, they claim, simply invites domestic attack.

The Air Force raises this question: Would the United States go to war if the Russians sank one of our missile submarines? Two? Three? How far would the United States permit the Russians to go if the Soviets began a war of attrition against our submerged launching pads?

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, said it would be impossible to detect and destroy all Polaris subs since they would be mixed in with atomic-powered attack submarines. He also said he could foresee the day when missiles would have such extreme accuracy they would be able to score hits so close to underground launching sites, such as the Air Force has in mind for Minuteman, that the sites would be destroyed.

The Navy's chief also noted the mobile Minuteman would have to have tracks—and tracks can be destroyed. On the other hand, he noted, a Polaris submarine will operate in a section of the ocean as large as Texas.

Invulnerability to attack is essential to an American missile force because the United States has said it would never attack first.

The Air Force argues this invulnerability can be obtained with literally thousands of Minuteman missiles ready to fire in "hardened" underground launching tubes, or silos. With such numbers dispersed across the country, a knockout attack by the Soviet Union would be virtually impossible.

At this point the question arises: Who is going to be around after an attack to care whether the United States or the Soviet Union wins?

The Air Force briefing officers take the position that no fact about nuclear warfare should be hidden any longer from the public.

Despite considerable argument to the contrary, the Air Force insists that the vast majority of the people can survive an atomic attack if only they could be prevailed upon to build even the most rudimentary fallout shelters.

Two other points raised by Air Force briefing officers:

1. As missiles become mobile, the United States will need forces able to seek out and destroy them. To the Air Force, this means manned aircraft, preferably supersonic nuclear-powered aircraft.

2. The United States should supply nuclear missile forces to responsible allies, thereby forcing the Soviets to disperse the weight of surprise attack.

This second point is based on the assumption underlying the Western defensive alliances that attack upon one is an attack upon all, a factor the Soviets would have to consider in planning any strike. This would decrease Soviet chances of delivering a single knockout blow.

And this brings the story back to the Minuteman missile. What stage of development has it reached and what gives it more significance in Air Force opinion than other missile weapons?

The Minuteman is a relatively small missile—about 58 feet tall and 6 feet in diameter — which can be produced for less than $1 million each.

The Minuteman is the first major missile to reduce manpower requirements. Only nine men are required to service and shoot each missile. The huge, liquid-fueled Atlas and Titan missiles require the attention of about 78 men each.

The Minuteman is not designed to replace the extraordinarily accurate Atlas and Titan missiles, each of which carries a warhead with an explosive potential of well over 10 million tons of TNT.

The Minuteman will carry a much smaller warhead and is essentially a target saturation weapon. Since it has a solid fuel the Minuteman can be set off like a Roman candle.

What makes the Minuteman so important is the fact that it can be made by the thousands more quickly and more easily than liquid-fueled missiles and without bankrupting the nation in the process. This immense firepower could be aimed at Soviet military target areas to obliterate Soviet offensive ability. While the civilian population would certainly not remain unscathed under such attack, the priority targets would be military and not civilian population centers.

By 1964 the Air Force hopes to have at least 600 Minutemen dispersed across the nation, including 150 on railroad cars.

The Air Force is so convinced the Minuteman will work that 165 two-acre launching sites have already have been bought near Great Falls, Mont.

In time, the Air Force plans to have more than 2,000 of these sites scattered across the northern tier of Western states.

The first of the 500-man, 55-missile Minuteman squadrons is presently scheduled to become operational by mid-1962.

Every second the sun sends out a million times more energy than is stored in all the earth's coal, petroleum and natural gas fields.

Mrs. Gordon May Gives Land Of Lincoln Program

The Land O' Lincoln Antiques Study Group held its November meeting the 20th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Smith at Naples. The president, Mrs. Orin V. Duncan, Winchester, presided. Before the short business session she showed members a Paisley shawl, a Near East product, in bright colors and popular article of dress in Victorian times which has now become a collectors item.

Mrs. Gordon E. May, Jacksonville, presented the program, Imari Ware, assisted by Carl Ritter of Naples. History of the art was traced from 19th century, Japanese conquest into China and the birth of porcelain at Arita, with Imari the port city. The Dutch traders in taking Aritaware to other locales brought about imitations for origin of Delft ware in Holland; Meissen in Germany; Worcester, England.

Mrs. Duncan and Mr. Ritter displayed several articles. At the close of the program refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. The group will meet Dec. 18 at the Orin Duncan home in Winchester.

Royal Neighbors Meet Monday At Murrayville

MURRAYVILLE—The Murray-RNA Camp met Monday evening, Nov. 21, at the home of Mrs. S. B. Robinson in Jacksonville. The regular business meeting was held and names were drawn for the Christmas party.

The birthday of Mrs. Stella Lawson was observed with gifts from all members.

Games were played with prizes won by Mrs. Fred Simpson, Mrs. Rex Kugler, Mrs. John P. Beadles and Mrs. T. G. Beadles. During the social hour the hostess served refreshments.

Members present were Mrs. Mary Evans, Mrs. Fred Simpson, Mrs. Ernest Harding, Mrs. T. G. Beadles, Mrs. William Osborne, Mrs. Walter Helenthal, Mrs. Rex Kugler, Mrs. Tom Mason, Mrs. Sarah Wade, Mrs. Stella Lawson and the hostess.

The next meeting will be the Christmas party on Monday evening Dec. 19 at the home of Mrs. John P. Beadles.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Riggs of Pontiac, Mich., were dinner guests Thursday of his aunt, Mrs. Sadie Riggs and in the afternoon they called on his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Riggs.

Mr. Presley Weed of Franklin spent Friday with her sister, Mrs. Edgar Killebrew.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Grider of Barry were overnight guests Wednesday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Mutch.

Football Banquet At White Hall

WHITE HALL — The annual football banquet for White Hall high school was held Thursday night at the Methodist Church, sponsored by mothers of the football players. Members of the 1960 football squad, cheer leaders, fathers and special guests were present.

Table decorations were in maroon and gold souvenir footballs, programs, favors and nut cups, and mums. The speakers table was centered with a beautiful arrangement of maroon and gold mums in a ceramic holder shaped like a football.

At the close of the banquet, the flowers were divided and half sent to "Diz" McCarthy, a member of the faculty, who is a patient in Passavant hospital and half to Dean Willis, a football player in the local hospital. The floral arrangement was donated by the Harding Floral Company.

Rev. Adrain Brock, Pastor of the church, gave the invocation; welcome, Mrs. Ray Atkinson; Bill Blake, response for team and guests.

A ham dinner was served and Coach Max McIntyre was master of ceremonies. Pantomime selections were given by Barbara Harp, Rosemary Dawson, and Bonnie Sparks. Football "W's" were awarded to twenty members of the squad with appropriate remarks being made by Superintendent W. J. Ritchey.

Guest speaker was Don Shroyer head football coach at Millikin University, Decatur, his talk dealing with the advantages boys of today can derive from football.

Calhoun Women Attend Hardin Craft School

HARDIN — More than 35 women attended a one-day craft school Thursday in the Farm Bureau building in Hardin. A craft expert from St. Louis, who was scheduled to teach the course, was unable to be present because of a death in his family, and he was replaced by Mrs. Merel Inman, county crafts chairman of the Home Bureau. She was assisted in the instruction by Mrs. Arthur Clark, Home Bureau office secretary.

Mrs. Peter W. Simon, home adviser, made a hurried trip to St. Louis early Thursday morning to get materials to be used in the lesson. Among the crafts taught were mosaics, aluminum etching, glass etching, aluminum painting, and the making of wood fiber flowers.

Although the class was sponsored by the Calhoun County Home Bureau, it was open to the public, and many non members were present. Several of the women took advantage of the opportunity, and made Christmas gifts.

Amvet Auxiliary Early Birds To Dine Dec. 5th

The regular meeting of Amvets Auxiliary was held in the Club Rooms Tuesday evening, November 22. The meeting was opened by the President, Esta Lee Beadles, and the opening prayer was given by Chaplain Irene Hill.

An Early Bird dinner will be given December 5th for all members who have paid up dues and all new members. Kathleen Laughary and Esta Lee Beadles are in charge of the entertainment. Two new members were reported, Mamie Thomas and Mary Hopper, with fourteen renewals.

A bulletin was read from the State Worchid chairman regarding the $500.00 scholarship given each year to a student who qualifies. The local Worchid chairman was requested to contact the local schools to obtain the name of a student who might be interested and would be eligible.

The Auxiliary is purchasing two American flags, one to be given to Girl Scout Troop 46, and the other to Brownie Troop 23.

The annual White Clover sale will be held by the Amvets on December 10th, and volunteer workers are requested to report Friday evening, December 9th, or Saturday December 10th.

Plans are being made for the annual Christmas party, which will be a dinner followed by a gift exchange and party on December 18th. Irene Sanders and Irene Hill were appointed to make more definite plans.

After the closing prayer by the Chaplain, the meeting adjourned until December 13th at 8 o'clock p.m.

Salem Lutheran PTL Meets; See Family Film

The annual monthly meeting of the Salem Lutheran Parent-Teacher League was held on Nov. 16 in the school basement. The meeting was opened with devotions led by Rev. H. C. Rose.

The program for the evening was centered around a filmstrip entitled, "The American Family and Religion." It was taken from "This Is The Life Film Series." The film presented a panel discussion concerning religion and the home. Following the film was a discussion period led by Mr. Henry Meyer.

The minutes were read by the secretary and approved. The treasurers report was also given and approved. The treasurer asked for a report on the Christmas card sales.

Children from Salem Lutheran School served as volunteers for the UNICEF Drive. A report was given by the athletic committee. Thirty-five dollars is to be spent on equipment. The first game of the season was held on Nov. 15 and another game is scheduled for the twenty-fifth of Nov.

There was discussion concerning the distribution of candy to the children at the Christmas Eve service.

Two new tables and additional chairs have been purchased for the school cafeteria.

The meeting adjourned with the Lord's Prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mr and Mrs. Joe Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. William Strubbe, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tomhave, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tomhave, Mrs. Ann Steele and Mr. Leurs Maas.

When you finish cooking a batch of french fried potatoes put them in a clean paper bag to absorb any extra fat. If the bag is set in a warm oven it will keep them hot until ready to serve.

DISCOUNT YOUR WAY TO A PROFIT
WE WANT 25 HOUSES right away. We have $3,000,000 New York money for no down payment loans for veterans. Your house will sell promptly. You must stand a discount for cash, but if you have owned your house for several years the inflation will more than cover the market discount, and you can still make a profit. Your house may be in any city or village. Or any farming area. Must be a good home for veteran with family. Price not to exceed $15,000. Phone us for inspection.

from ages 18 to 51. Prepare now for U. S. Civil Service job openings in this area during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay as high as $446.00 a month to start. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service helps thousands prepare for these tests every year. It is one of the largest and fastest growing privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

For FREE information on Government jobs, including list of positions and salaries, fill out coupon and mail at once — TODAY. You will also get full details on how you can qualify yourself to pass these tests. Don't delay — Act NOW!
